Track practice will begin as soon as the spring weather permits. Every boy is urged to partake in this beneficial and popular sport.

As a result of the preliminary declamatory contest held last Friday afternoon the following will compete in a public contest in April: Inger Olson, Kenneth Olson, Charles Johnson, Abby McCoy, Edie Matkin and Helen Larson.

The English II class has begun the study of "Midsummer Night's Dream" by Shakespeare. It is filled with all the playful fancy so popular in Shakespeare's time.

On March 1 in the 8th grade room, 16 boy scouts under the direction of Mr. McMillan conducted a checker tournament. Carl Donaldson and Archie Bolster tied, each winning nine games. After the tournament lunch was served.

"Am I Intruding," the all high school play to be given March 15th at the Orpheum promises to be a great success. Bring your friends and don't forget the date—March 15.

On Wednesday afternoon at 4:00 o'clock a make-up grammar class was organized to give pupils who wish a chance to brush up on grammar, without taking time from classes that should be used for other purposes.

There has been a great decrease in the absence record this last week. For several days we had almost perfect attendance.

Earl Strubeck had the misfortune to meet with an accident while working in the Sorem Grocery Store. It is feared that he may have to discontinue school for awhile. We all hope that he may soon be with us again.

The first graders are having live lessons in politeness.

The second graders have been learning America. Sixteen boys and thirteen girls have recited it perfectly.

Miss Baker entertained some of the grades on Wednesday afternoon with Cello solos.

The honor roll for the 8th grade: Mildred Erickson, Arthur Marsh, Sanford Egge, Beatrice Debing, Arnold Olson.

7th grade—August Ibsen, Alice Barner.

The 7th and 8th graders are doing art work in pastel colors and are doing some very fine work. Among those who have finished their work are three very good ones—Lester Guenther's, Arthur Marsh's and Marie Senechal's.

Fourth Grade honor roll: Margaret Storkan, Rodney Stambaugh, Cecilia White, Nola Jorgenson, Roger Christianson and Lucile Toftness.

The senior class combined its DMO and class party on Friday evening. To begin with a group sang, "Hail, Hail!" Several senior girls then staged a short play, "How the Story Grew." Between courses of the lunch Kenneth Olson was the chief entertainer with a Swedish reading and two songs with guitar accompaniment. After the lunch a program was given by faculty members: solos by Miss Kimball and Miss Njaa; a piano duet by Mr. Cady and Mr. Behm. Miss Sateren gave a novelty performance in a dance. Leonard Olson then played some selections on the accordion. The party broke up after singing "Home Sweet Home."

Editorial by Leonard Olson

A person is often and rightly judged by his surroundings. His manner of caring for himself and his property is a safe way to estimate a person's general habit of life. If a person cares little for his own property it is certain that he will care little for that belonging to others, and since, in this life we so often have to use the property of others, we should form good habits of carefulness.

In school we are constantly fighting the pupil who insists on carving his name and that of others on desks, woodwork and chairs. He is looking for a place to put his gum so he will not have the humiliation of going to the wastebasket with it so he puts it under his desk. To the person doing the offense it seems but slight but it leads to more and it might encourage some one else to do the same. In time we shall have to organize to clean the gum from under chairs so

WOLF POINT QUINT ARE HOOP CHAMPS

Glasgow, Mar. 3.—Wolf Point captured the first annual independent basketball tournament for northeastern Montana teams by defeating the Glasgow quint 19 to 9 in the final game.

Both squads resorted to defensive tactics in an effort to hold down opponent's score but Wolf Point succeeded in connecting for more shots at her own basket.

Brockton took third place when Poplar forfeited at the beginning of the second half of their game. Brockton was leading 15 to 5 at the end of the first half. A disagreement with the referee brought about the break.

Glasgow defeated Nashua 44 to 13 in the first game while Wolf Point won from Poplar 19 to 12. Glasgow continued in the running by handing Saco a 29 to 18 defeat, the first suffered by the visitors in two seasons.

Wolf Point disposed of Brockton 28 to 12 and earned the right to enter the finals against Glasgow.

The all tournament selections included Ted Illman of Glasgow and Buddy Smith of Wolf Point, forwards; Ray Boe of Wolf Point, center and Fred Haynes, Poplar, and Dale Lund, Brockton, guards.

