HOW GIRLS LIVE ON SIX DOLLARS

Details Garnered From Stores, Factories and Shops Throughout N. Y.

New York, Dec. 2.—How girls live on $6 a week. Under this caption there was read today in the record of the factory investigating commission first hand details, garnered from stores, factories and shops throughout the state of the fight for existence which the commission's investigators say is being waged daily by tens of thousands of underpaid women and girls in New York state.
Miss Esther Packard, assistant secretary of the Consumers league, as the result of her personal investigation, cited many instances, among them the following:
Go Without Meals.
"Miss C. W.—When I have to pay for shoes or anything like that I don't buy meat for weeks at a time."
"F. M.—I never eat breakfast at all. I found that was the easiest meal to do without."
"Miss T.—I generally buy beans for three cents and bread for two cents for lunch; I seldom pay more than seven cents."
No Vacation in Years.
One girl, Miss Packard says, lived on one meal a day when she has to pay for shoes or a hat. Many girls frankly admitted that they counted on their male friends to buy their Sunday dinners.
A girl of 23 had taken no vacation for six years because she could not afford to lose her salary for a week. A woman of 40, without a vacation for 25 years, cannot think of stopping work for a month to take a rest which she needs.

THIRTY-FIVE EXTRA CLERKS FOR MAIL SERVICE

Chief Clerk W. F. Bangasser of the railway mail service in this district has organized his force of clerks and substitutes for the handling of the holiday mail and about thirty-five extra men will be employed in the district during the present month. Mr. Bangasser was given authority to employ this number some weeks ago and the first five were put to work at the local parcel post terminal several days ago.

On December 6, the force at the terminal will be increased by six more men and additions will be made at intervals until thirty out of the thirty-five extra men will be employed here. The remaining five will be used on the road. Three shifts are now being worked at the terminal and, beginning on the 15th of the month, four shifts will be working. This will be kept up until the holiday rush is over.

The extra men are all substitute clerks most of whom reside in Ogden and, in addition to their help, the railway mail clerks will be assisted while in the local yards by regular clerks who are on their vacations. These clerks will put in about two hours a day and, instead of receiving money for their service, will be given "plus" marks on their records, which will prove of future value.

Chief Clerk Bangasser, in reference to this, stated that his clerks were always willing to help each other out in this way and that a little time put in by an experienced man during a rush period was of more value to the public and the clerks than a longer period by an inexperienced man.

The district of which Ogden is the headquarters includes all of Utah; Idaho, east of Pocatello; on the Oregon Short Line to Butte, Montana; east to Brand Junction, Colorado; on the Denver & Rio Grande. There are 128 clerks working under the jurisdiction of Chief Clerk Bangasser and, in addition to these, he supervises the work of 40 helpers working out of Ogden on the Southern Pacific. The last mentioned, however, come under the jurisdiction of the chief clerk at San Francisco.

The Salt Lake and Marysville branch has recently been extended to Ogden and this city is now virtually the headquarters for that branch. Its six clerks, however, now have their homes in Salt Lake City, but eventually will come to Ogden to live.

The parcel post business is now rapidly increasing and considerable quantities of flour, potatoes, salt, sugar and dressed poultry are being handled. During the Thanksgiving period nearly 300 turkeys were handled in the mail cars, most of them being shipped from Vernal, Utah.

SUPREME COURT OF UTAH HANDS DOWN SEVEN OPINIONS

The state supreme court yesterday broke its silence of several months by handing down seven opinions, five of which affirm the lower courts and two order new trials.

The lower court's findings in the case of Edwin T. Woolley, administrator of the estate of Moses Davis, deceased, against the executors of the estate of Joseph E. Taylor, deceased, are affirmed. Woolley sought to recover real estate and stock in the Utah-Idaho Sugar company which had been given to Joseph E. Taylor by Rachael Davis, who had come into possession under bequests from her father, Moses Davis. It was charged that Rachael Davis's title to the property was not good and that there was no consideration to the transfer to Taylor. In a previous suit it had been charged that Taylor exercised fraud and undue influence to obtain the property.

The lower court held that the transfers were legal as pertaining to the real estate and stock, but it found for the plaintiff as regards the household furniture in the Davis' home, which had also been transferred to Taylor, and awarded judgment for $75.

In the case of E. A. Wall against Maurice M. Kaighn to quiet title to two mining claims in the West Mountain district, judgment for Wall in the lower court is affirmed and a point of law is laid down with reference to tax sales. Kaighn rested his title on tax sale deeds, but the supreme court finds the deeds were defective in that they showed that the county, as highest bidder, had purchased the property when it was sold for taxes. It sets out that the county has no right to voluntarily bid or buy property at a tax sale, but must do so only in the absence of other bidders. The deed must so show, it is held.

Title to an acre of ground containing a hot mineral spring, valued at $20,000, is quieted to the Oregon Short Line as against the Salt Lake Investment company. The lower court's ruling quieting title to the investment company and awarding $4000 damages for alleged wrongful occupation by the railroad company is reversed.

N. W. Miller wins in the supreme court, as he did in the lower court, in his suit to recover $2500 on a promissory note from L. A. Marks. Miller held the note by assignment. Marks refused to pay it on the ground that it had been obtained from him by fraud and misrepresentation. The lower court sustained the charge of fraud, but gave judgment to Miller on the ground that he was an innocent purchaser. Justices Strain and Frick affirm this judgment, but Chief Justice McCarthy dissents, holding that Miller learned of Marks's claim of fraud in time to have stopped the payment on checks given for the note.

