Branning the City.

Hundreds of people are temporarily moving out of New Orleans into St. Tammany parish. St. Tammany is practically the only nearby haven to which local people can go. The parish has refused to put on a quarantine and has opened its doors to all refugees. That is due to the fact that a case of yellow fever has never developed there, even in the most serious epidemics here. Cases have been taken to the parish, but whether the patient recovered or died there has never been any extension of the infection. The reason for the immunity of St. Tammany is that the stegony is have been taken to the parish, but whether the patient recovered or died there has never existed there.

Because of the rigidity of the quarantines instituted by Texas and some of the parishes in Louisiana, the Southern Pacific has suspended passenger traffic and has also refused much of the freight offered to it. General Freight Agent Fay, however, issued an announcement today that, beginning on Saturday, the road would again receive freight for Toward.
