

Retail Price of Beet Sugar Here to be $15.50

Based upon seaboard refinery prices of $15 a hundred pounds for cane sugar and $12 a hundred for beet sugar, the retail prices for Ogdens will be $17.50 a hundred for cane sugar and $15.50 for beet sugar, while in portions of the Ogdens wholesale district high as $16 a hundred, because of these prices for the latter will be as high as $16 a hundred, because of freight charges.

The present price of cane sugar at Pacific coast points is $15, with 73 cents freight added; 77 cents a hundred as the wholesaler's additional charge and $1 a hundred as the retailer's charge, making $17.50 as the price. On beet sugar, the price is $13 at the seaboard, with 73 cents added for freight 77 cents for the wholesaler and $1 for the retailer, making a price of $15.50. In years before sugar price control was in vogue, the differential was 10c a hundred and if that were applied now, the retail price of beet sugar would $17.40.

Marines to Receive New Victory Buttons

Victory buttons, to be worn in the lapel of civilian clothes, are soon to be issued by the United States marine corps to all men who served in the corps from April 6, 1917, to November 11, 1918, according to a statement issued today at the Marine corps recruiting office, 2456 Washington avenue.

The button is of the standard design adopted for all branches of the service, bronze for all men, except those who were wounded, who will receive silver buttons. These buttons are not to be confused with the marine discharge buttons, which were issued to all men of the marine corps and marine corps reserve upon honorable discharge from the service.

Men who desire Victory buttons should apply with their discharge papers to the nearest marine barracks or recruiting station so that their applications may be forwarded to headquarters.

"For the information of all concerned," says an order from marine corps headquarters, "appropriate publicity should be given to the fact that the Victory medal itself has not yet been struck off at the mint, that designs for the clasps have not yet been approved, and that ribbons and bars with bronze and silver stars will therefore be issued with medals and battle clasps as soon as same are received."

WIDOW'S CLAIM FOR DEATH OF HUSBAND IS GRANTED

Mrs. Rebecca Hill, widow of Ambrose Hill, is awarded $5,000, her full claim for damages, in a decision given by the Industrial Commission of Utah, according to notice received here by the law firm of Chee & Barker. In addition to the $5,000, the commission awards a sum for funeral and medical expenses.

Ambrose Hill was employed in the Belnap Meat shop on Twenty-fourth street and was injured July 2, while removing a box of meat from the refrigerator in the shop. In the act of removing the box it broke and he fell with great force and injured his back from which cause, it was contended, his death resulted July 11.

At the time of the hearing of the claim before the commission last August, it was contended by the Aetna Life Insurance company, who carried the insurance, that his death was a natural death, and resulted independent of the injury, and the insurance company was not liable and the claim should be denied. To support this contention three physicians prominent in this city were called to testify. Mrs. Hill, represented by Chee & Barker, argued that the attending physician's evidence was more worthy and should be controlling in the case and the commission took the same view in preference to the testimony of experts and accepted the unqualified statement and evidence of the physician who first attended Mr. Hill, and decided that the accident was the resulting cause of his death.

ADVENTUROUS YOUTHS AGAIN AT SCHOOL; ESCAPE FAILS

Clifton Cook and Albert Jensen, both 17, are back in the state industrial school today following an attempt to escape which failed because police officers with skill as marksmen punctured with bullets the tires of the automobile in which they were escaping.

Detective G. Duncan McLeod and Chauffeur Ed. Butterfield made the arrests. A report came to the police department that the two boys had escaped from the industrial school. Shortly afterwards a report came in that the car of Ray Jones had been stolen from 313 Thirteenth street.

Desk Sergeant Barlow B. Wilson, put the two and two together, deduced that the escaped boys took the machine. Officers McLeod and Butterfield were assigned to the case. In the police auto they proceeded out Washington avenue until they saw the car belonging to Jones. They immediately gave chase.

The driver of the car "stepped on 'er" and the race was on. When ordered to stop the boys put on more speed. McLeod opened fire and punctured one of the rear tires. Still the boys went on.

The other rear tire was punctured by the automatic and the flat tires caused the car to slow down until the officers overtook it.

Boy Struck by Car and Instantly Killed

SALT LAKE CITY, Jan. 20.—Claude Henry MacNeil, 13 years of age, son of Claude and Kitty Fern MacNeil, 359 West Eighth North street, was instantly killed last evening shortly after 5 o'clock when he was struck by a south-bound Centerville street car near Beck's Hot Springs. His head was crushed. He died as he was entering S. Mark's hospital, where he was taken by Mrs. A. L. Gildrup, wife of Dr. A. L. Gildrup, 328 Winthrop court, who was passing the scene of the accident in an automobile.

Young Girl Attempts Escape from Jail

SALT LAKE CITY, Jan. 20.—The first case on record of a woman's attempt at escape from the county jail is credited to a girl 17 years of age, Miss Sadie Whitehead, daughter of Mary and Frank Whitehead of 366 West third South street.

The attempt was made Sunday night from the women's ward of the jail. The method was that which has proven a favorite with several prisoners—prying loose bricks adjacent to the window jam in the hope of effecting an aperture large enough to crawl through between the wall and an outside bar of the window.

