Lewis Taught Carpentier Famous Knockout Punch

BY CHARLES ROSE.

Reading the various opinions expressed upon the result of a contemplated fight between Jack Dempsey and Georges Carpentier, all agree that Dempsey is a positive sure thing. I want to say that, in my opinion, Carpentier has a possible chance of winning. Remember, I say, "possible chance." To explain, Carpentier has the fastest pair of hands that any human being ever saw in action.

It is possible he may come out of his corner so quickly in the first round that he will land on Dempsey before the latter is ready. If he hits the champion with his right it is a sure thing that Dempsey will hit the floor. Whether the blow will be powerful enough to keep Dempsey on the floor for over ten seconds I don't know.

That's why I say Carpentier has a "possible chance" of whipping our champion. If Dempsey can manage to stand the effects of this terrible blow he will positively whip Carpentier. For the French hero is strictly a short distance fighter. Therefore, the longer the battle the greater chances for Dempsey. In my heart I feel confident Dempsey would beat Carpentier, but he doesn't get gay with Carpentier's right wallop.

I saw Carpentier hit Garbott Smith in the fourth round with a right cross that knocked the Gunner still. Remember Smith weighed 195 pounds.

that night, while Carpentier tipped the beam at 175. The bell saved Smith for he was prostrate as it clanged. We carried Smith to his corner and in the fifth came the mixup which resulted in Smith's being disqualified on an imperceptible foul.

Now my reasons for Carpentier being a short distance fighter. In this same fight the Frenchman traveled along at a speed that dazzled, but as the few rounds passed it was evident he slowed up. And when he went to his knees to duck a Smith swing it was really because he felt himself losing his speed. Again, it wasn't an actual exhibition of gameness in my opinion—but that's neither here nor there.

Carpentier is a remarkable fighter. He moves around like a dart of lightning and always changes his style round after round. He owns a one-two punch that is startling. A feint with the left, his rival instinctively falls in; a crash with the right and generally the fight is over. That's the way he whipped Beckett a few weeks ago. This blow he learned from Willie Lewis when the latter electrified Paris years ago.

Again I say it is a question of Dempsey taking that wallop and coming back. If he does, then he will beat Carpentier without any difficulty. But I reiterate the Frenchman has a "possible chance."

HARD WINTER BOOSTS SALE OF SKIS AND SKATES

Ogden Enjoys Out of Doors
Despite Brisk and Snappy Air

At last, after two winters so warm and balmy that they could scarcely be termed as winters, the long longed for old fashioned "hard" winter has greeted those of Ogden who are athletically inclined.

Webbs and skis, long ago stored for use when the season presented opportunity, have been dragged into light and repaired for use on the foothills and mountains east of the city.

Sporting goods dealers report that the sale of skis has materially increased during the past six years. Prior to that time, this form of winter sport was practically unknown to Ogden's youth, excepting in rare cases when a denizen of other climes arrived here with a pair of the long, upturned runners.

Uninitiated persons, wandering near the upper extremity of Twenty-fifth street, have wondered at the peculiar tracks, and upon investigating to determine the name of the monstrosity that caused the vast impressions on the snow, have discovered that they are no more than ordinary snowshoes. This sport, while it has not yet assumed the popularity of skiing, is rapidly gaining favor, especially among persons who love to tramp the mountains. Both of these sports can be indulged in near Ogden practically every winter, as snow is generally present in the hills when none of the downy blanket has fallen in the city.

The old stand-by, ice skating, is probably the most popular winter sport at the present time in Ogden. With a large stretch of the Weber river frozen over and numerous ponds near this and the Ogden river, opportunities for advocates of the sharp, narrow steel runners are better this season than they have been for years. And with the sport of skating, comes the game of "shinny" which is enthusiastically indulged in by practically all skaters who are able to keep their ankles straight.

Hoop Prospects Appear Bright at Ogden Schools

With the hoop season but a few weeks away, the teams of the northern division are losing no time during the Christmas holidays—but instead they are whipping their men into harness. The northern division this year will be divided into two sections with Weber, Ogden, Boxelder, Davis and the State School for the Deaf in the southern half, and Logan High, B. Y. C., North and South Cache and Onaida in the northern half of the division.

While the prospects in the northern section are unknown, the B. Y. C. appears to have the best team on paper. Coach Knapp has a number of old hands in the lineup and is looking forward to one of the greatest seasons in the history of the game. Logan High and Onaida are also expected to have first rate teams in action.

Onaida Enters
Onaida, with Coach "Woody" Bonner at the helm, has developed a first class five and much interest has been manifested by the appearance of the Idaho lads in the league. However, if Onaida wins the northern title, the honors will go to the second place team inasmuch as Onaida is an Idaho aggregation.

In the southern division Weber Normal college, state champions in 1915, appears to have the honors clinched. Coach Watson lost but two stars last year, Schade and Jones, and has an abundance of new men on hand this season to uphold the honors of the school. Five letter men have returned to school and their appearance in suits has caused considerable interest in the hoop sport. Critchlow, Lindsay, Jeppson, Doney and Campbell are the old heads back in the game, while Croft, Brewer, Lindford, Hickman, Norton, Parry, Fouts, Holmes and Wilson are the new men who have shown a world of class. In the class series at the school the seniors with the five letter men in harness won hands down and Coach Watson was well pleased with the showing of his men. A squad of ten men will be carried throughout the entire year.

Ogden High Promising
While the Weber players and students are pulling for a winner, the Ogden High school with Richards, Johnson, Hirt, Smith, Chee, Stratford, Dwyer, Skeen, Thomas and Farnow in harness expect great things from the Tigers. In their first game of the season played at Morgan a few days ago, the Tigers won out over Morgan in a fast game, the score being 2 to 24. A return game will be played in Ogden on January 5. Prospects at the Davis High school are bright. Coach Warner having a number of old stars in harness.

Coaches of the southern half of the division will meet in Ogden during the first week of January to draw up the schedule for the season's play. Five teams will be represented in the southern half. Officials, scorers and others will be named to handle the reins of the league by officials of the State High School Athletic association.

of Coach Malcolm Watson the Purple and White players showed a world of class and displayed keen class in every branch of activity.

On the hoop floor the Weber stars won the local division title hands down from Ogden and the other schools in the northern section. At the state meet they were defeated in the opening game by the branch A. C. players by a score of 50 to 42. The branch A. C. players were matched to meet the Weber stars in the final game of the series at Salt Lake and withdrew from the league, thus giving the Weber players the championship.

The scores for the season follow:

Jack Kearns After Services of Light Weight Boxing Star

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 1.—Jack Kearns, manager of Champion Jack Dempsey, is expected to leave for San Francisco within the next three days in order to close a deal for the management of a promising young four-round lightweight boxer.

"I have my eyes on a San Francisco boy who I believe will make a big ring card," said Kearns. "I can't divulge his name yet, but I expect to spring it shortly if the deal goes through."

"I am the manager of the greatest heavyweight of all time, yet I am not satisfied. I want a lightweight and I think I have the real one in sight. You will hear more from me shortly."
