

Teenage Official, Branded in Ten Minutes as Civic Debaucher, Spends Night in Jail

peeping, and over the edge of the windows opening on Webster street protruded the heads of men sitting to the outer window sill. When the jury returned with its verdict the scene was changed. The courtroom had been cleared of spectators and scattered. Little expecting a verdict for several hours at least, the result being that when 10 minutes later the jury announced its readiness to report there was not more than 40 or 50 people left in the courtroom.

It was 8:35 o'clock when Judge Lawlor finished reading his charge to the jury and ordered the courtroom cleared in order that it might be used by the jury in its deliberations. For 10 minutes the deputy sheriffs and bailiffs fought to eject the crowd that persisted in loitering in the corridors. Then the doors were closed and the jury reached a verdict," asked Judge Lawlor.

"We have," answered Foreman Flood, rising in his place and presenting the folded paper in this court. Judge Lawlor read the verdict, and stated it in his record, and passed the paper to Clerk Martin Welch, who completed a similar formality. There was a breathless stillness in the courtroom until Welch had read the verdict to the court. Then the clerk read in a clear voice: "We, the jury, find the defendant guilty as charged."

For a moment the silence was unbroken. Then Attorney McPike demanded that as soon as the clerk had read the names of the jurors, one by one, asking them in turn if their verdict was guilty and each responded: "It is."

Judge Lawlor relieved the tension which followed by asking if either side had any recommendations to make as to the passage of judgment. Neither Delmas nor Coogan was present with Glass, the former having gone to his hotel as soon as the case had been given to the jury, and Coogan having absent himself during the entire evening. It was McPike who again responded in the defendant's behalf.

"I would suggest," he said, "that judgment be finished on those delivered at which time we will have some motions to make."

Judge Lawlor ordered the continuation to Wednesday instead of until Tuesday, stating that the court would better suit the convenience of the court. Glass, who had been taken into custody by Sheriff O'Neil as soon as the closing arguments were completed, was hurried from the courtroom after being granted a short consultation with his attorneys, and taken direct from the Temple Israel to the branch county jail. Deputy Sheriff John Holland was given charge of the man before being taken to his home in an automobile to the lonesome prison house in the Ingleside road.

Without exception, the closing arguments of the attorneys for both prosecution and defense were more forceful, logical and finished than those delivered at the former trial, and the crowd was almost as great as that in attendance when Delmas and Henry first met in argument a few weeks ago. Assistant District Attorney O'Gara closed with a 20 minute synopsis of testimony yesterday morning, following the line of his argument to show that no official of the telephone company but Glass himself authorized the payment of bribes to the supervisors by Halsey.

Attorney Coogan of the defense faced the jury at 10 o'clock and began an earnest argument, declaring that the evidence, fairly considered, could bring but one result—acquittal. Coogan asserted that no motive had been shown, as Glass was gradually withdrawing from the company at the time the bribes were paid, and he censured Attorney Evan S. Pillsbury without stint for what he claimed was the latter's animus against the man who had been his friend for 12 years. The speaker then attacked the prosecution for "hounding" Glass.

When D. M. Delmas took up the argument for the defense at 1:25 o'clock it was to read at the outset that portion of Pillsbury's testimony, in which the chief counsel of the telephone company declared that when he had asked Glass about the payment of the bribery money the latter had told him he knew nothing about it. On whether that statement by Glass to Pillsbury was the truth, he hinged the whole question of Glass' guilt, he declared.

He sketched the history of the company's organization and affairs from the time of President Sabin's death up to the time of Scott and Zimmer's presidency, and then turned the fire of his argument to the evidence, attempting to shift the load of suspicion from the shoulders of Glass to those of Fish, Pickernell, Scott and Zimmer.

"Could that amount of money have been withdrawn from the company's treasury by Glass and Zimmer while Pickernell was in charge, and yet remain a secret without the detection of Pickernell, knowledge and direction of Pickernell?" he thundered. "It has been shown that Pickernell was at the head of the parent company's fight against this same Home Telephone company at Salt Lake just prior to his coming here. Is it possible, then, that he came here and took no part in this opposition fight?"

