How to Advertise.

A writer in the New York Evening Mail on the science of advertising says : "As the object of advertising is to inform the greatest number of people in the most effective manner, this end is best attained by announcements in the columns of the press. There are other methods of advertising. and novel ideas spring up every day, but such are for the moment only; and the experience of all first-class and successful houses induces them to do their advertising in the newspapers, and there alone. Next comes the question as to what is the best method of securing the attention of newspa To-day is the anniversary of the per readers. It is very simple and consists in continuous advertising.
