BENJAMIN CHAPIN PROTRAYS LINCOLN

Benjamin Chapin fascinated a small audience with his vivid impersonations of Abraham Lincoln at the High school auditorium last night, the entertainment being one of the best of the kind ever presented in this city.

Mr. Chapin's make-up, both in figure and face, is perfect and his voice is in accord with what one would expect from the written descriptions of the war president. Several veterans of the civil war, who still carry with them the memory of Lincoln's voice, vowed after the entertainment that even in tone Chapin is true to the character he portrays.

The actor opens the entertainment with a speech which the son of the west delivered just prior to his departure from Springfield, Ill., to Washington, D. C., to assume the responsibilities of the presidency at the most critical time in the history of the country. The address is rendered with all the fervor and zeal that such an occasion would demand. After the address the speaker leaves the platform for a brief space of time and when he again appears it is to pro-tray a scene from the home life of the president.

"Lincoln" sits down at his table and converses with his wife and his son. That these characters are not present is hardly noticed by the audience, their absence being concealed by the art of the actor. He tells his son and tells him not to quarrel over little things; that it is better to step out of a path for a dog than to be bitten by the animal. He tells some of the quaint stories for which the martyred president was noted.

Chapin's third entrance upon the stage is devoted to a talk on affairs of state with some of his generals. It closes with the president receiving word of the firing upon Fort Sumter. This calls upon the artist to display great emotion and proves Chapin to be a man of exceptional talent.

The entertainment closes with the president leaving the White House to attend the play at Ford theater on the fatal night of April 14, 1865.

COAL DEALERS AT INVESTIGATION

With increasing zeal at every development in the progress of its investigation into the alleged conspiracy now existing in the coal trade, the Weber Club investigating committee continued its examination of local coal dealers at a session last evening.

Only one dealer was called to testify before the committee last evening and for well-founded reasons the names of all dealers appearing before the investigating body are withheld from public mention. This makes a total of four witnesses examined so far by the committee. Last evening's session was the second meeting of the committee yesterday, the first session having been held at 11 o'clock in the forenoon.

Following the testimony of every retailer the members of the Weber Club become more influenced in their belief that there exists among the mine operators a combine which is responsible for the present high price of coal. Whether or not the railroad is a party to this alleged conspiracy is a problem which the present investigating body will solve before its task is completed.

So far the progress made by the committee has been very satisfactory to the three members—Chairman Craig, Frank Stevens and George H. Matson. It is impossible to state at this time just when the body will have accumulated sufficient evidence to warrant the making of a report to President Heywood of the Weber Club.

The New Windsor hotel, right in the center of the city, is the favorite stopping place of people from outside towns, when they come to Salt Lake.

AT THE THEATRES

ELLEN BEACH YAW.

Grand opera, measured by the support which was given the concert by Ellen Beach Yaw and her company last night, is a complete failure in Ogden. How an artist of Miss Yaw's accomplishments can become sufficiently enthused to even appear before an audience consisting of a few dozen people speaks well for her ability to maintain an unruffled composure under trying conditions.

That the operatic concert was deserving of better support goes without saying but in a city which displays such pronounced musical tendencies as Ogden the lack of interest in an event like that of last night is hard to understand. If Miss Yaw looked forward to an enthusiastic reception from the music-loving people of Ogden last night, her expectations must have been suffered an awful jolt when she gazed out at that ghastly array of empty seats.

But those who did attend displayed an appreciation which must have been some slight consolation to Miss Yaw and the members of her excellent company. Every number was heartily enjoyed and the musicians were forced to appear and reappear many times following each selection.

Possessed of a fine, clear voice of remarkable range, Miss Yaw fascinated her auditors with her supreme execution of pleasing operatic selections. More than half of Miss Yaw's selections and all of her encores were in English and these were especially pleasing.

Her rendition of the "Mad Scene" from Lucia, with a flute obligato, as the final number on the program was the crowning glory to her pronounced success. This wonderful operatic selection requires a talent such as possessed by only a few of those who aspire to its rendition and Miss Yaw is one of the fortunate few.

The flute selections by Mr. Plowe and the piano solos by Mrs. Newman.

"Polly of the Circus"

"Polly of the Circus," one of the most worthily successful of recent American plays and in which comedy and semi-tragedy are closely entwined to provide incessant excitement, and also a happy ending, and has been pronounced far and wide as the cleanest and purest drama of the decade with Ida St. Leon will be seen as "Polly" at the Orpheum theater, Saturday afternoon and night, December 3.

The production offered to local theatergoers is exactly identical with that seen for one entire season at the Liberty theater, New York City, while the cast is the most competent and uniformly excellent seen in many a long day. Securing an attraction of this magnitude for this city is an enterprise that seems sure to be rewarded by an overflowing audience when "Polly of the Circus" comes to town.

work will be continued until all the pipe lines will be of iron. Water mains are being installed on all taps where horses and cattle are watered.

