Little Home Helps On How to Be Beautiful BY MADAME MARIE. SYMMETRY OF FORM. Symmetrical lines and beauty of form are woman's by Divine right, and while Nature has been lax in many instances, it lies within the power of every woman to have a plump and beautiful figure and banish forever those ugly, scrawny lines so jarring to the eye. Massaging is primitive and only local in effect, and the woman who would have a plump figure must follow the example of la dame Parisian—use the Vaucaire treatment and build up from the inside. To prepare this treatment, make a simple syrup with a cup and a half of granulated sugar and enough water to make a pint. To this add one ounce of true gailol (be careful not to get the synthetic). Shake well, and then take two tablespoonfuls two or three times each day and soon you will have a well rounded and attractive form. ANSWERS TO QUERIES. Della K.: Clogging of your skin's pores may be due to excessive use of powder, which is apt to cause blackheads and pimply eruptions and coarsen the skin. If you will use the following as a massage, it will clean and clear the skin and give it that pink, healthy glow of youth. Bring a pint of water to the boiling point, then pour into a pint jar and add three ounces of carol crystals, stirring constantly until thoroughly dissolved and a thick, greasless cream is formed. Use this freely, massaging into face, neck and arms until it disappears. It will not the families of the contracting couple only. Mrs. J. C. Leatham entertained Monday evening at an informal reception in honor of her daughter, Miss Kitty and Karl Keeler, whose marriage was solemnized the following Wednesday in the Salt Lake temple. The young couple grow hair, and you will never have to use powder or rouge. D. N.: Your falling hair is due to an excess of dandruff, and the best shampoo I can recommend is eggol, which removes dandruff and acts as a scalp food. Use this eggol shampoo every two weeks at the start, followed with a tonic made by adding one-half pint of pure water to the same amount of grain alcohol; let stand for five minutes, then put in one ounce of betaninhol. Use the tonic daily for a month, then twice a week after that. This treatment will stop the hair from falling out and make it grow in thick and glossy. Ruth S.: Don't be discouraged. The hairs on your chin are easily removed by using a paste of powdered deol and warm water. Take a little deol and add just enough water to form a soft paste; cover the hairy spot thickly with this and let it remain for two or three minutes, then scrape off and you will find the hairs have disappeared. You can get deol from your druggist in ounce bottles, and while it is slightly expensive, it is worth several times its cost, as it is unfalling. Dorothy M.: For that roughness and "lobster hue" to the skin of which you write, I would suggest using the amaro preparation, which is made by dissolving, thoroughly, two ounces of amaro in one pint of hot water. Shake this well and let stand over night, then apply as you would any complexion lotion and your skin will soon become smooth and clear and resume its natural fresh tinge.
