KEARNEY AND KALLOCH. A Few Pungent Remarks Concerning the "Tribune" Editorial. Something About that Philanthropic Record Among Gamblers and Free Lunch Friends. Editors Herald: I was greatly surprised on reading in the pages of your down town contemporary, on last Sunday morning, an article headed "Kearney and Kalloch" and could hardly believe my senses that such an article could have the sanction of the benevolent countenances of individual who preside over the destinies of that journal, and who, according to the Virginia Enterprise, left such a very philanthropic record among the gamblers and free lunch friends of that city.

The Geological Survey. We take pleasure in announcing that a branch office of the Geological Survey has been opened in this city. Our readers will probably remember that Congress, more than a year ago, effected a reorganization of the geological work under the auspices of the government. The surveys of the interior department, conducted by Major Powell and Dr. Hayden, and the survey of the war department, conducted by Captain Wheeler, were discontinued and in place of them there was established a single United States Geological Survey. The editor of the director of the Geological Survey was created, and it was provided that it should be filled by executive appointment. Mr. Clarence King, who has won distinction not only as chief of the frontier parallel survey but as a mining expert, received the appointment, and a corps of geologists was organized. In the subdivision of the work the division of the Great Basin, a broad district extending from the West coast to Sierra Nevada, was assigned to Mr. G. F. Becker and Mr. G. K. Gilbert. Mr. Becker devoting himself exclusively to mining and other economic matters, and Mr. Gilbert to problems of general or theoretical geology.

NO WAR. SALT LAKE CITY, Nov. 17, '80. Editors Herald: There seems to be a presumption prevailing that the U. P. Co. designs to make war in the matter of the Utah Eastern Railroad. Whether or not this presumption is correct, is not for me to say, and the U. P. is very reticent on the subject. There must be two parties at least to a war, otherwise it is only an assault of greater or less magnitude and violence. As a supporter of the U. P., I shall make no war, shall engage in none, shall submit my voice for peace. I do not think there need be any war. I think the matter should take the form of friendly and commendable emulation—which can serve the community best in the business of the U. P. Co. U. P. Co. U. E. The situation at present is this—the U. P. controls the coal supply, the amount supplied is far from sufficient, the quality of much of the coal is poor, and the price is high. To the first point, in itself, there need be objection. The other three are good causes of complaint. The result is, some of the community are building a short cut, to bring more coal, of better quality, and at a lower price. There is nothing atrocious, nothing treacherous, nothing criminal, nothing illegal, nothing immoral, nothing like a declaration of war on the U. P. Co. The people are in a snap, and they are putting their shoulders in various ways to the wheel to help themselves out of the snap, instead of calling upon Jupiter to go it for them.

Accidentally Shot. On Sunday last Mr. Al. Harris, son of Mr. Joseph Harris, of this city, met with a painful accident at Terrace. It seems that the injured party was handling a pistol, and while in the act of returning the weapon to his hip pocket, it went off. The bullet struck the young man in the right hip, striking the bone, glancing downwards about five inches. As soon as it happened the young man took the train for Ogden, and when arrived at Ogden, he was sought out by a surgeon, who extracted the ball. The injured man then came to Ogden, where he is at present stopping. The wound is not thought to be dangerous.—Ogden Journal.

CHIPS. God's eating should be had in day or two. Everything continues very quiet about the Police Court. No bulletin shipments from the south last night, so far as reported. Dwyer will get the Popular Monthly and Harper's by the noon mail today. Prof. Hamill and daughter were to have given readings in O. Geo. 101.99. The bulletin shipments on Wednesday aggregated but the sum of $15.00. Chas. Cole, the Ogden seduction fellow, has been arraigned and pleads not guilty. Water is pretty scarce at present; the cold snap delaying it in many parts of the city. General C. C. Rich, Dr. Benedict states, is steadily improving, and can talk much plainer now. The burg at the junction of the Union and Central Pacific Railroads is in a bad fix about coal. The dictum on Ma street overflown in places on Wednesday evening, because of freezing. A race at Ogden, on Tuesday, between "Mary Emory" and "Major King," was won by the former. The Union Pacific was so late last night, that the Utah Central did not wait; hence there was no eastern mail. If we only have plenty of snow again this winter, and plenty of coal, we will hardly feel disposed to quarrel with the cold. A good many complaints are coming from persons who have gone to get work on the Rio Grande road, that they have been deceived. A young man named Isaac Brown, of Draperville, had his right hand badly injured by the accidental discharge of his shotgun while hunting on Monday. The signal service report shows that the mercury fell as low as 4° on Wednesday morning; the highest thermometer was 18°, being still 14° below freezing point. Friends Times—The owners of mines in the district are making preparations for a vigorous winter campaign. The chances are that some of the boys will strike it rich, before spring. Mr. G. F. Calmer is extending his counter and shelves room in his retail store. He says that he had no option and was compelled to do so, having been unaccountably crowded before. Phebe Isabelle Doran, wife of Hugh Doran, will be buried from the Thirteenth Ward Schoolhouse, at 11 o'clock a.m., to-day. Friends of the family are respectfully invited to attend.

