

EXPRESS LINES MAY COMBINE

All Big Companies Are Expected to Be in Merger Deal.

SOUTHERN PACIFIC ISSUE

MISSOURI PACIFIC BENT ON OUTDOING EARNINGS RECORD.

A COMBINATION of express companies sweeping in character and of stupendous magnitude has been mapped out and is expected to become an accomplished reality. In fact, a report is circulating to the effect that a basis has already been reached for the exchange of securities of the several companies in the deal. The express business has been remarkably profitable of late years, and proof of the assertion is found in the high prices at which the stocks of the various companies sell in the open market.

Wells, Fargo & Co. issued a balance sheet a few days ago, showing the profits of its express business during the last fiscal year. The exhibit indicated a profit of from 25 to 40 per cent on the capital stock, and the other express companies are able to make an equally good showing. The figures give some idea of the enormity of the earnings of the various companies, and it is little wonder that influences have been created which seek the combination of these great wealth-producing interests.

The surprise is that they have not been brought about before. While the present movement to bring about a concentration of the various express interests may not bear fruit at this time, railroad people who are in touch with this department believe that a consolidation is only a question of time and they expect to receive official intelligence of the consummation of these plans almost any day. A railroad man said yesterday: "It is one of the certainties of the immediate future, and I have been expecting it for a long time."

WILL SMASH RECORDS.

Russell Harding Predicts Phenomenal Missouri Pacific Earnings.

All money earning records of the Missouri Pacific will be wiped out next year if the predictions of its officials are realized. Vice President Russell Harding, who was in this city recently, made the assertion a few days ago that he was looking for an increase of 10 per cent in the gross earnings of the road. This sum on an old and well established road like the Missouri Pacific means an enormous increase, much greater than on a road which is constantly opening new territory, but it is believed that if present conditions count for anything it will be done. Mr. Harding says that the net earnings will show a percentage of increase surpassing the gross figures.

Much of this increase is made possible in the reduction of operating expenses. The road has been putting a great deal of money into the property and is still doing so, but the amount to be expended next year will be considerably reduced. Mr. Harding expects that the gross gain will be the deficit during the next months or so that are covered by the movements of the corn crop, and for other similar reasons, somewhat remarkable variations will be shown in the earnings. He says that this year the best results were shown in the wheat months, and while there promises to be a falling off in the yield this year, he believes that the deficit will be made up by the new territories reached by extensions of the road.

The system is extending its Iron Mountain road down the Mississippi river, but the work has been retarded by the fact that the vast amount of construction going on throughout the country has made it impossible to get enough men. The road expects to affect a junction with the Texas & Pacific by the first of the year, but the work will be delayed beyond that time. Mr. Harding said that there was nothing in the rumors concerning a change in the relationship between the Union Pacific and the Missouri Pacific.

BIG BOND ISSUE.

Southern Pacific Planning the Elaboration of Its System.

It is understood that the executive committee of the Southern Pacific has recommended a 4 per cent bond issue amounting to $100,000,000. The report is not denied, and while it is not officially admitted, it is the general belief that the statement is true. The foundation. The improvements under way and those in contemplation are directed towards the consummation of plans that will make the system one of the most magnificent of the world. When the road improvements now under way are completed, attention will be given to the equipment, and this, it is said, is the most important of western railroad traffic. Splendor of system is engaging the attention of all western lines, and the primary equipment of the Southern Pacific is to astonish the world. The Santa Fe was the first to arouse this spirit of extravagance, and the other lines have been quick to pick up the idea.

The Southern Pacific company is the financial corporation of the Southern Pacific railroad of California and its allied lines. Its authorized capital is $200,000,000, the greater part of which has been issued. The proposed bond issue will doubtless carry some "rights" constituting, in effect, a dividend on Southern Pacific stock. In the event of the issue a large sum will be expended in the improvement of the property.

BRAKEMAN SQUEEZED.

T. E. Bell of the Rio Grande Crushed Between Cars at Depot.

Thomas E. Bell, a brakeman on the Rio Grande Western, barely escaped death last night when two cars bumped together, pinning the man between the couplings. He was finally removed from his perilous position, but sustained injuries which are considered serious.

Bell was engaged in coupling cars, and went between two sections of a freight train. They crushed together before he was able to extricate himself, and he was held firmly until others who had been standing on the stomach, liver and bowels. For sale by Godde-Pitts Drug company.

PRAISE FOR DEAD MAN

Funeral of Judge Kinney Attended
by Old Friends—Bishop
Whitney's Eulogy.