CONVENTION OF SUNDAY SCHOOLS

Every section of the state with the exception of Salt Lake City was well represented at the state convention of Sunday school workers, which opened in this city last night. A large delegation from Salt Lake will arrive this morning to attend today's sessions, which will be held morning, afternoon and evening.

Those in attendance at the first meeting last evening included delegates from Logan, Provo, Kaysville, and in fact all parts of the state, and especially the northern section. The auditorium of the First Methodist church, where all the sessions will be held, was almost entirely filled by the large crowd last evening.

With the exception of the anthem by the church choir, the program was carried out as printed last evening. The feature of the program was the address by Bishop Spalding. He took for the theme of his discourse the importance of Sunday school work in America, claiming that in this country, where all religious training is barred from the public schools, there is urgent need of such activity among Sunday school workers.

His entire sermon was filled with instructive lessons for the assembled workers. One strong point brought out by the bishop was that there can be no moral advancement among the young without religion.

The program for the opening service last night was as follows: Organ Voluntary—Miss Laird. Hymn—Congregation. Prayer—Rev. Wildman Murphy, state president Sunday School association.

Address of Welcome—The Rev. F. V. Fisher. Solo—"Carst Thou Thus, O Master," (Meldike) Miss Holberg. Address—The Right Rev. S. F. Spalding of Salt Lake, Bishop of Utah.

Hymn, Benediction. The program for today is of great interest, especially the address of Marion Lawrence of Toledo, Ohio. The program follows:

EPHRAIM MAN DIES IN IDAHO.

He was taken ill with typhoid fever several weeks ago, which was the cause of his death. He leaves a widow and two children. Interment will take place in Driggs.

BURGLARS ROB CLOTHES SHOP

Gaining entrance by breaking the glass from a small window in the rear of the building, burglars entered the Nobby Sutorium at 320 Twenty-fourth street Monday night and escaped with clothes amounting to $60.

No clue to the identity of the guilty party has as yet been discovered, but the police are of the opinion that the same person or persons who entered this place also entered the Leader Clothing Store on Twenty-fifth street on the same night and escaped with thirty suits of clothes.

TAKING UP WOODEN PIPE.

Manti, Nov. 29.—The work of taking up the wooden water mains on Depot and Union streets was commenced here today by the city officials. Since the main pipe line from the tank leading through the city was replaced with iron pipe, during the early part of the summer, it has been found necessary that all the laterals connecting with it be also replaced with iron pipe, as the wooden pipe, which has served for about 20 years, would not stand the pressure. About 75 men and teams have been placed on the job of excavating the old pipe. The work will be continued until all the pipe lines will be of iron. Water mains are being installed on all taps where horses and cattle are watered.

SALOON MEN IN SHOOTING SCRAPE

Paul Moletz Seriously Wounded Nicholas Lamont, Drunken Partner.

Salt Lake, Nov. 30.—As a result of an altercation between Nicholas Lamont and Paul Moletz, proprietor of the notorious Midway bar, 169 West South Temple street, which wound up in a sensational shooting affair, the former is at St. Mark's hospital, suffering from a wound in the left side of the face.

Moletz emptied his revolver at Lamont, but all the shots went wild except one. Lamont, with his brother, John, were arrested Monday night for creating a disturbance in the saloon. At that time John Lamont pointed a revolver at Paul Moletz, who was then a partner in the saloon.

Nicholas Lamont, victim of the shooting Tuesday, was released on his own recognizance. Nicholas Lamont went to the police station shortly before noon Tuesday to endeavor to secure the release of his brother, but owing to the fact that he was not thoroughly sober, he was ordered away by Lieutenant John Hempel. He had been gone but a short time when the police were called to the Midway bar. It appears that Moletz refused to give Lamont a drink of whisky and a quarrel ensued, in which Lamont is said to have drawn a revolver. Moletz ejected him from the place, and Lamont, it is claimed, threatened to shoot through the window of the saloon, whereupon Moletz went out on the sidewalk to him and then the excitement began.

Begins Shooting.

Moletz drew his revolver and began shooting at Lamont, firing the five cartridges in quick succession. That Lamont was not killed appears miraculous, as the two men were not more than four feet apart. Only one bullet took effect, the other four going wild. This bullet struck Lamont in the cheek, knocking out three teeth and emerged through the mouth. An artery was cut and Lamont bled profusely.

A small crowd was passing the saloon at the time and every one ran to cover for protection from the fusillade of bullets, with the exception of Geo. L. Stafford, a steam fitter, living at 341 North First West street, who was on the opposite side of the street. Stafford ran toward the contestants and disarmed and held Moletz, at the same time calling out to the other party to catch and hold Lamont, who was staggering from the effects of the injury and his overdose of liquor, but who, nevertheless, was attempting to reach for his revolver.