Delmas closed with an appeal for the accused and by relating a story told him, he said, by a former attorney general, the point of which was how a threatened lynching had been stopped by the cries of a determined spectator who faced the mob, shouting, "You've got the wrong man." Delmas shouted the last words vehemently, and then turning to the jury, said solemnly: "Be sure that you haven't got the wrong man."

HENEY ARGUES BY CHART At the close of Delmas' address at 2:20 o'clock a 10 minute recess was taken, and during the interval a surprise was sprung by the prosecution through the talking up of a hanging sheet before the jury a great chart setting forth the amounts paid to the supervisors by Halsey, with the date of the payments, and a comparison showing the various amounts withdrawn from the banks on different dates corresponding with those of the bribery payments, as shown by the evidence. Coogan objected with all his vehemence to the placing of the chart before the jury, but Judge Lawlor ordered that it was not to be considered as evidence, but only as an illustration of Heneys argument, and it was allowed to stand. Printed in large red and black letters on a white sheet eight feet long and two feet wide, the chart presented an unusual spectacle in the courtroom, and its effectiveness was startling. Heneys referred to it time and again, using a slender red, white and blue cane as a pointer and driving home the force of his argument by tapping the figures on the great sheet with his stick.

It seemed for a moment that Heneys would be allowed to make little progress

Supervisors Mills Building

FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 23, 1906

Table with 2 columns: Name and Amount. Includes Fred P. Nicholas, Jennings J. Phillips, Edward L. Welsh, W. M. Coffey, W. S. Mumford.

SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 24, 1906

Table with 2 columns: Name and Amount. Includes Wilson, Pines, Ganslock, Coleman, Johnson.

FIRST WEEK IN MARCH, 1906

Table with 2 columns: Name and Amount. Includes W. W. Sanderson, Charles Boston.

Checks Paid by Bank

Table with 2 columns: Name and Amount. Includes Bank of California, First National Bank, Wells Fargo Nevada National.

FEB. 23, 1906

Table with 2 columns: Name and Amount. Includes Bank of California, First National Bank, Wells Fargo Nevada National.

FEB. 24, 1906

Table with 2 columns: Name and Amount. Includes Coaker Woolworth, Crocker Woolworth.

FEB. 26, 1906

Table with 2 columns: Name and Amount. Includes First National Bank.

Grand total amount paid

Verdict Reached in One Vote, Says Foreman

OUR verdict was reached on a single ballot, taken before any open discussion of the evidence had been had. We took a second ballot to make the decision of the jury formal, but in both instances the verdict was unanimous.—Statement of Dr. Philip H. Flood, foreman of the jury.

Juror Queen Declares Evidence Was Clear

SPEAKING for myself and the other jurors, I can say that we never considered for a moment the possibility that Pickernell or any of the other easterners were directly responsible for the bribery. The evidence against Glass was too clear.—Statement of Juror Joseph C. Queen.

FORD NEXT ON LIST

After the Attorney's Case Will Come Patrick Calhoun's Trial

Tirey L. Ford, chief counsel of the United Railroads, is the next of the grand defendants who will be brought to book on the charge of bribing members of the old board of supervisors.

With the Halsey case indefinitely postponed because of the defendant's serious illness, the prosecution is ready to begin at once on the trial of one of the street railway magnates, and Ford has been selected as the first to be brought before the bar of justice.

"We are ready to go ahead Monday or any other time, just as soon as the case is ready for the trial of another case," announced Assistant District Attorney Heneys last night. "There is lots of work still to do, and we don't want any longer delay than is absolutely necessary."