Various implements have been used in the past for attack upon the brick-work of the window jams, but it remained for the girl of 17 to attempt it with a spoon.

REAR ADMIRAL MAYO CALLED TO SENATE

Views on Granting Naval Awards in Opposition to Rear Admiral Sims

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20.—Rear Admiral Henry T. Mayo, commander-in-chief of the United States fleet during the war, told the senate committee investigating naval awards today that his letter to Secretary Daniels on December 23, declaring that the Knight board did not give sufficient consideration to service at sea, particularly to the duties and responsibilities of members of staff of the commander-in-chief of the fleet, was not to be considered in any sense one of protest. He read the letter at the request of Chairman Hale.

Admiral Mayo took a view diametrically opposed to that expressed by Rear Admiral Sims, who told the subcommittee that the Knight board in granting awards, gave too little consideration to the records of officers who served on shore. The navy department made public Admiral Mayo's letter on the subject some days ago.

Sims' Charges Barred

The examination of Admiral Mayo began under the ruling made yesterday by the senate naval committee whose present investigation should be confined entirely to the question of war decoration awards, charges made by Admiral Sims that the navy department did not co-operate fully with the allies during the war being deferred for subsequent investigation. Admiral Mayo said his letter was written after practically all of his recommendations had been changed or disapproved by the board or Secretary Daniels.

"I made very few recommendations for awards," he said, "mostly in the cases of members of my personal staff, force commanders and commanders operating independently. In the Captain O. J. Jackson, my chief of staff, I took a very conservative view and recommended a navy cross. In view of other commanders recommending their chief aides for distinguished service medals the board increased my recommendation to a distinguished service medal, but Secretary Daniels reduced it back to a navy cross. Captain Jackson was the only member of my staff, I believe, who finally received any decoration at all."

Testifying that Admiral Sims was supposed to be "under his command during the war, Admiral Mayo said that in order to facilitate matters Admiral Sims did not report to him, but directly to the navy department."

Well-Defined Policy Lacking.
Lack of a well-defined policy for the award of naval honors may have had a bearing on the decoration situation, Admiral Mayo said, adding:

"Both the board and the secretary were acting within their rights and prerogatives in charging recommendations for awards."

"But don't you believe, admiral, that the board and the secretary should have consulted you before changing your recommendations?" asked Chairman Hale.

"No, I do not," replied the admiral. "I do not believe it would have been practicable. It might have been desirable, however."

Admiral Not Satisfied.
"I do not say I was satisfied with the result of the action of the board and the secretary," added Admiral Mayo, "but I do say that they had the right to take such action as they wished and to assume the responsibility."

Staff Men Hard Working

"There has been a popular idea," he said, "that the chief function of the staff is to go along and look pretty when the Old Man goes on a call. That is not true. They are hard working, efficient men."

Senator Pittman, Democrat, Nevada, asked if Admiral Mayo believed there should be a policy that officers who lost their ships should be honored.

Such a policy would not be a good thing for the service, Admiral Mayo said, but added that in cases where the officer's conduct during and after the sinking, as in the cases of Captain Christy, of the cruiser San Diego, and Commander Foote of the transport President Lincoln, it should entitle him to high distinction. Under ordinary circumstances, he added, an officer who lost his ship, was, in all navies, court martialed.

When Rear Admiral Mayo concluded his testimony the committee adjourned until tomorrow. Major General Barnett, commander of the marine corps, will be called then.

Hope Felt Georgians Will Check Bolshevik

Apply Pepsin

Every Day to Your Teeth

All Statements Approved by High Dental Authorities

To Fight Film

DENTAL SCIENCE has proved that the great tooth wrecker is a slimy film. You can feel it with your tongue. Most tooth troubles are caused by it. It clings to the teeth, enters the crevices, hardens and stays. And teeth will discolor and decay where that film stays, however much you brush them. That is why millions of tooth brush users fail to save their teeth.

That film is what discolors—not the teeth. It is the basis of tartar. It holds food substance which ferments and forms acid. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay.

Millions of germs breed in it. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea. Scientists have for years sought ways to combat that film, but the methods proved inadequate. Then one man, after extensive research, applied activated pepsin—a digestant—to the film. And many clinical tests seem to clearly prove that he solved this great film problem.

We ask you to see for yourself. This pepsin method is employed in Pepsodent, and we offer a 10-Day Tube. See what it does when you use it. See the results in ten days. It will show you a way to clean your teeth as you never have cleaned them before.

See How They Glisten

Analysis shows that the film is albuminous. Pepsin digests albumin. The object in Pepsodent is to dissolve the film, then to constantly combat it. But pepsin alone is inert. It must be activated, and the usual agent is an acid harmful to the teeth. So pepsin long seemed forbidden.

Now a harmless, activating method has been found. And that method, used in Pepsodent, makes efficient pepsin possible.

Able authorities have proved Pepsodent by convincing clinical tests. It has been adopted, and is now endorsed, by leading dentists everywhere. It does what nothing else has done, and everyone should use it. We urge you to prove it yourself. Ask us for a 10-Day Tube. Look at your teeth and see what it does. See how they glisten. Do this for your sake and your children's sake. Learn the way—the only way—to cleaner, safer teeth.
