Humbug to the Last.

The success of the Buchanau democracy, in the recent canvass, in their attempts to make Fillmore men believe that there was danger of the election of Fremont, and that they, therefore, as patriots ought to abandon their sound, national candidate, | 500 in these six counties. and vote for Buchanan to prevent such a calamity, appears to have induced the Buchananites hereabouts, to think they have not yet sounded all the depths of gullibility. We note that they are to have a celebration and illumination to night, in glorifica tion of the election of Buchanan and Breckinridge, and in the announcement prefer the following singularly modest request

"Every family or household in the city disposed to rejoice over the election of Buchanan, or the defeat of Fremont, is requested to illuminate his or their dwelling."

If there is a Fillmore man in this com munity dolt enough to permit himself thus to be wheedled into giving edat to a democratic celebration of the defeat, by all sorts of cheating and humbuggery, of the candidate of his choice, the noble FILLMORE, we shall begin to think the race needs improving, and that an importation of Mexican Greasers might be employed usefully in elevating the breed!

Complimentary.

The Junior Editor of the Union and American, F. C. Dunnington, Esq., has been presented with a "beautiful set of silver plate," as a token of appreciation by his party friends of the energy and ability with which he discharged his arduous duties in the late Presidential Campaign. The young knight has now his spurs gallantly; gallantly may he wear them!

The Perils of Lager Bier.

Until we happened to read an article in the November Scalpel, we had the impression that of all the swill-like potables, Lager-Bier-the staff of German lifewas the most harmless in its effects. It never entered our mind, that it was a deadly, bestializing poison, stupefying without previous exhilaration, encasing its devotee in folds of morbiferous fat, and leading him to a nasty, greasy, brutal sort of death. Lager Bier hath for us, hereafter, the same associative horrors as the undertaker's

We quote from the Scalpel ;

There can be little doubt, that by retarding the decomposition of the tissues in the human organism, larger bler causes an unpatural deposit of fat all over the system in persons of sedentary habits, for we find that they suffer more from its injurious effects than those who, by active exercise, accelerate its conversion into its elements, carbonic acid and water. As an instance of this, compare the effects of lager bier on our clerks and young men about town, and the German Turners, and the difference of its effect or rather the effect of the counteracting influences which are working against it, will be immediately perceived. In women who take little exercise, lager bier acts as swill does on stable cows; it accelerates the secretion of milk, but furnishes it with no caseine or other nitrogenized substances, by which alone the infant can be sustained. The child will consequently, have a watery and soft appearance, and be destitute of healthy color; it will be liable to effusion of water on the brain, and die readily from croup or scarlet fever. In such cases, we have frequently observed the child improve by being weaned, even if fed upon the ordinary beterogeneous compound called milk. We believe the taste of lager bier is naturally disagreeable, and that it is destructive to beauty. Women preserve unimpaired their natural tastes for a longer period than man; in fact, they seldom become as viriated in their tastes as men. I have observed that they seldom drink beer. In all the saloons you generally see some other drink standing before them. We know that by women in Europe it is considered vulgar to drink beer, although we never were in-

It is little wonder that the German nation should remain subject to the rule of thirty six petty tyrants when we consider the state of indifference into which individuals may be sunk by crinking even quantities of beer, much too small to cause, by their alcoholic properties, anything approaching intoxication. This total annihilation of the executive faculty, can be attributed to no other cause than the hops with which lager bier in particular is so highly impregnated. Whether or no, the parcotic properties of this bitter vegetable are intensified by the carbonic scid, we are not prepared to answer; but that it does increase the stimulating and intoxicating properties of alcoholic mixtures, is well known to drinkers of sparkling wines, or other serated mixtures.

We have, in the saloons in this city, wat hed the awakening from the lethargic stupidity into which a crowd of habitual imbibers of lager bier has been sunk, when the announcement was made that a fresh barrel had been struck. Their greasy faces shine with additional lustre, and a perfect rush takes place to be first ready for the waiter. They appear to have a keep appreciation of the diffusive properties of the extra quantity of carbonic acid present in such beer.

It is in such subterranean establishments as throng our city, that may be seen a class of wretches who, to create thirst, est cheese in an advanced state of decomposition, salted and smoked cels, etc. : gluttons, who neither ent to live nor live to North. eat, but live to drink."

Other effects of the narcotic quality of the bier are dwelt on, and the picture of the consequences physical and moral upon the constitutions of bier swilling Germans, are quite as disgusting as any thing we have lately read. The beverage must indeed be Beelzebub's favorite draught, and ney General, James C. Vandyke, of Pennsylif Dr. Dixon is half way right about it, there is unquestionably a tap-room for it in of New Jersey.

This can be bet on, at least four out of the tophet. By the way, who shall say, that six. But don't bet more than a bunch of cigars, much of the rotten, material philosophy of modern Germany is not the product of the vile elements of the national swill?