After Ford will come President Patrick Calhoun of the United Railroads. This, at least, is the present schedule of the district attorney's office. The evidence given before the grand jury against the United Railroads officials was of the presence of snow, and it is claimed by the prosecution that the cases against Calhoun, Mulhally, Ford and Abbott are far stronger than any that have yet been tried, and that a conviction in each case is but a matter of the proper presentation of the evidence already at hand.

Halsey is to be haled into court again as soon as his condition permits, and in the meantime if there is any delay in proceeding to trial in the other cases, the time will be spent in further grand jury investigations. The mass of new evidence developed during the trial of the two Glass cases has opened the way for an inquiry into the connection of other officials of the Pacific States telephone and telegraph company with the bribery giving of which Glass has just been convicted, and it is possible that indictments may yet be returned against Emile J. Zimmer and some of the officials of the American Bell telephone company, the parent of the local corporation.

HALSEY STILL ILL Theodore V. Halsey is still too sick to consult with his attorneys. Dr. Shumate informed the district attorney's office yesterday that Halsey possibly is a little better, but not yet well enough to talk about his case. Consequently the 10 jurors who have been impelled to try him for bribery cannot be discharged, as under the law the defendant's personal consent is necessary. Cook suggested to the court that the case go over for a fortnight, by which time Halsey would probably be in a condition to talk with his attorneys, but Judge Dume decided to order a continuance for one week.

MANY KILLED AND INJURED WHEN PLATFORM FALLS

Structure Built by Portuguese Newspaper for Lottery Drawing Collapses With Fatal Results

OPORTO, Portugal, Aug. 30.—A platform erected by a local newspaper on the occasion of a lottery drawing collapsed today, hurling to the ground about 500 persons, of whom 10 were killed and 30 injured.

Later it became known that 150 persons were hurt, many of them seriously. King Charles telegraphed his condolences to the mayor. The city is in mourning as a result of the disaster.

KELOGG DENIES RUMOR NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—The published report that Attorney General Bonaparte is to resign and be succeeded by Frank B. Kellogg of Minnesota, now acting as special counsel for the department of justice in the prosecution of the anti-trust and antitrust cases, was given an emphatic denial today by Kellogg.

SAILOR DIES FROM SHOT BY A MARINE SENTINEL

Comrades Rush to Capture Slayer, but Doubled Guard Saves Him

AFFAIR HUSHED UP

Sailors Claim Guard's Act in Shooting to Kill Is Unjustified

Special by Leased Wire to The Call

SEATTLE, Aug. 30.—George Lefebre, a first class fireman on the battleship Nebraska, was shot by Marine Guard Stevens at a point around the navy yard yesterday afternoon and succumbed to the wound five hours later. The bluejacket was in the act of scaling the ward wall to get a drink at a neighboring hotel, and refused to halt at the sentry's challenge.

The affair has been hushed up by the authorities and only became public tonight. Ill feeling between the marines and sailors has existed for some time. Admiral Burtlett, in charge of the navy yard, issued orders which restricted the shore leave of the sailors, which led to strained relations between them and the marines, who are under the admiral's command.

After the fatality about 80 of the bluejackets made a rush to capture the man guilty of the shooting, but he was protected and double guards were put on duty to protect the quarters where he is confined. The sailors claim that men have gone to get a drink in the same way hundreds of times without being interfered with, and hold that the shooting was unjustified under any circumstances.

TO KEEP YOSEMITE FALL FLOWING ALL THE YEAR

Garfield Outlines Project to Increase Reserve Water of Creeks

Special by Leased Wire to The Call

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 30.—At the suggestion of Secretary Garfield of the interior department, who believes steps should be taken by the government to maintain a more constant flow of the water over the Yosemite and Bridal Veil falls, a reconnaissance trip through Yosemite valley has been completed by W. B. Clapp of Los Angeles, engineer in charge of the water resource branch of the United States geological survey. Clapp says the project outlined by Garfield can be accomplished, and is expected that it will be undertaken in the near future.

