FOR QUALITY IN EDUCATION
Accuracy and Efficiency the Two Main Requisites for the Business World of To-day.

Accuracy and efficiency are qualities very much needed in the social organism. Business men complain of the lack of these qualities in the products of the schools. Making some allowances for the probability that business men often expect too much of inexperienced youth and forget how slowly they themselves became skillful through many failures, it is still likely that our educational methods are defective in the matter of training pupils to be accurate in observation, in expression, in computations and in drawing conclusions. Those who complete a school course ought to be sure of something and efficient in doing. They should know what they know and know that they are ignorant of what they do not know. The vagueness of the acquirements of many products of the schools is such that the possessors make guesses without mental scruples or apprehensions. It is safe to say as much as this in the way of suggesting a remedy, quality in education should never be sacrificed to quantity. Carelessness should never be tolerated in the class room, either in speech or act or thought. Mental alertness should be cultivated and made a habit.

GREAT BIG BAKED POTATOES!

They're a feature of the Northern Pacific's Dining Car Service. They weigh at least two pounds apiece. They are fine! So is the service in general. Tender meats; good fish; eggs from our own poultry farm; bread, cakes, pies and ice cream made at our own bakeries in Seattle and St. Paul; Washington creamery butter; milk in individual bottles; whipped cream for coffee.

All prepared by expert chefs and served by experienced waiters—a corps of Dining Car Instructors is maintained to keep the service "up to the handle."

Northern Pacific Ry

Provides service that sets the pace—not only in its Dining Cars, but all the way through.

Several electric-lighted trains East and West every day. Low Summer Tourist Fares. Let me help you plan your trip.