Illman was high point man with 49 points made in three games. He accounted for 22 points in a single contest. Glasgow was the best scoring team with 81 points, 44 of which came in one game.

Zahl lake being picked for the reason that nearly all land surrounding it is owned by Mrs. Mary Zahl, who is co-operating with the league, being anxious to have the tract set aside in this manner in memory of her husband, who was an ardent sportsman.

Phone Company Reduces Connection Charges

On February first of this year the A. T. & T. Company and The Mountain States T. & T. Company made a reduction in all long distance telephone rates and is now following this up with another very substantial reduction. This reduction has to do with service connections and equipment moves.

It will be noticed that the following reduced charges are for the connecting of service and does not affect the regular monthly rates; the charge for connecting a residence main telephone has been reduced from $3.50 to $2.50 and residence extension telephones, still more, from $3.50 to $1.00, while business extension telephones cost only $1.25 instead of $3.50 as before. The cost of connecting instruments, already in place, is now reduced to $1.00 regardless of the amount of equipment involved.

Heretofore a charge of $3.00 has been made for changing types of equipment or moving instrument from one location to another; now it is reduced to $1.00.

This, according to the announcement, is in accord with the Bell Telephone System's policy of providing the most telephone service and the best, at the least cost to be public.

ment in Washington from October 1918 to February 1919 and held the rank of colonel.

The other surprise cabinet member is former Governor Arthur M. Hyde of Missouri, who will be secretary of agriculture. This selection was revealed last night.

Mr. Hoover draws from the camp of his leading pre-convention foe, former governor Frank O. Lowden of Illinois, in bringing Hyde into his official family. Hyde supported Lowden for the presidential nomination.

Hyde, who is 51, has participated in farm relief movements. Lowden was champion of the McNary-Haugen bill which Mr. Hoover refused to espouse. The selection came as a distinct surprise to officials at Washington.

and followed it. Coolidge and Hoover kept their silk hats waving.

Over Famous Route
The route of the inaugural parade, as well, followed the course laid down a century and more ago, from capitol to White House, over that memory thronged mile of Pennsylvania avenue. Hoover's arrival at the White House was timed to coincide with that of Vice President-elect Curtis and his sister, Mrs. Edward Gann, from the Mayflower hotel.

The ceremony prescribed for inauguration of the vice president was brief—a few parting words from Dawes, administration of the oath of office to his successor, and then a short inaugural address by the new vice president. It was the first time microphones had been set in place in the senatorial citadel to carry the spoken words of the ceremony to the world outside.

As soon as the vice presidential speech making was over, Hoover was called to take the oath of office and deliver the inaugural address.

Hoover appeared on the platform at 12:37 p. m., ready to take the oath. Four bugles flourishes signaled his approach. Slight rain was falling. Hoover took a seat in the center, with Coolidge on his left. Taft already was in his seat on the right.

When all had been quieted the clerk of the supreme court C. Elmer Cropley, stepped forward holding the little Bible on which Hoover had chosen to seal his obligation.

Cropley handed the Bible to Taft, who advanced to Hoover's left at the front of the platform. Holding the Bible in his left hand, the chief justice repeated the words of the presidential oath he himself took 20 years ago Monday, and Hoover repeated it after him in words that carried over the crowd:

"I do solemnly swear that I will faithfully execute the office of president of the United States, and will, to the best of my ability, preserve, protect and defend the constitution of the United States."

Then as President Hoover bent forward and kissed the open book, the crowd set up a tremendous roar. Coolidge, an ex-president shook hands with his successor.

With head uncovered, the new president began at once the delivery of his inaugural address. He read in a steady voice, looking up at intervals as the light rain tumbled on an unsteady breeze, whipped in under the high roof and pattered on his face.

The crowd applauded when he declared he proposed to execute and enforce the laws of the country, "to the extent of my own abilities, but the measures of success that the government shall attain will depend upon the moral support which you, as citizens, extend."

A moment later many of his listeners stamped their feet and cheered as he declared he intended to appoint a national commission for a searching investigation of the federal system of jurisprudence, to include the method of enforcement of the 18th amendment and the "causes of abuse under it."

On 1928 taxes assessed against Wm. E. Bucholz on lot 10, block 2, original townsite of Medicine Lake, were ordered cancelled as payment had been tendered before delinquency.

At 12 noon the board recessed until 2 p. m.

At two o'clock the board resumed, all members of the board and the clerk present.