Owing to their somewhat limited water sheds, Yosemite and Bridal Veil creeks, which supply the falls, usually run dry about August 1, to the great disappointment of thousands of visitors to the national park. The season at the park hardly opens until late in June because of the presence of snow, and the recreation period is much shortened by the early drying of the creeks. By building up the reserve head waters of the streams it is planned to conserve the flow of the waters and to furnish a supply that will maintain the beauty of the falls through the months of August and September and possibly October.

"SCOTTY" MAY APPEAR AS HERO OF THE FOOTLIGHTS

Death Valley Midas Offered $600 a Week in Melodrama, but He Holds Out for More

Special by Leased Wire to The Call

NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—If negotiations now in progress go through, the play "Scotty" will have an opportunity of seeing "Scotty" of Death Valley fame, in a new play written around him and his adventures.

The company, which opens in Waterbury, Conn. tomorrow, has been rehearsing at the Majestic theater, Brooklyn, for the past two weeks, and Charles L. Crane, the manager, has been in communication with "Scotty," but has not received a favorable response.

The only hitch in the transaction seems to be the amount of salary. The management places the figure at $600, but "Scotty" wants more.

ESCAPING PRISONER LOSES NERVE AND HIDES HIS HEAD

Scales Wall of Penitentiary, Collapses and Is Found Frightened, His Face Buried in Sand

CARSON CITY, Aug. 30.—After scaling the wall of the state prison and gaining his freedom yesterday, John Edwards, who was serving a 22 years' sentence for holding up a saloon, lost his nerve and only hid his head in the sand.

The man scaled the wall after the greatest difficulty, but once outside the prison walls he collapsed. When a posse approached he made no effort to run, but persisted in burying his head deeper. He was easily captured.

DIES FROM BEATING CINCINNATI, Aug. 30.—F. F. Singleton, a former magistrate of Covington, Ky., who was found terribly beaten in a Richmond street house in this city last Wednesday, died at the city hospital last night. Singleton was enticed to the house by woman known to the police as Mrs. Walter West. Arriving there he was robbed and set upon by two men.

LANGDON IN OUTBURST CALLS HEARST A CUR

Continued From Page 1, Column 3

As to the endeavor of Hearst's tool to have him appoint independence league members to every office, Langdon had the following to say:

I wanted to run my own office and get rid of the burden of conducting the city's affairs at the earliest opportunity, and said that the time had come for me to relieve myself of that burden. I told O'Connell that the city was bigger than any party and that its interests were supreme. I told him that in whatever I did I would be guided solely by what I considered the city's interests in the selection of a mayor.

WANTED DWYER MAYOR

Asked if O'Connell urged any particular candidate for mayor upon him, Langdon replied: "I won't go into the discussion of that."

Last night O'Connell himself admitted that he asked Langdon to appoint J. J. Dwyer, and claimed that the district attorney promised to do so. It was Dwyer whom Hearst was so keenly anxious to have appointed.

The complaint filed by O'Connell and Polito in the suit against Bantel and Horton recites that Langdon is using an automobile bought for him by the city, and for which bills were not paid, as the charter provides. It states further that Langdon has a messenger at $1,500 a year, who is in reality a chauffeur. This is claimed to be contrary to the charter. The automobile, the complainants say, is "a distraction for all the deputies, clerks, and employees from their duties, and a hindrance to the public service," and is used by Langdon and his friends for private purposes.

The district attorney is charged with obtaining by intimidating the supervisors, a contingent fund of $5,000. He is alleged to have defied the charter in appointing an extra assistant at $2,000 a year and a book keeper at $1,200 a year. He is charged with appointing bond and warrant clerks who are not attorneys, and with paying these clerks more than the charter allows.

As to the automobile, Langdon said last night it was necessary for the business of his office, and was purchased in the same way as those used by the mayor, the fire chief and the police chief. The extra clerks in his department had, he said, been approved in the manner prescribed by the charter.

