Market Place of the Munnimakers

KEEP OUT.—If You Can't or Won't Offer a Square Deal Keep Out of the Market Place of the Munnimakers. Whether You're an Advertiser or a Buyer.—There's One Thing You are SURE of when You Deal in the Market Place of the Munnimakers.—A Deal That's Square.

Finding the One Best Customer

By MR. MUNNIMAKER

The Famous Profit-Wizard of the Standard Classified Advertising Columns.

Speaking of the problems that face the business man who sells only one article of a kind—such as paintings, antique furniture, works of art, etc., etc.—a problem which is equally important to the individual who has such an article to sell—Mr. Munnimaker, the famous Profit Wizard of the Standard, gave some helpful and interesting hints yesterday to a visitor who called on him for advice.

Mr. Munnimaker, as everybody in the city knows, is the presiding genius of the busy, enterprising classified want ad columns of the Standard.

"Selling a single article, of which you have no duplicate, and which you can sell to only one customer, is a business problem entirely different from selling an article of which you may have one or two dozen in stock, which can be sold to as many customers as desire it. When you have only one article, you must find the one customer, the one of the kind and sell to only one customer, it is of course important to find the customer to whom that article would be most valuable—in other words, the customer who wants that article the most, and who naturally would be willing to pay the highest price for it.

Instead of being merely a problem of getting all the people who are interested in such an article to hold up their hands and say they are interested—the problem really is to select from the thousands of possible customers, the one customer who desires that article the most, and who will pay the most for it.

Of course that sounds like hunting for a needle in a haystack—and it would be exactly like that, if the seller used ordinary methods to find his customer. It would take an enormous number of days—and you can see the proof of it in the efforts of this sort, which are constantly appearing in the Market Place of the Munnimakers.