The last rites over the body of Judge John Finch Kinney, the noted jurist and statesman of Utah's pioneer days, who passed away early Saturday morning, were performed yesterday afternoon at his late home, 732 South Fifth East street. After the services the remains were taken in charge by Undertaker J. E. Taylor, who will at noon today ship them to San Diego, Cal., where they will be interred.

The services, which were attended by many of Utah's well known pioneers, were commenced by a quartette, composed of Thomas S. Ashworth, Robert Siddoway, Herbert A. White and George Bows, singing the hymn, "I Need Thee Every Hour." After an invocation by Aurelius Miner, a personal acquaintance of the dead jurist, who traveled over the plains with him, a reading by the quartette and a rendition by the quartette of "Oh, My Father," Bishop Orson Whitney paid a glowing tribute to the honesty and integrity of character of the deceased.

"My personal acquaintance with Judge Kinney was but brief," said Bishop Whitney, in part, "although I knew him by repute in my childhood days, yet I did not meet him till three years ago. He was a friend to the people of Utah. He stood by them at all times and never wavered, and no matter where he happened to be, always spoke a good word for this state and its inhabitants."

"Although an easterner by birth, he was a westerner by adoption, feeling a deep sympathy for the people of Utah and their religion. Although he never adopted it, as far as I know, he always championed the cause of the Mormons, and where thousands arrayed themselves against the church he always proved himself their friend and refused to join in the persecution. Is it any wonder he was loved by this people? Is it any wonder these people went him to congress to represent them?"

Bishop Whitney offered consolation to the widow and the mourners in the fact that the judge is not dead. His present sleep is merely a step in the eternal progress, the speaker urged. He is at rest in the paradise of God, and on the day that the trumpet sounds he will rise with the resurrection of the just.

The services were concluded by the quartette singing, "We Shall Meet Beyond the River," after which Bishop Iverson pronounced benediction.

Foresters of America.

The excursion to Saltair on Foresters' day was a grand success. Visiting Foresters from California, Colorado, New York and other states were in attendance and spent a most enjoyable day. The excursion was the first of the kind since the Foresters of America, who were delighted to meet the large delegation of Foresters of America. The excursion was thronged with Foresters and companions of the Forest until the departure of the last train.

Court Salt Lake was well attended on Wednesday evening and much important business received attention. Several candidates were initiated and four applicants received. Chief Ranker Rees made happy remarks, and introduced the new member, Brother W. D. Harrington, organizer for the jurisdiction, who briefly outlined the work and was well received by the good of the order in Utah. Brother Harrington will have permanent quarters in this city, but most of his work will be in the interior towns of the state. Two new courts are in process of formation, and will be instituted within a few days.

Court of Obedience is prospering, and the members are working for the greatest percentage of gain in membership. The lodge will be initiated at the next meeting. If Court Wasatch keeps up the good work the grand lodge will go to Obedience.

The grand executive council held a special meeting on Saturday evening to meet the organizer and make arrangements for the organization of courts in all the principal towns in Utah. Salt Lake factory arrangements have been made and the organizer has started to work. James Macbeth, deputy supreme chief, and Earl J. Geiger, chairman of the grand trustees, all of Obedience, were in attendance at the council meeting and wished the organizer a hearty goodspeed.

The grand chief ranker will soon make official visits to the courts and endeavor to encourage the members to greater activity.

Cutting down thistles no more relieves the head of thistles than does scouring the scalp cure dandruff. In each case permanent relief can only come from eradicating permanently the cause. WATER FOR UAB AND SANPEPE

Interest of Federal Government
Desired in Big Reservoir.

TASK TOO HEAVY FOR PEOPLE

REPRESENTATIVE SUTHER- LAND TO VISIT SITE.

AN effort will be made within the next couple of weeks to so interest federal officials in the Mammoth reservoir proposition in Sanpete county, that they may see their way clear to recommending to the government that it step in and purchase the property and complete it under the provisions of the irrigation bill passed at the last session of congress. As the matter now stands, the present stockholders can hardly complete the project, owing to the enormous cost, which is greater than first anticipated. The idea is to have the government buy it outright, including a right of way to those who have interested themselves in the project, then complete the reservoir and sell water and the lands under the canal and ditches, in accordance with the irrigation law now in effect.

Inspection of Site.

About the first of next month, Francis Newell, chief of the division of hydrography, whose office is in Washington, and who was here several weeks ago, will return to Salt Lake from the Pacific coast on his way east. Congressman Sutherland and others who have been more or less identified with the Mammoth reservoir will ask Mr. Newell to visit the site and look it over. Their object is to secure an expression from him whether he thinks the proposition is a feasible and practical one. If he so decides, then the question of inducing the government to invest under the provisions of the new irrigation law will be taken up. Mr. Newell is probably the greatest living expert on irrigation. He has written a book on it, after a research and study of the subject covering a period of more than twenty-five years. His addresses and short articles on irrigation, which have been extensively published and favorably commented upon, are almost without number.