"In any department extra officials may be appointed by the supervisors upon recommendation of the mayor," said the district attorney, "that course has been followed in my office in every instance. Some of the extra officials were appointed by my predecessor, Byington. As for my ex-convict friend's strictures about the contingent fund, it is a fact that the establishment of such a fund was recommended by three successive grand juries. Every county in California gives its district attorney a contingent fund."

WARNS OTHER CURS

"Finally, I wish to say that I cannot be expected to reply to every mangy cur who barks at my heels. I make this statement as a warning to the other curs not to bark."

O'Connell admits that he served six months in jail in Massachusetts. He explained last night that he was unjustly convicted of being accessory before the fact in a bribery case and that a full investigation would show him innocent. O'Connell admits also having been disbarred by the state courts of Massachusetts, but says he was not disbarred by the federal courts. His charge of name he explains by saying his full name is Bernard Daniel O'Connell. He was "Bernard D." in the east before he went to jail, since coming out here he is plain Daniel. The name Daniel was given him when he was 16 years old by Archbishop Williams of Boston, he asserts.

After he was admitted to the California bar charges were made against him, based on his Massachusetts record. These were investigated by a committee of the State bar association, but he was allowed to retain his license to practice. This, he says, proves that the charges made against him were without merit.

JOINT STATEHOOD ISSUE WILL NOT BE REVIVED

Arizona's Wishes, President Announces, Regarded as Final

OYSTER BAY, N. Y., Aug. 30.—By authority of President Roosevelt James R. Garfield, secretary of the interior, announced today that no other effort will be made by the administration toward bringing up in congress again the question of the joint statehood of Arizona and New Mexico. The verdict of the people recently expressed in these territories will be accepted by the president as final.

Garfield has just returned from an extended trip in the west, on which he visited Arizona, New Mexico and Oklahoma. He predicted that Oklahoma and Indian Territory will adopt their state constitution when the vote is taken September 17, notwithstanding the criticism of several features of the instrument by Secretary Taft in his recent speech at Oklahoma City.

BURMAN OBTAINS BAIL—Joseph A. Burman, the postal clerk arrested in the Oakland postoffice last Wednesday night by inspectors Stewart and Jones, was released yesterday by United States Commissioner Heacock on $500 bail.

Altogether there are fully 30,000 barmaids in England, and of these no fewer than 8,000 are employed in London.

SCHOENBERG'S FORGED OUT OF LOTTERY TRUST

Continued From Page 1, Column 1

"Drawings" were held in secret, in this city, barred from the view of all but a few of the select, would have a little effect on the demand for chances, he believed, as his confession that drawings based on lists from companies which had no existence had been held. Schoenberg's colossal confidence in the credulity and cupidity of the public discomfited Barnum's faith in the ubiquity of the American sucker. Nothing could have been finer than his statement: "Oh, yes, the game will go on if the police do not confiscate the tickets. But I have nothing to do with it any more. I've got enough. I'm out for good. I will attend entirely to my real business from now on, but Metzger will continue to run the M. & F. company, and if you will come to the office he will show you the affidavits signed by two men, who drew prizes once."

AN IMPORTANT EXHIBIT

By what unlucky chance a prize number was permitted to "show" at one of these secret drawings, presided over by the hirelings of the company, when nobody else was looking, was not divulged by Schoenberg, but the circumstance was evidently deemed of sufficient importance to secure affidavits from the two who made a winning ticket, which affidavits the company vitiously will display to any who doubt that the blunder had been made.

According to the confession of Schoenberg last night the M. & F. company is like a brass faro game in a blind asylum. You do not know you've won until the crook who has lost tells you about it. The company makes up its own list in secret. But there is going to be another "drawing" soon, says Schoenberg—unless the police interfere.

In extension of his criminal connection with the business he abandoned before the wrath of Chief Anderson, Schoenberg feebly referred to the fact that he was one of the first to build after the fire was out. He lost little time getting into "business" again.

