strongly opposed to such occupation. M. Barbo Babesco, prefect of Mehedintzi, in Little Wallachia, in a letter to the Porte, after describing the evils suffered from the army of Russia, in reference to the rumored occupation of Wallachia by the Austrians, says: "Even a benevolent foreign army is burdensome for the country it occupies. Wallachia don't want aid from the Austrians. She is able herself to furnish a contingent of 50,000 men drilled in arms and disciplined. All we want is arms to not into the (hands of each of the 3,000 genput into the (hands of each of the 3,000 gend'arms, wood keepers, game keepers, and ancient soldiers, to be found in each of the seventeen departments of Wallachia. All these men require is arms to bear; the drums beat to burst upon the Russians."

An interview has taken place between Prince Gortschakoff and the Emperor of Austria, the object of which has not transpired.

It is also stated that Prassia is urging Austria to enter into new negotiations for peace, and has sent a special envoy to urge her to refrain from taking further steps in conjunction with England and France.

This interview with Prince Gortschakoff, and the solicitations of the King of Prussia, seemed to have operated upon the mind of Francis Joseph, for he had countermanded his orders for the Austrian troops to occupy Wallachis.

CONGRESS.

THIRTY-THIRD CONGRESS-FIRST SESSION

Senate, Monday, July 24, 1854. Mr. Pettit asked and obtained leave to make an explanation of a matter personal to him-self. He read a letter recently written by Col. Benton to an editor in Indiana, in which Mr. Pettit was spoken of as a great liar and a dirty dog. He said that if he could not show that Col. Benton was either a wicked and malicious falsifier of truth, or an imbecile dotard, he would be willing to bear the epithets which had been applied to him.

Mr. Mason called the Senator to order for Mr. Mason caned the Senator to order for thus speaking of a member of the House. Mr. Petiti said he did not intend to refer to Col. Benton as a member of the House, or any act of his as a member.

He said that, on his re-cent visit to Indians, he had discovered a large number of Benton's speeches on the Nebraska bill had been circulated there; and that many of those who had formerly denounced Benton as a thief, for stealing money and secreting it in his cravat, in North Carolina, and as the in his cravat, in North Carolina, and as the cold blooded murderer of Lucas, were now most lavish in their praise of that speech. He had undertaken to show, therefore, that the first violation of the Missouri Compromise was Benton's proposition to annex the Platte country to Missouri.

He then discussed that matter, and said that, in view of the circumstances, the letter would not be creditable to a lunatic in an asylum, or the greatest folon in his cell.

He commented on Benton's version of how that measure was obtained by the aid of Northern votes; and said by his (Col. Benton's) own account, he had approached Northern men

Mr. Mason objected to the memorial, on the ground that a foreigner could not address this Government through the Legislative Depart-ment. So the memorial was not received. The Senate resumed the consideration of the Civil and Diplomatic Appropriation bill. The first amendment pending was on the appropriation of $500,000 for the continuation the Washington water works.

Mr. Slidell moved an amendment providing that the corporations of Washington and Gaorgetown shall contribute, concurrently with the United States, one third of the cost of the work; and giving them power to raise the money therefor by loan or otherwise; and also providing that the conduit shall be reduced to seven feet instead of nine, as at present con-

House of Representatives, July 24, 1854.

The Speaker announced the first business in order to be the consideration of the motion to discharge the Committee of the Whole from the further consideration of the bill granting the right of way and a donation of public lands in aid of the Coosa and Tennessee railroad, in Alabama, with an amendment, as reported by Mr. Cobb, from the Committee on Public

Mr. Davis, of Indiana, by consent, reported, from the Committee on the District of Columbia, the Senate bill to charter the Proprietors of the Glenwood Cemetery, with an amendment making each stockholder liable for the debts of the company. The amendment was agreed to, and the bill was passed. The Committee of the Whole was, on motion of Mr. Houston, discharged from the further consideration of the private bills (ninety-two in number) which were approved in Commit-tee of the Whole on Saturday last, and not reported, because of the want of a quorum; and these hills were severally finally acted upon by the House.

The question then recurred on Mr. Cobb's motion respecting a railroad in Alabama;

Mr. Washburne, of Illinois, arose to a privi-leged question. He averred that the House-bill No. 342, donating lands to Minnesota, to aid in the construction of a railroad in that State, had been mutilated and altered in an important manner, subsequent to the time of its being ordered to be enrolled.

