Three Trespassers on Railroad Property Are Fined and Warned—Number of Drunks.

Judge Murphy returned from his trip to Nevada this morning and held the regular session of police court, disposing of a large number of vagrants and drunks.

Carl Gustafson, William Backler and P. D. Julio, charged with drunkenness, forfeited their bail of $5 each by not appearing.

Thomas Odell, charged with the larceny of a watch, pleaded guilty and was fined $30. Odell claimed he took his watch from a man who owed him and only sought to hold the timepiece as security for the debt.

J. Mason, charged with trespass by the Southern Pacific company, forfeited bail to the amount of $5. H. W. Strickland and O. F. Carlson, who arranged on the same charge and entered pleas of guilty in each case and received fines of $5 each, the court remarking that they must learn to keep off other people's property.

George Anderson, Pat Murphy, Dan Lund, Carl Beckman and August Schneider pleaded guilty to charges of drunkenness and were fined the usual $5 or five days in each case.

Levi Southwell, charged with disturbing the peace of his wife and their neighborhood in general, forfeited his bail of $10 by not appearing.

Dan Morris and W. J. Murray were charged with trespassing on railroad property and were given suspended sentences of 90 days and an order to leave town or get to work.

George Washington Hall was charged with drunkenness and pleaded guilty, making the usual statement to the effect that he was ready to leave the city and, in fact, had gotten his things together, ready to get out of town in the event of his being ex-cused from paying the penalty.

The judge said he had hoped the local hotel suited George better than the jail, but he apparently did, but as he refused to put up elsewhere than at the jail, he would extend the customary invitation of 20 days.

John McDermott and Pat O'Brien were arraigned on the charge of vagrancy. John McDermott, receiving a suspended sentence of 90 days, provided they left the city within an hour.

W. F. Reeder and A. J. Hawks have returned from Central Nevada, where they are adding in the development of what is one of the most extensively mineralized districts in that state famous for its mining excitement.

Mr. Reeder exhibited specimens of diamonds, ruby silver and wire gold, which a greenhorn would recognize as valuable ore. The diamonds are from a property near Lone, owned by the Davis Brothers of Salt Lake, which is yielding big returns in quicksilver in the same district.

The silver and gold specimens representing values up in the thousands, came from the property of Mr. Hawks, near the old town of Ilwaco, the claim having been bonded to eastern parties for $30,000. The property was actually started for Ogden on his way to his home in Garland. A true fissure vein on this property produces very rich ore, some of it running $60 in gold and 720 ounces in silver.

Mr. Reeder has four claims in this same district, between the Hohavah and the Duluth Consolidated, which caused him to make a lively dash for that section at the close of the day. He left Ogden on Christmas day and managed to reach his property not too soon to prevent the claims being "jumped." Expert mining men say the Reeder claims give promise of developing into mines equally as rich as the Duluth Consolidated on the ore of which Mr. Hawks, at manager, has lately made a test run at the Berlin mill, receiving there from a bar of gold bullion valued at $1,000.

This mining region is 55 miles southwest of Austin and is beginning to attract much attention.

OFFICERS OF THE FOREST SERVICE HERE

L. F. Kneipp, assistant forester in the field for the office of grazing, Washington, D. C., is in the city conferring with the district forester relative to matters in this section. Mr. Kneipp has come from an inspection trip to San Francisco and will leave this afternoon for the conference of stockmen and forest service representatives to be held in Shoshone, Idaho, next week.

In relation to the above meeting, at which it is hoped all differences will be satisfactorily settled between the sheep grazers of southern Idaho and the forest service, Mr. Kneipp said:

"I anticipate no difficulty in our arranging grazing matters at Shoshone next week. Mr. Leavitt and Mr. Fenn, who have the situation well in hand will be there, besides various local representatives of the service. In fact, there is very little to be discussed other than the question of the sliding scale which was established recently. When this was published, stating that the allotment for the year's sheep grazing would be 235,000, considerable dissension arose from certain quarters because the allotment was 7,000 less than that of the year previous. That particular point is true, but technically the allotment is adequate as it allows 13,500 more than were actually grazed last year, 245,000 being the 1908 allotment and 321,000 being the number of sheep grazed. There are only a few who differ from the ruling and I am sure they will be led to see the matter in the broader light."

Examiner B. L. Wheeler is in the city, having come from the Toiyabe forest of Nevada, where he has been making some investigations of mining possibilities.

TOUGH CHARACTER IN COUNTY JAIL

To a Standard reporter this afternoon Sheriff Barlow Wilson said the sensational stories being circulated and published regarding the probable capture of Seymour L. Clark's murderer, in the person of one or more of the men arrested and now in jail for robbing the Plunge store of shoes, were without anything like serious foundation. He admitted that the man now in jail and charged with the theft of shoes were tough criminals and probably all-around crooks, but said there was absolutely nothing to connect them with either the Uintah box car robbery or the murder of his deputy sheriff.

Sheriff Wilson added that there had never been a moment since the Uintah tragedy when the officers were not on the still hunt for the murderer, and that the search would be continued without cessation until the cowardly murderer of an excellent officer had been run to his lair.