CITIZENS PETITION FOR BETTER PHONE SERVICE

Ask Fresno Trustees to Regulate Charges and Improve Conditions

Special by Leased Wire to The Call

FRESNO, Aug. 30.—Disgusted with the telephone service in this city, due, it is alleged, to an insufficient number of telephone girls, several hundred citizens have signed a petition to the board of trustees for the city asking for municipal interference in the abominable situation. The petitioners also ask that the city fix the rate of telephone charges. William Harvey Sr., secretary of the Fresno County humane society, who is circulating the petition, stated that the charges of the telephone company are unreasonable. The company is endeavoring to change the system from ten party to four party lines, increasing the monthly charges from $1 to $1.50.

ROCKEFELLER CLAIMS FEES

CHICAGO, Aug. 30.—The witness fees and mileage of John D. Rockefeller, claimed by him for his appearance before Judge Landis in the federal court some weeks since, were paid today. A check for $43 was mailed to Rockefeller's home in Chicago.

CRUEL DRIVERS FINED

August Shair, William Naccarini and Nick Putoce were each fined $10 for driving a horse and buggy on a charge of cruelty to animals for driving horses with sores on their backs. Other cases were continued.

The Last Dates For Cheap Rates This Fall—

September 3, 4, 5, 11, 12, 13

25, 26

30

OCTOBER 1 and 7

To Saratoga and back, only, on September 3, 4 and 5

To Norfolk and back only, on September 25 and 26

All other dates to all towns shown and to others

THERE AND BACK

Table with 2 columns: City and Rate. Includes Chicago, St. Louis, Memphis, New Orleans, Kansas City, Atchison, St. Joseph, Leavenworth, Omaha, Council Bluffs, Pacific Junction, Sioux City, St. Paul, Mineola, Duluth, Houston, Norfolk, New York, Boston, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Washington.

And many others.

The California Limited

Is available for purchasers of these excursion tickets, and being the only first-class train (exclusively), its charms are strong.

These tickets are also good on either of our other daily Overland express trains.

This is the best time of the year to stop at the Grand Canyon.

Write, phone or call and we will plan it all.

F. W. PRINCE, 673 Market St., San Francisco. J. J. WARNER, 112 Broadway, Oakland. H. R. STERNE, 27 South First St., San Jose. W. B. HINCHMAN, 130 J St., Sacramento.

Advertisement for Arrow Collars. Features an illustration of a collar and text: 'ARKHURST ARROW COLLARS. HAVE JUST THE RIGHT AMOUNT OF SPACE BETWEEN THE TOP AND THE BAND FOR THE CRAVAT TO SLIDE EASILY. 300 STYLES IN QUARTER SIZES; 150 EACH; 2 FOR 250. CLOUETT, PEADRY & CO., MAKERS OF THE CLOUETT SHIRT.'

Advertisement for Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. Text: 'CHAMBERLAIN'S COLIC, CHOLERA AND DIARRHOEA REMEDY. A few doses of this remedy will invariably cure an ordinary attack of diarrhoea. It can always be depended upon, even in the more severe attacks of cramp colic and cholera morbus. It is equally successful for summer diarrhoea and cholera infantum in children, and is the means of saving the lives of many children each year. When reduced with water and sweetened it is pleasant to take. Every man of a family should keep this remedy in his home. Buy it now. PRICE, 25c. LARGE SIZE, 50c.'

Advertisement for The Call's Branch Offices. Text: 'THE CALL'S BRANCH OFFICES. Subscriptions and Advertisements will be received in San Francisco at following offices: 1451 FILLMORE STREET. Open until 10 o'clock every night. 818 VAN NESS AVENUE. Parent's Stationery Store. 2200 FILLMORE STREET. Woodward's Branch. 533 HAIGHT STREET. Christian's Branch. SIXTEENTH AND MARKET STS. Jackson's Branch. 974 VALENCIA STREET. Halliday's Stationery Store. 1108 VALENCIA STREET. Blake's Bookery. 3011 16TH ST. COR. MISSION. International Stationery Store. 2712 MISSION STREET. The Newsies.'