For Juab County Lands Also.

Representative Sutherland said yesterday afternoon that it would be his duty to visit the site of the Mammoth reservoir, and to determine whether the project is a project worthy of the expenditure of more money in its completion. He said that he had spent, with results far from satisfactory. Should the government complete the reservoir, it is the hope of those who are interested in the project, that the scope of the project be extended so as to include lands beyond those located in Juab county.

It is possible that Mr. Newell might decide that the reservoir is a feasible project, but at the same time hesitate to recommend that the government be interested to the extent of buying it and reimbursing those who have expended large sums of money. In event that the government does not lend financial assistance, but the stamp of approval is placed on the project by the chief of the division of hydrography, it will be of great benefit in the raising of more money to complete the reservoir.

SERMON IN TABERNACLE.

Elder Penrose Expounds Mormon Gospel to Many Strangers.

The fundamental principles of the Latter-day Saint religion were the theme of the discourse delivered yesterday afternoon in the tabernacle by Elder Charles W. Penrose. He had a large audience, which filled almost every seat on the main floor of the edifice. This particular subject was selected by him as being of great interest to the many strangers who were in the city, the majority of whom, he took for granted, knew nothing about the Mormon religion beyond what they had heard from irresponsible parties or read in books and magazines which are not friendly to the church. He said it was a Bible of their own, explaining that the one they use is the same as the Bible found in every Protestant church. Elder Penrose took the position that revelations are as possible today as they were before the time of Christ, because Christ is the truth, and truth is the same today as it was in the beginning. Some times, by a careful line of argument, to explain why the Latter-day Saints believe the Eternal Father is a God in form and not an invisible spirit, as other denominations teach.

A SUNDAY WEDDING.

Nuptials of Mr. B. F. Watkins and Mrs. Zina Lambourne.

Yesterday, at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. C. E. Penrose, was witnessed the marriage of Mrs. Zina A. Lambourne and Mr. Benjamin F. Watkins. The ceremony was performed by Bishop Joseph W. Penrose, assisted by nearly 100 of the friends of the bride and groom. The date chosen was the eighty-fourth birthday of the bride's mother, which was fittingly observed after the ceremony.

The rooms were prettily decorated for the affair, the parlors in pink and green and the dining room in sunflower. The bride was dressed in a gown of white silk tulle, over pink, and carried white roses. Mr. and Mrs. Watkins will be at home after Sept. 1 at 58 Apple street.

SALOONS WERE OPEN

Liquor Traffic on the Sabbath
Through Side Doors—Lagoon Under Ban.

"The front doors of the saloons were closed today," said Chief of Police Paul last night when questioned concerning the progress of the moral crusade, which was instituted a few weeks ago and which died an easy death a short while later.

"Yes, the front doors were closed, but it's a mighty hard law to enforce," said Sunday liquor ordinance," continued the chief. "People tell me about other towns where there is not a drop of liquor sold on Sundays, but I don't believe it. Gambling and drinking are two of the most difficult things to handle which come under my supervision. I don't know about the back doors, but the front doors were closed."

In some cases the front doors of the saloons were closed, but it was not so in all cases. The ordinance was not so strictly enforced in some cases as in others. The saloon keepers closed the doors nor to signify their willingness to follow his commands.

As a rule, however, few of the places where liquor is sold in the city of Salt Lake were closed yesterday to any who desired to buy. If anyone wanted a drink it was his own fault. He wanted to be secured all he wanted for the asking, provided he had the price. Side doors were lined and blocked with men, and in some instances the front entrance appeared to have the best of it in popularity.

The only place where the stein was withheld was at Lagoon. Many who were not on the inside of the saloons, ways of the city decided to spend the day at the Davis county resort and drink till they were tired of drinking. They went out with that expectation, but returned soon disappointed and disgusted. They were informed that no liquor could be sold at that place on account of a recent ordinance passed by the council, prohibiting the sale of intoxicants on Sunday. Yesterday was the first day that the new law had been in operation. It is not likely, however, that those who insist on having drinks at Lagoon will go thirsty for a great period of time.

No arrests were made by the local police for violation of the Sunday day closing ordinance, but a number of drunks were taken to headquarters and will appear in the city court this afternoon. Most of the patrolmen knew that the saloons were running, but it was hard work to secure sufficient evidence to convict alleged violators, and, besides, the police hadn't received any orders to do so. So no one was arrested, but an attempt will be made today to find someone who will be willing to testify that he went into a saloon and bought beer or some other intoxicant.

