

CZECHO-SLOVAKS HAVE PRESIDENT

New Republic Begins Business—People Made Free After 298 Years.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11.—The Czechoslovak republic has begun its existence and the Czechs and Slovaks, now numbering about 11,000,000 people, having thrown off the yoke of Austria-Hungary, become free for the first time since 1620.

Thomas G. Masaryk, formerly professor of philosophy at the University of Prague and since 1915 president of the Czechoslovak national council, which was recognized by the United States and the allies as a defacto government, has been selected as the republic's first president. He is now in Washington and was notified today of his selection by the council which urged him to proceed immediately to Prague to take up further formation of the new government.

President Masaryk will leave within a fortnight. He spent today preparing an address to the 2,000,000 Czechoslovak residents of the United States. Before sailing he will complete negotiations with the authorities here for material aid to be given to the new nation and its armies, of which is in Siberia, one in France and one in Italy.

President Masaryk was informed of his selection by a cable message which said Vice President Kramarz, now in Geneva, would take up his duties as acting president of Czechoslovakia. Dr. Edward Benesh, formerly of the University of Prague, who has been selected as minister of foreign affairs, sent the message which came through the state department by way of Paris and was dated November 6. Dr. Milan Stefanik, a noted astronomer, who has been at the head of the Czechoslovak army in France, has been selected minister of war. The cabinet is to be completed as soon as President Masaryk reaches Prague, which will be the capital.

The despatch said the general political and social situation in Bohemia made necessary his immediate presence, that he had been given unlimited authority and that all of the new government's activities had been enthusiastically approved.

OGDEN MOTHER PRAISES TANLAC

Mrs. Bridges Tells of Wonderful Results Her Three Daughters Obtained.

"Yes, one of my daughters had gotten so much benefit from the use of Tanlac that she prevailed on her sisters to try it, and I certainly couldn't ask for anything better than the way it is building them up since they started on it," said Mrs. James Briggs, of 51 Harrisville avenue, Ogden, the other day.

"My daughter, who lives in southern Utah," continued Mrs. Briggs, "suffered a long time from indigestion and rheumatism, and I have no doubt she would be suffering yet if it hadn't been for Tanlac. It fixed her up so fine that when my two daughters here at home both began complaining and got so rundown nothing must do but they should take Tanlac, too. Well, I am mighty glad they took their sister's advice. Neither of them had any appetite and would hardly eat enough to keep them going. One had rheumatism very bad for six or eight months and she got so it was about all she could do to drag herself around.

"But now you just ought to see how much they have picked up and improved since they started taking this wonderful Tanlac. Why, they both have such fine appetites it looks like they just can't eat enough to get satisfied. And you know when they eat so heartily as that they are bound to get along fine in other ways. The one that had rheumatism so bad never complains of it now and they are both looking so much better now that you would hardly know them. Yes, we certainly are great believers in Tanlac at our home, for it not only helped my three daughters wonderfully but we know plenty of other people who have been benefited through taking it."

Tanlac is sold in Ogden by A. R. McIntyre Drug Co., two busy stores—Advertisement.

The commander-in-chief, in the name of the president, has awarded the distinguished service cross to the following named officers and soldiers for the acts of extraordinary heroism set forth after their names:
Sergeant Martin Jansen, Company A, 355th Inf., for extraordinary heroism in action near Elirey, France, 12th September, 1918. Coming in rear of two platoons of a battalion of first line, Sergeant Jansen, belonging to another battalion, noticed the two platoons were held up by machine gun fire from the front and flank, and appeared to be without a leader. Fearlessly exposing himself, he ran from one end of the line to the other, urging the men forward until both platoons had moved across a small gully out of danger from the machine gun fire. His bravery and leadership thus prevented the interruption of the advance of the entire first line." Home address, George Jansen, Russville, Nebraska.
Second Lieutenant Erwin R. Blockley, F. A. J. F. A. observer, deceased, 15th (probably 50th) Aero Squadron. "For extraordinary heroism in action near Binerville, France, 6th Oct., 1918. Lieutenant Blockley, with his pilot, Second Lieutenant Harold E. Goettler, left the airfield late in the afternoon on their second trip to drop supplies to a battalion of the Seventy-Seventh Division, which had been cut off by the enemy in the Argonne Forest. Having been subjected on the first trip to a violent fire from the enemy, they attempted on the second trip to come still lower in order to get the packages even more precisely on the designated spot. In the course of his mission, the plane was brought down by enemy rifle and machine gun fire from the ground, resulting in fatal wounds to Lieutenant Blockley, who died before he could be taken to a hospital. In attempting and performing this mission, Lieutenant Blockley showed the highest possible contempt of personal danger, devotion to duty, courage and valor." Home address, E. E. Blockley, father, Fourth National Bank, Wichita, Kansas.

