SKETCHES OF LITTLE OLD NEW YORK BY O. O. McINTYRE

Telegram Bureau: Rooms 121-125 Hotel Majestic, West Seventy-second Street.

NEW YORK, July 13.—Yvonne has come back to Greenwich village to lend color to the Latin quarter, the studios and ovens. She is just Yvonne that is all. No one knows her last name. She has been a familiar figure around artists' studios ever since she was born, now in Paris, now in London and now she is back in New York.

She abolished the paper napkin in the table de hotes. She prefers to wipe her mouth on her sleeve, or a frill, or a fellow artist's coat lapels. She was wont to dance on the tables for the very love of kicking the paper napkins off so they were abolished. Yvonne is just that way—so different, my dears, and such a serious thinker.

Yvonne thinks nothing of leaping up on a table. To Yvonne a table is no more than a stepping stone and those who travel to Bohemia to see Yvonne arch their eyebrows but secretly they admire her. Always when she hasn't a cigarette between her red, red lips, she has a rose there, a la Carmen. Sometimes it is only a paper rose, when things are not well with her friends, but always it is a rose of some kind.

Yvonne has three children. Her husband—she does not know where he is. The last time she saw him he was mixed up with some beauty in Petrograd or was it Munich? But he will come back. "He always has," says Yvonne.

Carlo de Fornare is a painter. He does not believe people should sleep at night. He says it is all stupid and insane. The dawn is the most beautiful time of day he says and nearly all New Yorkers miss it. Except, of course, those who stay up all night.

Fornaro often takes the late boat to Staten Island to see the sun rise. Then he sleeps just a few hours. And Fornaro says people do not know how to eat or how to dress. In fact Fornaro thinks he alone lives the right life.

Eugene Kelcey Allen, the boulevardier, went to a banquet the other night and his particular pal, a six-year-old girl who lives near his home, was telling another neighbor about it. "Did he wear a dress suit?" asked the neighbor. "Oh no," replied the little girl. "He dist wore his own clothes."

Motorists this season seem to travel one particular route for the season and the next year they choose another. Last year it was Long Island and this year it is up along the Hudson toward Tarrytown.

We were motoring the other day with Dr. F. M. Planck, of Kansas City, an old friend. We have great admiration for him for he once healed a very dear friend after he had been given up—and he didn't administer a drop of medicine.

But what impressed us is the way the out of town visitor sees the things of interest while the New Yorker is afraid to ask questions. By asking a few people along the roadway Dr. Planck discovered for the party the home of Helen Gould, the William Rockefeller estate, the most famous gardens in the world, John D. Rockefeller's estate and many more of the show places of the neighborhood.

Several in the party had passed those places time after time but did not know the interest attached to them.

They are talking of distributing free score cards at the New York ball parks. Harry Stevens, who has the concession there seems to be about the only person against it. It is not hard to see why he opposes it. He has made a huge fortune by selling refreshments and score cards. In fact it is said he has enough to retire.

Beware of Ointments for Catarrh That Contain Mercury

Mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucous surfaces. Such articles should never be used except on prescriptions from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is ten fold to the good you can possibly derive from them. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., contains no mercury, and is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. In buying Hall's Catarrh Cure be sure you get the genuine. It is taken internally and made in Toledo, Ohio, by F. J. Cheney & Co. Testimonials free. Sold by Druggists. Price, 75c. per bottle. Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.