Omitting a considerable portion of the disquisition, we quote again from the Scalpel: "The habitual imhibers of this beverage are generally obliged to hold their clears to their mouths, which being used chiefly as funnels for their favorite drink, seem incapable of much muscular tenacity. On men addicted to sexual excess, the neck appears to diminish in size, while the head swells out like that of a roung sparrow in proportion to his limbs, and their skin, although retaining its greasy aspect, loses its color and is more transits

The effect of larger bier on the voice is very marked; and the rapid decay in the voices of the tenor singers of the German glee-clubs, who lose not only the quality of tone, but the high range, produces in such societies always a great want of tenors; it has become a by-word among them to call a harsh, rawling voice a beer barrel voice. This fact is well known to opera singers, who instinctively avoid it."

We shall publish the full official returns the Presidential Election in Tennessee, as soon as they are received. We made unusual exertions to get them in at an early day; but our friends, smitten on almost every hand, have failed in sending them. The Union and American has returns from all the counties but six, of which it says-These returns, if we have made no error in ad-

The South Carolina Method of Choosing Electors.

From the Charleston Standard, Nov. 4.]

The General Assembly of this State will meet at Columbia to day, to cast the vote of South Caroli na for the Pre-ident and Vice President of the United States, and will present a scene very different from that which will be enacted in other sections of the Union. While, elsewhere, we have reason to believe that there will be a great excitement; that political machinery will be brought to bear; that the worst passions will be appealed to by the worst of men; that those who aspire to be the exponents of an enlightened age will exhibit their fitness for that office by leading mobs; and that all the people of every other State, at no matter what inconvenia ence and expense, must quit their homes and force their way to the polls-some hundred and seventy gentlemen will quietly assemble at the State House, and with an order and decorum that will be rarely witnessed in any other deliberative assembly, will cast the vote of the State and forthwith return to their homes again, with no more of popular disturbance than might attend the meeting of the Corporators of a Railroad.

This may not be Democracy; we rather think it is not of that type of Democracy so transcendent at the North, but we believe it is Liberty. It is an expression of the popular will, as perfect, perhaps, as could be devised. It is the judgment of a peo-ple expressed through the forms of law, and as perfectly expressed, perhaps, as though it was uttered through the entrancement of the most heated cident. The people have wrested no right from enhanced." the hand of despotism, which has not given them | The situation of this mine is on Fuca Straits, better for it, but we are not certain that liberty and Democracy are always and eternally coincident. Democracy in the opposition is one thing, Democracy in power is another. While working go hand in hand; perhaps it is necessary they should go so, but after grasping Government it is not certain that Liberty may not be forced to find solicitous to have represented in Government the true and best interests of the country, than the accidental tendencies of popular volition.

For the present, therefore, while it is still unsettled whether democracy, as a dictator, can be trusted, while, in fact, both in France and at the North there are indications that she is unwise, irregulated and dangerous; when her violations are prompted by the most unworthy motives, and when she will brook no check upon them, but will override and trample down the most chers ished conservatism of society that may happen to stand in her way; we are ready to hold on to our present moorings until we see further, and submit rather to the disparaging comparison with other States, presented by South Carolina to day, than to change at once to another and more

Buchanan in favor of Free Kansas.

It will be seen from the following letter of the New York Herald's Washington correspondent, that it is already affirmed at Washington that Buchanan is in favor of the admission of Kansas as a free State. This great work promises to be the most successful speculation of the age."

This is the manner in which the publiclands belonging to the whole Union, are squadered to speculators and railroad land jobbers, by the Democracy, while the old States are excluded from any participation whatever in the proceeds. When it was proposed by the illustrions Clay to distribute the proceeds of the sales of the public lands among all the States prorata, according to representative population, the Democracy made war upon and defeated the measure, on the alleged ground that such a policy would corrupt the States. In lieu of this wise policy, the lands are now used by Congress as corrupting fund, for the benefit of railroad jobbers and speculators!

VALUABLE COAL MINE IN THE PACIFIC.-By recent despatches to the Navy Department from Commander Swartwout, of the United States steamer Massachusetts, the important fact is communia cated of a discovery of valuable coal on the Straits of San Juan de Fuca. This discovery was made by Captain J. H. Thorndike. About four tons of it was dug out by the Indians and tested on board the Massachusetts, though the test, as Commander Swartwout remarks-

It leaves about five per cent of clinker, which with proper tools can be easily removed from the grates. The weight is forty seven pounds per cubic foot, and deposites, including clinker, about thirty per cent. by measure. It compares with Cumberland coal for weight against equal bulk as eight to ten, evaporative efficiency six to ten. Without pretending to a precise analysis, Mr. Patterson estimates this coal to consist of about seventy parts of carbon, twenty of bitumen, with the remaining ten parts of silica and earthy mat-
