Foolish Affectations a Sign of Weak-mindedness—Use of Cane, Alpenstock or Monocle a Silly Fashion—Cause of Insomnia—Face Massage—Exercise of Joints—Cream For Face—Washing White Parasols and Cleaning White Shoes—Care of Feet.

FOOLISH AFFECTATIONS

The fashion editor flashed the fact that women are using the "alpenstock" on their daily promenades. The ordinary cane is often used by women on occasions as a prop to some weakness, and one always feels a sense of sympathy for the unfortunate one who is so afflicted. But the woman who carries a cane or alpenstock at any other time than on her mountain climb is suggesting a misfortune that she does not possess.

Common sense is the most glorious gift a woman can possess, for it is the mainspring of all the workings of her mind. No woman with a grain of gray matter could promenade upon a thoroughfare gowned in the modern fashion of today carrying a tall stick of the alpenstock order, unless it were done to set a fashion for brainless sheep to follow for the gratification of her own sense of humor.

The affectation of the monocle and alpenstock is like all fashionable affectations—suggestions of decrepitude—an insinuation of some shortcoming or lack of perfect health. Strange that such fashions should be adopted—or even considered—by people who are seeking health. I, for one, would rather not be hampered by an ungainly stick when walking, but would step out free from impediments, only carrying what was useful and thankful that my frame was sufficient to bear me up.

Remember: Affectations are lies that score against you.

WASHING WHITE PARASOLS

Have you ever tried to wash white cotton parasols? Just try it with plenty of warm soap suds water, a hard brush, and enough soft water for a couple of rinsings. Of course a bright, sunny day must be chosen so that they will bleach. Give them a good scrubbing with several rinsings, and after being hung on the line they will dry splendidly. Always leave them open while drying. A mixture of whiting and water is an excellent cleaner for white canvas shoes. Five cents' worth of whiting will make several bottles.

SCRUB EVERGREEN TREES

On the land around here, which is not under cultivation, there are little evergreen trees springing up. These are of no use to the farmers, and they would gladly have them off their land. These trees are much used for ornamental purposes. Get a quantity of these small trees now and plant them in candy, mackerel, or any kind of available pails (which you can purchase at the grocery stores for very little), paint them green, and put handles on each side. They will make fine decorative trees.

A FOOT EXPERT

An elderly woman thrown upon her own resources has built up a business in her own home in a large eastern town, which is surely "different," but produces satisfactory financial returns. She always had been very particular in the care of her feet and decided she could turn this knowledge to profit. She massages, pedicures, removes corns, and treats all kinds of foot troubles. She also can give practical advice as to the kind of stockings and shoes that are best adapted to the individual needs of her patrons. It is a good field for a woman and the remuneration is good.

WEAK ANKLES

Sometimes a rundown heel is responsible for a propensity to turn on the part of the ankle. If the ankles are fundamentally weak, however, medical attention should be called in. Sometimes in young children braces to the knees are necessary to strengthen bent ankles, but as a rule massage is given instead of braces. Anything is better than to go through later life with weak ankles, which could have been cured in childhood by a few precautions. Laced shoes are, of course, the best for too slender or too weak ankles, and these should always be used for skating.

EXERCISE FOR JOINTS

Walking up and down stairs several times a day is a fine exercise for the joints. At first it may be rather laborious but persevere until you can mount the steps with a spring, instead of a slow, labored tread, and be able to run down stairs. Instead of always using the elevator, make it a rule to walk up and down stairs every time you go out or come in. Those who are working in downtown offices seldom need this practice.

CREAM FOR FACE

Water is like poison to irritated skin. You should seldom use water on your face. You can cleanse it with a face cream. Once a day apply it with a piece of absorbent cotton and wipe it off with a fresh piece of cotton.

SPONGE CAKE

Weigh ten eggs, allow their weight in sugar and half their weight in flour. Beat the yolks light, whip the sugar into them, stir in half the graded peel and all the juice of a lemon, then the flour, and last the stiffly beaten whites must be folded in. Bake in a steady oven.

CHEESE STRAWS

Add two ounces grated cheese to one cup flour with which you have sifted a level teaspoon baking powder and a pinch of salt. Moisten with the yolk of one egg and enough milk to make a paste that can be rolled out. Roll into a thin sheet and cut into fine straws. Bake to a delicate brown and sift grated cheese over them while they are warm.

CAUSE OF INSOMNIA

Some memory culturists advise their students on retiring to carefully review the details of the day's events. This may be beneficial to the memory, but to the system it is pernicious, for, after the habit is once formed, the act becomes involuntary, and insomnia is the almost inevitable result. Happy, indeed, is he who can banish every care as soon as his head touches the pillow compose his mind, and fall into a refreshing sleep. Determined effort may make this possible.

