

One of the angels who write for the press in the City of the Angels has a neat little joke (mostly on himself) in a recent paper. Commenting on the approaching visit of a food culture faddist to the said city, he says: "Maybe Mrs. Cholmondeley will make some converts here, but I'll bet a hat she won't. Our society is not much given to following fool things or listening too attentively to fool persons."

"If this aesthetic lady takes my advice, she will approach us over the Salt Lake Route and stop off indefinitely at the Mormon capital."

New, the fact is, if the young man were well posted he would know before this that the elect inhabiting these valleys in the mountains are not converts converted to the idea of vegetable worship, as witness the well known fondness for carrots, whereas those seaside folk down there are devoted almost to a man, no, a woman, to lobsters.

The anonymous telephone friend was given a fine little settling process the other day in reply to a rather pointed question. One, evidently of the feminine gender by the voice, called up a business man to ask for the out-of-town address of another man, a business associate of his. She of the voice was rather slow of understanding, apparently, but she was most averse to giving her name, and absolutely refused to do so. Finally, the man lost patience with her and, in answer to many questions as to the whereabouts of the man wanted, said kindly: "You might address him at his home, and it would find him, as his wife has orders to open all his mail and forward to him."

The news that the University club, the hibernating place of as fine a bunch of bachelors as could be found, is to be thrown open on Sunday evening to invasions from the fair sex, has been received throughout the realm most interested with a variety of feelings. The fair sex have hailed the news with delight, while the members themselves are wondering if the committee issuing the decree has suddenly joined the ranks of the matrimonial pushers. Anyway, the sacred precincts of the lower regions are still reserved, and it will be a very gay "merry widow" who dares invade.

The advent to this burg of a brand new bright red automobile, inhabited occasionally by an immense fur coat, and accompanied by a suitable chaparron, has created a great stir in local circles. At least three old maids, two widows and certain others have shown signs of color sensation, to say the least. A suitable message having been secured for the fur coat and accessories, a garage will be added and all will go merrily as a motor horn through the mild spring months.

The men of the University club are planning a series of events through the month of February somewhat on the order of the old "ladies' night," given before the club had its beautiful home, when the members and their friends used to gather to hear some interesting experience of one of their own number, or to take delight in the talent of a visitor. While less ambitious and formal than the usual musicale, these affairs will probably be all the more enjoyable.

Those who are most vitally interested in the welfare of the Country club are looking forward to doing their whole duty on Tuesday afternoon at the annual meeting. With even a bare prospect of a dry town, it behooves the members of the Country club to see to it that all water rights pertaining to the club are properly conserved, and that the rain barrels are in good working order.

CURRENT EVENTS IN SALT LAKE SOCIETY

The big matrimonial event of the week just opening is the marriage on Tuesday evening of Miss Mary Alexander Moore, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George C. Moore, to Jasper Alan McCaskell. The marriage will take place at the Newhouse home at 8 o'clock, Rev. Father W. K. Ryan performing the marriage ceremony. The bride will be attended by her sister, Georgina Moore, and by the Misses Anna and Genevieve McCormick, cousins of the groom. Attending the groom will be his brother George from Omaha, Walker Salisbury and Albert McCormick. Only about a hundred friends have been asked to the wedding, and all have been invited to witness the ceremony.

Mrs. Walter Scott was the hostess yesterday afternoon at a delightful bridge tea given in honor of Mrs. Ward and Miss Ward, who leave shortly for the coast. Six tables were filled with wedding will be an elaborate one, the bride belonging to one of the most prominent families on the coast. Mr. McQuisten will bring his bride to Salt Lake, where she will be welcomed by a circle of warm friends made during his short residence here.

Jasper McCaskell entertained the men of his wedding party last evening at a dinner at the Alta club, the affair being arranged especially to meet his brother George McCaskell of Omaha, who will be the best man. At the same time Mrs. Frank Judge entertained Miss Moore and the girls who will attend her and a few others at a dove party at the Orpheum, followed by a supper at the Judge home.

Mrs. Russell L. Tracy reached home yesterday at noon from her stay of some three months on the coast, much improved in health. She was accompanied by her niece, Miss Stubbledfield, who is her guest. Mrs. Tracy left a whole host of Salt Lake residents at Riverside, who were all enjoying the delights of the California climate.

The date set for the marriage of Miss Sara Terrell and R. K. Stockwell is Wednesday, Feb. 24. The wedding will be a large church affair in the First Presbyterian church, with Dr. W. M. Paden officiating. The bride will be attended by Mrs. Leslie Savage as matron of honor, and by Miss Mildred McMillan and Miss Lorene Leary as maids.

Mrs. Kenneth C. Kerr and her small son, John Leeds Kerr, arrived yesterday morning from Riverside and joined the LeGrande Young family at Red Butte Hollow. The two daughters, Grace and Ruth, were already there, and Mrs. Kerr will be at home here till their own home is completed.

A dance will be given in the Ladies' Literary club on the evening of Feb. 12 by a few of the younger girls, those entertaining being Miss Ruby Lam-bourne, Miss Katie Adams, Miss Lola Farrell, Miss Marjorie Short, Miss Harriett McCarick and Miss Florence Venes.

Miss Sara Spalding will entertain at a silver tea at her home on Thursday afternoon, when she will give a short talk on the Pan-Anglican congress last summer, speaking of its religious and its social features.

Mrs. Julia Taylor and her daughter, Mrs. Richard Royal Romney, and her little daughter will leave during the week for Los Angeles and Venice to spend some time with the Will Clawson family there.

Miss Pauline L. M., the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Uimer of this city, was quietly married to Albert M. E. Schultz of Seattle, Wash. The ceremony was performed at the home of the bride's parents by Rev. Josiah McClain, assisted by Rev. Herbert E. Hayes. Mr. and Mrs. Schultz, after a short trip to the coast, will make their home in Seattle.

A new bridge tournament has been formed since the last game played last Monday by the enthusiastic girl players in two tournaments which have lasted through the winter. The first meeting will be tomorrow afternoon with Mrs. J. J. Campbell, and the other players are Mrs. Leslie L. Savage, Mrs. John C. Niven, Miss Eleanor Stewart, Miss Mildred McMillan, Miss Louise Franklin, Miss Eudora Daly, Miss Rae Bartch, Miss Olive Bartch, Miss Louise Sullivan, Miss Pearl Van Cott, Miss Aileen Maclean, Miss Jane Morrison, Miss Elizabeth Niles and Miss Lorene Leary.

The breakfast of the Ladies' Literary club, the sixth annual event of the kind, bids fair to be more delightful than any which have preceded it. The club membership has grown so rapidly in the past year that no place suitable for having a banquet with outside guests is to be found, and so the breakfast will be limited to the members, honorary members and a few of the special friends of the club as a whole. The affair is in the hands of the entertainment committee, with Mrs. J. C. Hanchett as chairman, and the invitations were issued yesterday. The breakfast will be at 12 sharp on Friday, Feb. 19, at the Orpheum. The list of toasts is said to include the very brightest speakers in the club.

Following immediately after this will be the annual luncheon of the Spirit of Liberty chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, which will be at the Bransford on Feb. 22. Mrs. A. J. Hosmer and Mrs. Grant Hampton are to be the chairmen in charge, and Mrs. H. C. Wallace will be the toast mistress.

The marriage of Miss Eva Castle of San Francisco and Stanley A. P. McQuisten of this city will take place at the Castle home Tuesday, Feb. 18. The week for Los Angeles and Venice to spend some time with the Will Clawson family there.