The chief justice also dissents in the case of Joseph G. Shephard against the Denver & Rio Grande railroad, in which the judgment of the lower court, in favor of the railroad, is reversed by the prevailing opinion. Shephard is given a new trial in his suit for damages for the loss of a leg.

In the case of Orphir Rouleau against the Continental Life Insurance company to recover $5000 on an insurance policy, the judgment of the lower court for the plaintiff is affirmed.

Judgment for Ernest Dayton against the Snake Creek Mining & Tunneling company for personal injuries is affirmed.

THEATERS

A clever company in a clever play sings up the William A. Brady production of Margaret Mayo's comedy, "Baby Mine," which was presented at the Orpheum theatre last night. A large crowd saw the famous comedy and was kept in continuous laughter by its scintillating lines of humor and funny situations.

The comedy was founded on a report in a New York newspaper several years ago to the effect that 3000 Chicago women had adopted infants and passed them off on their husbands as their own and the husbands were none the wiser. Acting on this theme, the playwright weaves her play around a young couple who have a misunderstanding, which causes the husband to leave home. The wife and her friend plan to bring him back by securing an infant from a settlement hospital. The friend's husband is brought into the scheme and before the mixup is ended the first man is the father of one child, twins and triplets and then loses them all in the course of a few hours.

The comedy would not be a success except in the hands of finished players and those who presented it last night were without a weak spot. The role of Alfred Hardy, the father, was played with fine skill by Paul Atherton. Jimmy Jinks, his friend, was played by Howard Fay, who proved himself a comedian of the first water. Miss Edna Davies essayed the role of Mrs. Hardy and proved one of the best actresses of the ingenu type ever seen in the city. Mrs. Jinks, her friend, was played by Gertrude Wathens, an unusually capable actress, whose natural manner of acting went a long way toward making the production a success. Other members of the cast were Dick Collins as Michael O'Flaherty; Charles Muehl as Finnegan; Dave Towers as Donaghy; Grace Leonard as Gossel Gatti and Etta Kerr as Maggie O'Flaherty. Their roles were small, but important, and they proved to be well cast.

MUSICAL COMEDY TO BE GIVEN BY THE ELKS' LODGE

Two of the most difficult roles in "A Chinese Honeymoon," the musical comedy to be given in the Orpheum theatre next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday evenings, under the auspices of Ogden lodge No. 719, B. P. O. Elks, are carried by Miss Florence Browning and C. O. DeWolf.

Miss Browning, the daughter of Commissioner T. S. Browning, will appear as Fi Fi and is the principal comedienne. DeWolf is the pompous Emperor Hang Chow.

MISS FLORENCE BROWNING

Early in the action of the play, Hang Chow becomes imbued with the idea that women love him, not because of his good looks and personality, but because of his royal position and wealth. He decides to make a search for a woman who will love him for himself alone. To his lord high admiral, Hi Lung, is entrusted the mission of procuring a bride. The admiral is instructed to inform candidates that the would-be bridegroom is a bill poster.

C. O. DeWOLF

After sailing the seas for a year, the admiral returns without a bride for the emperor, and to save his head he induces Fi Fi (Miss Browning) to accept the honor. The emperor is not pleased with Fi Fi, however, and Fi Fi, the admiral and others find themselves in a predicament until other startling incidents take place upon the arrival of Mr. and Mrs. Pineapple on their honeymoon.

Miss Browning has virtually recreated her role. She has clothed the part in so much original comedy that all who have attended rehearsals declare her reading of the lines and action are superior to those prescribed for the part. Also Miss Browning is given opportunity to display her vocal powers. She has a voice of professional timber.

DeWolf has appeared in most of the productions given by the local lodge and is perhaps the most experienced member of the cast.

TERRIFIC STORM SWEEPS TEXAS

Houston, Tex., Dec. 2.—One person was killed and several injured and dozens driven from their homes by a terrific wind and rain storm here early today. Six inches of rain fell. Street car and train service was demoralized. A number of bridges were washed away and houses in low lying sections were flooded.

E. B. Dasbit, an employee of a gas company, was killed by lightning which damaged a number of buildings.

Information here is that the downpour was general over the coast section of Texas. Railway tracks are under water at many points and all south Texas streams are brimful. In many rural regions the lowlands are inundated. Twelve inches of rain has fallen since November 1.

GOLDEN WEDDING CELEBRATED.
Last evening at the home of Dr. A. C. Wherry in Salt Lake, Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Wherry of this city celebrated their golden wedding anniversary in a fitting manner. Mr. Wherry is a well-known fruit grower of Weber county, having a farm near Orchard. He was born near Washington, Pa., March 1, 1844 and is of one of the oldest families of that state. Mrs. Wherry was born June 23, 1845, at Rochester, Ohio, where she was married to Mr. Wherry in 1864, the couple later moving to Lawrence, Kan. Twelve years ago they came to Utah and located immediately in Ogden, where a son, Dr. S. W. Wherry also resides.

The children of Mr. and Mrs. Wherry are Dr. S. W. Wherry of Ogden, Dr. C. A. Wherry and L. O. Wherry of Salt Lake, and Mrs. C. W. Jewett of Denver.
