MONEY OF ANCIENT DATE

Valuable Collection in the Possession of Elias Matter.

One of Them Is a Moorish Syracusan Coin of 480 B. C.—Wishes to Sell Them.

Elias Matter, formerly a banker at Cairo, Egypt, is stopping at 1851 Ninth street northwest, and he has with him a wonderful collection of rare coins and antique jewelry, which he wants to sell to the Government for exhibition at the Smithsonian Institution.

Twelve or fifteen years ago when Arab Pasha and his Moslem followers massacred nearly all the Christians in his territory, Mr. Matter was compelled to desert his bank and flee for his life. He took with him his valuable collection, the work of a lifetime, and after many adventures succeeded in escaping. He went to Europe and finally came to this city. He has a number of letters of introduction from prominent archaeologists in New York and other cities, and is accompanied by Dr. A. J. Arbeely, editor of the Kawab of America, issued in New York, and which is the only Arabic paper published in this country.

When seen by a Times reporter yesterday Mr. Matter was very enthusiastic over his collection of coins, and if they are what he represents them to be he has a right to be enthusiastic. In the collection is a Moorish coin. It has on one side a head of Arethusa. The hair on the head is netted. Around the head are dolphins swimming and they meet at the nose of the profile, which Mr. Matter says means that when the coin was minted the island of Syracuse was connected with the mainland by a causeway. The lower dolphin bears the name "Timor," from which fact the date of the coin is placed at 480 B. C. The word "Syrakosion," meaning Syracuse, is also on the coin.

Other coins possessed by Mr. Matter, he claims, are Phoenician, Greek, Roman and Kufaan. A gem is a Roman coin of the time of Pope Antonius Pius. Another valuable Roman coin represents a victory over the Moors. A Greek coin with the head of a king on it is very rare, and Mr. Matter says that it is the only one in this country.

An attractive coin is a Hebrew one of the reign of Herod Agrippa. On it are three ears of wheat, which stand for three years of the reign of Herod the Great, about 37 A. D.

Mr. Matter has many other coins of lesser antiquity, but of an interesting character. He said that he obtained them while pursuing his business as banker and pawnbroker, or money lender, at Cairo. He will submit his letters and curios to the Smithsonian people for examination and investigation, with a view to selling them to the Government. He needs money, having lost his fortune when he fled from Egypt.