FACE MASSAGE

I think rubbing oil into the face will help fatten it. Of course it is to the cheeks that you devote your attention. If, however, you have any tendency to a growth of hair on the face I would advise you not to use any grease on your face. Massage alone may help. Rub on the oil plentifully and then pinch the cheeks with the thumb and forefinger. You can do both sides at once. Then with the palms of the hands rub and smooth the cheeks until you feel a smoothness. Never use a downward stroke, for in massaging the face the muscles and mass of flesh should be lifted up, as the tendency is for the tissues to sag.

UTAH GIRL WEDS KNIGHT JORDAN

Provo, Sept. 1.—One of the most elaborate social events that has taken place in Provo was the marriage of Miss Addie Lone Knight to Knight Starr Jordan of California this evening at 7 o'clock at the home of the bride's father, Jesse Knight. The ceremony was performed by Bishop Albert Manwaring. The decorations were beautiful and were arranged by Prof. E. H. Eastmond. The reception room was decorated with golden glow and smilax, tinted with tasseled silken cords. A mounted scene was arranged in the dining room, the foliage being autumn leaves and green grass. Large bouquets of American beauty roses in golden baskets decorated the parlor. Beneath an alcove of white roses, in which was woven the letter K, the bride and groom with their attendants received the congratulations of more than 400 guests. The bride wore a gown of crepe de chine with pink chiffon covered with an overpress of embroidery. The bridesmaids were Miss Augusta Illich of Oakland, Cal., Miss Pauline Herringer of Salt Lake, and Miss Nina Taylor of Provo. Harold Jordan, brother of the bridegroom, acted as best man. Mr. and Mrs. Jordan will leave tomorrow for a honeymoon trip to Honolulu, where they will visit a short time before going to Carmel-by-the-Sea, the California summer home of David Starr Jordan, father of the bridegroom. Their home will be at Terra Bella, Cal. Mr. and Mrs. Jordan became engaged while they were undergraduates at the Stanford university and their engagement was announced several months ago. Dr. David Starr Jordan, former president of Stanford university, and Jesse Knight of Provo have been friends and associates many years.

MOVING PICTURES OF THIS REGION

The Oracle-Isis-Globe theatrical company, under the management of H. A. Sims, has taken steps to exploit Ogden's scenery by means of motion pictures. The machine has arrived and is being operated by R. L. Noggle. Motion pictures of the Wizard of the Wasatch carnival were taken to test the machine and the pictures will be shown at an early date. It is the plan of the company to secure scenery around Ogden that is new to a greater portion of the citizens.

ACQUIT YOUTH OF MURDER CHARGE

Washington, Sept. 2.—Stewart Mudge, the American youth who was tried in Imataca, Venezuela upon a technical charge of murder was acquitted, according to a dispatch received at the State Department today. Mudge was engaged in an athletic game with a Venezuelan youth when the latter received fatal injuries. The American legation at Caracas appointed an agent to see

PROVO PUTS BAN ON SCANTY DRESS

Provo, Sept. 1.—The combined parents class of this city have drafted a set of resolutions which they will present to the city commissioners, urging that a law be placed upon the statutes prohibiting the wearer of scanty clothing to appear on the streets of Provo and calling for a general reform of dress. The resolutions passed yesterday are as follows: Be it not the first by whom the new is tried. Nor yet the last to cast the old aside. Since the leaders of our church have cautioned us against excess in dress, and in view of the prevailing fashions, which do not sufficiently cover the body, and therefore are immodest and not sanctioned by the thinking public at large, regardless of creed, we, the members of the parents classes in Provo City Sunday schools, and our efforts to bring about a reform in this direction. Therefore, be it resolved, that these fads and fashions are not a creation of our own, nor a creation of necessity to fill a want for suitable clothes, but are forced upon us by manufacturers who are seeking markets for their products by creating new and extreme opposite fads and fashions regardless of propriety or modesty, in order that they may make financial gain. Resolved, that these extreme fads and fashions are causing economic and unnecessary waste to those who participate in them, making it a double hardship to the poorer classes, and having a tendency to create a spirit of false pride among those who indulge in them and putting those who are modest and thoughtful of others, and who for other reasons do not follow the fashions in an embarrassing position. Resolved, that this extravagance in dress takes attention away from school work and other useful studies of life, and has a tendency to make boys and girls wasteful, instead of economical, immodest, frivolous and pleasure-seeking instead of modest, studious and thoughtful of others, and develops an inclination to disregard the more serious things of life. Resolved, that this discouragement of proper and extravagant dress in the home, upon the street, in the school room, at the sports, in the ball room and at public and private gatherings. We hereby petition the parents, the heads of all church organizations, the Brigham Young university, the Proctor academy, the public schools and all other schools and organizations that they cooperate with us in trying to create a sentiment for the correction of the dress evil. We suggest that the B. Y. U., the Proctor academy, the public schools and other schools choose a uniform or other plain dress and encourage its adoption among the students; that an expensive raiment, powder and paint, be discontinued, and that the several heads of the above named organizations, as well as others we may have overlooked in naming, take up the question with the departments under them in a manner that this move may be kept alive for mutual co-operation and strength in fighting those evil novelties and promoting a sentiment that will encourage modesty and economy.
