University Professors to Consult With Teachers of State at Stockton

BERKELEY, Nov. 9.—Announcement was made today at the University of California of a two days' conference to be held in Stockton December 28 and 29 in connection with the convention of the California Teachers' association...

The sessions are under the joint auspices of the University of California and the California Teachers' association. There will be present all the members of the association and a number of accredited representatives of the university and of the normal and high schools of the state...

ADDRESS BY GOVERNOR

An elaborate program, in which Governor Hiram W. Johnson, former Governor George C. Pardee, chairman of the state conservation commission, the presidents of the two universities, Benjamin Ide Wheeler of California and David Starr Jordan of Stanford, will be asked to speak, is being arranged.

The program calls for four sessions over the two scheduled days. These will be in conjunction with the bay counties section of the Teachers' association. Thursday the meetings will be held jointly with the teachers in the morning with those of the elementary section and others interested in vocational education, and particularly in agricultural education in the rural schools...

The Thursday afternoon session will complete this day's work, as it will be held in conjunction with all the teachers of the association convention. At this general session the most pressing educational problems will be considered.

For Friday morning is scheduled the first conservation conference held in California. The most prominent men identified with the movement in this state are to be the speakers.

RURAL PROBLEM TOPIC

The afternoon session will be a round robin discussion of the recommendations of the California country life commission conference at Davis for state aid in agricultural education.

These recommendations provide that the state shall bear part of the expense of maintaining agricultural education departments in high schools and elementary schools. It is also recommended that a thorough system of supervision of such educational work be provided from the state university and the office of the state superintendent of public instruction.

EDUCATOR TO LECTURE ON FREE TEXTBOOKS

Doctor Boone to Speak for the Child's Welfare League

OAKLAND, Nov. 9.—Dr. Richard Gause Boone, head of the department of education of the University of California, will deliver an address on free textbooks at an open meeting of the Child's Welfare League in the Common School Assembly hall, Eleventh and Grove streets, Monday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

Doctor Boone has been head of the educational department of the University of Indiana, president of the Michigan normal college, superintendent of schools in Cincinnati and editor of the National Magazine of Education of Boston, and has been allied with educational work for many years.

A bill to provide for free textbooks was defeated at the last session of the legislature, but may be brought before the special session. In view of this possibility, early and late developments in the state printing office, the Child's Welfare League considers this an opportune time for Doctor Boone's address.

A special invitation has been issued by Superintendent McClymonds and Miss Annie Brown to local teachers, and the public is invited to attend this and all open meetings of the league, which are held the second Monday in each month.

ATTACK ON WILL IS RENEWED BY EXPERT

McManus Document Again Is Called a Forgery

OAKLAND, Nov. 9.—Declaring that the purported will of the late Alexander McManus, leaving his estate to Miss L. A. Griffith, was the most obvious forgery examined by him in his professional career of 38 years, Carl Eisen-schimmel, handwriting expert, today renewed his attack on the document as a feature of the contest of John McManus, a disinherited nephew, in Judge Waste's court.

Yesterday Eisen-schimmel was at sword's points with Attorney W. B. Rinehart, representing Miss Griffith, and threatened to teach him a lesson, but the proceedings today were more pacific.

The purported will was discovered in a book of accounts kept by McManus, the last entry of which was in 1902. The public administrator searched the house, but the will was undiscovered until Rinehart found it. The contested will was admitted to probate over the protest of the public administrator. Later Attorney Edward Elhasson filed contest on behalf of John McManus, a resident of Ireland. The estate is valued at $5,000.

PARASITE GIVES VICTIM FRIGHT

Visitor Here, Relieved of a Huge Tapeworm, Has a Scare

Maurice Carleton of Fresno, who came to Oakland to take treatment for stomach trouble, had the surprise of his life yesterday when his doctor took from him a fifty-foot tapeworm. Mr. Carleton is now living in Oakland at 920 Broadway. In a statement relative to his strange and startling experience he said:

"I was never so surprised and scared in my life as I was today when I discovered that I had been suffering from such a terrible-looking parasite. I have been in bad health for a number of years from what I supposed to be chronic stomach trouble. My appetite seemed to come and go, and what I did eat never seemed to do me any good. I was very nervous—so bad that I couldn't sleep at night or sit still a minute during the day. I was very weak and tired all the time, and never seemed to have any ambition to get out and do things. I was very much constipated and had some trouble with my kidneys and liver. My skin was sallow and my blood seemed thin.

"I read in one of the Oakland papers about the wonderful cures that were being effected here by the Lanham system with their new system of medical treatment. I decided to come up and see what they could do for me. They told me right away that I had a tapeworm, and they put me on a course of treatment that relieved me of it in a few days. I can never tell how grateful I am to these physicians, who certainly know their business."

The Lanham offices at 83 and 84 Bacon building, Oakland, are crowded from morning to night with visitors from this city and nearby towns. These doctors are giving free advice and services to all the sick and afflicted in order to introduce the famous system of medicine which has had a tremendous success in the east, and which is fast proving sensational results in this city. Hours from 9 in the morning to 6 at night, week days, and until 9 o'clock Saturdays.—Adv.