The police were notified and the auto patrol, with Driver Moore and Patrolmen Phillips, Giles and Armstrong, rushed to the scene. Lamont and Moletz were taken to the emergency hospital, where the former's injuries were dressed by Police Surgeon H. B. Sprague. He later was removed to St. Mark's hospital.

Stafford is the man who, several months ago, arrested and disarmed Roy Armstrong, the negro, who shot J. T. Brennan at Postoffice place and West Temple street. Brennan later died from the wounds. In telling the story of the tragedy of Tuesday morning Mr. Stafford says that Moletz appeared to fire all the shots directly at Lamont's head, but owing to the fact that the gun was of a cheap make and Moletz was excited, the weapon recoiled and the shots, with the exception of one, went wild.

Ignorance of the Hair Causes Much Baldness Among Men.

Early plety doesn't cause baldness, neither does any kind of plety. Some baldheaded men console themselves with the idea that baldness is caused by a superabundance of gray hair water, and would have the world believe that a baldhead is a sign of great intellect.

Such, however, is not the case. Ninety-nine times in one hundred, baldness is caused by dandruff germs which dig down deep into the roots of the hair, destroy its vitality and cause it to fall out.

All this may come gradually and take time, but as an up-to-date humorist would say, "What's time to a dandruff germ?"

If you have dandruff, the little invisible, persistent devils called dandruff germs are at work. Destroy them at once, or sooner or later they will cause your hair to fall out and you will be compelled to take your place in the baldheaded class.

In France baldheads are few because men understand how to care for the hair. Parician Salve is a hair grower and hair restorer that is guaranteed by BACON PHARMACY to grow hair if the hair root is not already destroyed, to eradicate dandruff, stop itching scalp and falling hair, or money back.

HIGH RAILROAD OFFICIALS GATHERING IN SALT LAKE

Salt Lake, Nov. 29.—Horace W. Clarke, second vice president and general manager of the Denver & Rio Grande, arrived in this city late Tuesday night in his private car from Denver. Charles H. Schlacks, first vice president of the Denver & Rio Grande and the Western Pacific, is due to reach this city this morning at 7:30 in his private car from San Francisco. While the definite information had been received in this city Tuesday night, it was expected that Charles M. Levey, second vice president and general manager of the Western Pacific, will accompany Mr. Schlacks.

Just what business will be transacted at the meeting today is problematical. It is known that the passenger business of the Western Pacific has been increasing by leaps and bounds, and it is more than likely that one of the important discussions of the conference will be the putting on of another train. While no official announcement has been made, it is understood that the question of reducing the running time of the present train will come up for consideration. It is said that the Western Pacific is about ready to announce that it will cut the time between Salt Lake City and San Francisco by several hours.

Struck by a passenger train and hurled from a bridge to the water fifty feet below was the terrible experience of Jack Lewis, member of a railroad construction gang, Monday afternoon. Although the man was not killed he sustained injuries which makes his recovery very improbable.

The accident happened on the San Pedro road near Caliente, Nevada. Lewis, who is a resident of Battle, was walking across a bridge about 2:30 o'clock in the afternoon when he was caught on the structure and tossed into the river.

Having witnessed the accident, the members of the train crew rescued the man from the river before he was drowned. It was found that he had sustained injuries to both legs, one leg being broken; there was a bad gash on the head; four ribs fractured, together with internal injuries.

Dr. C. E. Schwartz, a physician of Rawhide, Nevada, was on the train and gave the injured man all the attention possible until he was removed to a hospital at Salt Lake City.

CHILDREN IN PERIL IN BURNING HOUSE

Santaquin, Nov. 29.—Yesterday afternoon, while the people living at the Vanaudal home had gone to some of the neighbors, leaving two little children, fire broke out in the kitchen, where the tots had been playing with matches, and caused the burning of practically everything in the room—sewing machine, tables, chairs, windows and clothes. It is a miracle that the children escaped death. A woman who lives a little way off happened to see the smoke and ran up to the house and gave the alarm. The crowd, with over 100 school children, got the little fellows out of the building, scorched, but not fatally. The little ones were found in a corner, crouched together. Even the hair of their heads was burned to the skin.

JOHN E. BENSON DEAD.

BINGHAM, Nov. 29.—John E. Benson, a miner, who had made Bingham his home for about four years, died in Upper Bingham this afternoon after an illness with appendicitis of but a few days. Mr. Benson, who was a native of England, had no relatives in this country. He was 34 years old and single.

Funeral services will be held in the Eber W. Hall chapel here at 1 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. Rev. Martin Thomas will conduct the services. Interment will be in the Bingham cemetery.