When the mining interests of California and Nevada had been consolidated into a huge machine for the oppression and spoliation of the masses, which continued its workings with unparalleled success down to 1877, when the people, Kearney among the number, were, in consequence of the desiginingly false representations issuing from a subsidized press, robbed of every cent of their honest earnings, and the mines, at that period, suddenly giving out, they were left penniless during the winter and hard times that ensued, it is to be wondered at that there should have been denunciations of their defrauder's fond and deep, and had there been some help stretching by some of those black-hearted scoundrels who had been engaged in plundering wholesale the honest and industrious poor, I do not believe that humanity would have had much just cause to mourn. I venture to say that for every dollar that has ever come out of the mines the people of California have been robbed of over $100 by stock manipulators. The writer glows over Kearney's having been sent to prison in defiance of all law and justice, and calls him a craven bandit. Were he the writer, (which I feel assured three never will be any hope of his doing, for rotten, and in accordance with an unalterable law of nature, invariably flow along with the current) to enter into a contest against the basest and most unscrupulous mercenary that has ever disgraced God's footstool, beings who rule absolutely, in town and state, by the power of wealth plundered from their credulous and confiding dupes, and to permit no obstacle to block up their pathway—who recognize more than those who are willing to obey for a price their iniquitous behests—who have debauched justice and public opinion until the courts are reeking with perfidy, and the rocks with the stench of corruption, and friends of honesty and good government have almost become mythical, he, too, might exhibit some hesitancy as he set about his mission of reformation. Success seems to have misled Kearney and to have made him forget the mission upon which he first started, but I believe he has never been even accused of betraying the confidence of his follower's or of laying snares for the purpose of deceiving them.

Third District Court. Proceedings at the District Court on Wednesday, Chief Justice Hunter presiding: C. W. Bennett vs. N. C. Boatman et al.; dismissed at plaintiff's cost. W. B. Folsom vs. L. J. Rice et al.; default heretofore entered; judgment as prayed. J. S. Woodmansee et al. vs. James Keary et al.; trial in progress. Margaret Haslam vs. John R. Haslam; default heretofore entered; order granted allowing $150 attorney's fees and costs. Court adjourned until Thursday morning at 10 o'clock.

Coal Miners Wanted. Fifty Coal Miners wanted, to whom steady employment will be given for the winter. Apply at the office of the Rocky Mountain Coal and Iron Company, Alamy, Wyoming Territory. A Lucky Find. On Wednesday, as W. S. McCormick, Esq., was coming up the side leading into the rear enclosures of the Third District Court, he picked up a roll of greenbacks, amounting to $63. He gave it to Judge Hunter, who announced the finding of the money, and stated that anyone proving the money could have it. In a short time a gentleman stepped in and proved the money, and it was returned to him. He had dropped it out of his vest pocket.

On Gov. Neil. The Boise City Democrat says: "Gov. Neil and family arrived from Oregon yesterday, and are at the Overland hotel." We are glad to learn that after three months time Gov. Neil has finally arrived in Idaho. The affairs of the territory have seemed to have been managed all right, however, without him. Perhaps it would be just as well to abolish the office of governor, and let the secretary perform its duties, and apply the money so uselessly expended for the benefit of the territory.—Blackfoot Register.

That Rumpus. On Wednesday the case of the people against one Hamilton, charged by one Case, of the Tenth Ward, with assault and breaking his windows by throwing rocks through them, as stated on Wednesday morning, came up before Judge Eyer. After a hearing, which developed an old grudge between the parties, Hamilton was adjudged guilty and fined $20 and costs. He announced an appeal, and was looking about for bonds last evening. Should he secure them, he will be tried before Commissioner Sprague this morning on a similar charge.