IN REV. AXTON'S HONOR.

Army Chaplain's Retirement From Sunday School Leadership.

In commemoration of the resignation as superintendent of the First Congregational Sunday school of the Rev. John T. Axton, special services were held at the school yesterday. Several musical selections, under the direction of Professor W. C. Clive, were rendered, and a number of presents were donated to the retiring superintendent.

A set of resolutions was adopted at the meeting, expressing the school's appreciation of the efforts which have been made in its behalf by the retiring superintendent. The resolutions are as follows:

"Whereas, The Rev. John T. Axton has been a faithful and successful superintendent of the Sunday school of the First Congregational church for three and a half years, bringing to his work unusual gifts and great consecration; and

"Whereas, He has been called to another field of labor;

"Resolved, That we, the officers, teachers and pupils of the Sunday school of the First Congregational church unite in expressing to Mr. Axton our gratitude for his long and faithful service;

"That we commend him to all Christian workers as a most efficient coadjutor.

"That we promise to follow him in all our prayers in his new field of labor, praying that the blessing of God will attend him in his new duties."

STATE NEWS

A SPECIAL ELECTION
One to Be Called to Vote on the Question of Bonding the City
For Waterworks.

Richfield, Aug. 17.—At the last session of the city council the committee which had previously been appointed and instructed to visit other Utah towns and investigate their water systems, made its report. It was shown that, by comparison, Richfield could have an excellent system without a noticeable decrease in supply now used for gardening purposes, and at a cost within reach of the city's bonding limit. The committee recommended that steps be taken to establish a system of waterworks for this city. Many questions were asked, and a strong effort will be made to defeat the proposition, but with nearly all the business men united in favor of the proposition, it is believed the council will meet again to consider the matter further.

The matter has been so thoroughly agitated of bonding for waterworks during the past few months that the people have taken sides and are prepared for the contest. There is considerable opposition to bonding the city for the purpose, but it was most feasible and practicable. It was decided to take the initiatory steps, and the city attorney was instructed to prepare a notice calling for a special election to vote on the proposition of bonding the city for the purpose. The council will meet again to consider the matter further.

Mrs. Emma Jeppeson Keeler has filed suit in the district court for a divorce from her husband, Orson Keeler. She sets forth in her complaint that they were married in 1888, and have two children. She alleges that on July 6 of this year he deserted her, and that on July 26 and since he has accused her of adultery. She asks for a maintenance in the sum of $500 per month, and for the return of her property, valued at about $6,000. Judge McCarty has granted a temporary restraining order and issued a summons for defendant to show cause why the order should not be made permanent.

RESULT OF MASS MEETING.

It Was Decided to Submit Bonding Question to People.

Manit, Aug. 17.—The mass meeting held in this city last evening for the purpose of discussing the question of bonding the city for $50,000 to construct a reservoir in the canyon was attended by a large number of our representative men and taxpayers. Mayor Andersen spoke at considerable length on the costs of maintaining the creek and controlling the waters of the same during recent and past years. His report showed the following expenditures: During the period of no floods from the years 1874 to 1882, $4,024.44 was expended for the purpose of controlling the waters of the canyon. Since the floods began, from 1882 to 1901, $29,575.36 has been expended by the city for repairs on crevices. These figures, it seems, ought to be very convincing arguments as to the cause of the trouble and the necessity of bonding the city. State Engineer Doremus was present, and that gentleman answered all inquiries made by the citizens present. There were discussions for and against the new movement, and finally the matter was left to be settled by the citizens. Section when they will have a chance to vote for or against bonding. The bonded indebtedness of the school district is $125,000, but it is a fact that in the very near future the bonded indebtedness of the city will be $50,000, which will leave the bonded indebtedness of the city at $175,000. It is not considered a very bad financial condition, but still many of our citizens will undoubtedly cast their votes against the new project for this reason, while others are afraid the new scheme of preventing floods will be successful. These James W. Cherry and family arrived in this city yesterday from La Grande, Ore., where Mr. Cherry has for some time been practicing law. He thinks that Sanpete county is a better place for him, and for that reason has decided to come back. He has not decided definitely as to where he will locate, but he is leaning towards Pleasant will be where he will hang out his shingle. Mr. Cherry will, no doubt, take an active part in shortening the success of the Democratic party in Sanpete, and it is not unlikely, as stated in the Herald some months ago by your correspondent from this city, that Mr. Cherry will be the chairman of the Democratic party in Sanpete county.