FORT DOUGLAS TO BE HOSPITAL

SALT LAKE, Nov. 12.—Orders from the western department of the army to turn the post of Fort Douglas over to the United States army general hospital, No. 27, were received yesterday morning by Lieutenant J. F. Bergesch, engineer corps, who has been in command of the post since the recent departure of the Seventieth railway engineers for the east.

Under this order Lieutenant Bergesch is relieved of the command of the post, and this passes to Major Walter C. Chidester, commanding officer of the army general hospital. As soon as details of the transfer are completed Major Chidester will become post commander and Fort Douglas will become strictly a hospital post.

The casual engineers, who were left at the post when the Seventieth departed, totaling about 270 officers and men, have been ordered to proceed from Fort Douglas to Fort Leavenworth, Kan., with the exception of such men as are not qualified for further service. These are to be sent to Palo Alto, Cal., and will be placed in development battalions or discharged from the service, it is said.

Will Start Soon.
No date has been set for the departure of the casual engineers at the post, but it is expected that they will start on their journey to the other camps some time during the present week.

When the casual engineers leave there will be troops left at the post with exception of the hospital organization, the 403rd depot engineers and the Third war prison organizations. Officers at the post are wondering how soon orders will come for removal of the depot engineers, also, thus leaving only the hospital and the war prison organizations at the local post.

No information has been received from Washington that the depot engineers are to be moved, but in view of the removal of other line troops and the orders of the western department to the engineer commander to turn over the entire post to the hospital, it is rather expected that it will be only a short time until orders may be received sending the depot organization to some other location.

Unique Situation.
Leaving of this organization here now, with the post command turned over to the hospital, leaves the depot organization without a separate post administration. This is a situation that is rather unique and is a part of the old angle of administrative authority at the post that arose when the various organizations were first sent here and the order came out from the war department designating Fort Douglas as an army general hospital. Most of the angle has been straightened out through the removal of other organizations, but the depot and engineer dilemma has not yet been solved.

Under the change which takes place in turning the post administration over from the depot engineers to the hospital, the latter organization will have to take charge of all guard and fatigue work of the post, as well as having charge of the post guardhouse, in which are confined a large number of military prisoners. The hospital organization will have to take over the

TRAGEDY OCCURS WHILE OTHERS REJOICE

SALT LAKE, Nov. 12.—While Salt Laker were celebrating the crushing of kaiserism a gruesome tragedy was being enacted at 384 F street shortly after 8 o'clock last night, when Harry Bernstein shot and killed his wife, Beatrice, rendering four small children motherless. He then attempted suicide, cutting his throat from ear to ear with a safety razor blade. At the Emergency hospital early this morning it was said that while his injury was dangerous, he would probably recover. Jealousy, the police believe, was the motive for the crime. If he lives he will be charged with murder, the police assert.

One shot entered the woman's body under the left arm, reaching her lungs. This shot is believed to have caused her death. The second bullet, which was evidently fired after she had fallen to the floor, struck her on top of the head, inflicting an ugly wound. Four shots had been fired from the revolver, which was a .38 caliber, but the officers believe but two of them were fired last night.

According to J. C. Radden, 390 F street, Bernstein requested that his 2-year-old baby be taken care of by Mr. Radden's daughter for a short time about an hour before the tragedy occurred, and that the request was not complied with. Soon afterward, Mr. Radden said, his family heard a noise coming from the Bernstein house, but at the time presumed it to be passers-by who might be celebrating. About half an hour later Bernstein called to Radden through a window asking him to care for the baby and telling him he had cut himself, but would be all right in a short time.

When Radden returned to his house he discovered that the baby was covered with blood. Calling to some neighbors, he returned with them to the Bernstein house and, finding the doors locked, climbed in through the window. Bernstein, he said, was lying against a settee, bleeding and gasping, and in an adjoining room Mrs. Bernstein lay dead.

The police were notified and Bernstein was removed to the Emergency hospital. The couple have four children, according to the officers, three of them at St. Ann's orphanage and the baby, now in the care of Mrs. Bernstein's mother, Mrs. A. Alnaworth, 391 F street. Bernstein is said to have been working in Lincoln, Neb., as city circulator of one of the papers there. He returned to Salt Lake a few days ago. He was employed in this city as newspaper circulator about one year ago.