Mr. Washburne explained that a company in Minnesota had under a special law certain extraordinary powers; that the object of this House to exclude that company from the exercise of such powers was evidently intended to be defeated by the improper alteration that had been made. Mr. Washburne moved for a committee of investigation in the matter.

Mr. Campbell moved that the committee should have power to investigate all similar cases.

[At a subsequent period in to-day's ression, Mr. Stevens, of Michigan, arose to a personal explanation. He said that the alleged alterations in the Minnesota Railroad bill were in conformity with the copy of the bill as he had reported it to the House; that it had been found, upon engressing the bill, that it did not conform, in these particulars, to the copy he had presented; that, after consultation, the Clerk of the House had directed the Engressing Clerk to render it as it now stands upon the Clerk to render it as it now stands upon th House refused to suspend the rules—yeas 96, nays 64, not two-thirds. nays 64 not two-thirds.

On motion of Mr. Houston, the House then (at one o'clock) resolved itself into Committee of the Whole, (Mr. Walley in the chair,) and

"THE WEST HAS NO LITERATURE!" GENIUS OF THE WEST, CINCIANATI, OHIO.

COATES KINNEY, HOWARD DURHAM, Editors. THE THIRD VOLUME OF THE GENIUS OF THE WEST commences with the July number, 1854 This Periodical was established for the pur-pose of encouraging and introducing to the public everywhere.

ORIGINAL WESTERN LITERATURE.

"The West has no literature," was remarked by a prominent speaker in a public assembly, not a long time since. The West has a literature—a literature of her own—fresh, bold, vigorous, and beautiful—not refined into stupidity, not degenerated into obscenity—but looming up like her own mountaies, furtile as her rich soil, attractive as her blooming prairies. It has been the object of the Genius to gather in the choicest productions of this literature, and to send them forth again, to encourage, to please, and to instruct. It is not surprising that the public have regarded this object with extraordinary favor—a favor which is evidenced by the remarkable success of the Genius of the West. It has elicited the attention and admiration of cultivated minds in all parts of the

THE CONFLICT OF AGEN!

BY DR. EDWARD BEECHER. This Remarkable Work has reached its Fifth Edition, in the brief space of Four Months!
A success unprecedented in Theological Publications!

A success unprecedented in Theological Publications!

A N impression has already been produced by this A masterly treatise, the most profound, wide reaching, and permanent.

It is perfectly manifest to all competent observers, that we are upon the eve of a theological discussion, the most comprehensive, radical, and portentous, the world has ever seen. To this discussion this book leads the way, with a momentum irresistible. There is not a question in Theology which is not destined to come up for a new and thorough settlement in the light of this final development.

All those who have Theological doubts and difficulties should examine the solution this work affords. Those who have no doubts, but who wish to study the history of opinions in the past, and to keep pace with the developments of opinion in the future, will grievously err if they neglect to make themselves familiar with this book. It contains the seeds of the thinkings and dobatings of the next hundred years.

The reception of this work by the The logical press of the country, has been significant. Equally declining to accept his conclusion, they do it on opposite and contradictory grounds. One half of the Theological press endorses the major. And as they are probably both right in their positive element, and wrong in their negative, the work has received a Virtual Endorsement of the most powerful kind.

As regards the ability of the work, and its claims on the attention of all, the following extracts may suffice:

From the Princeton Repertory—Old School Orthodox.
It is characterized by great ability, by an earnest spirit, by frankness, candor, and courtesy. It has a special interest for us. WE HAIL IT AS AN ALLY. The author shuts his readers up to the choice between Orthodoxy and the doctrine of Pre-Existence.

Orthodoxy and the doctrine of Pre-Existence.

From the Universalist Quarterly and General Review, Jan., 1854.

We have the novel spectacle of a man clinging with a masterly grasp to all the fundamentals of Orthodoxy, * * * yet dealing it a blow keneath which it reels.

It would be difficult to find within the limits of a hundred pages any treatise or essay that can compare in importance with this analysis (B. iv) of Orthodox doctrines. Dr. Beecher has struck upon the right principle in his theory of typical interpretation, in the fifth of Romans.

IT is the history of an adopted child, and such a history as must soften the heart and awaken the pity of every reader. It is a story and yet a sermon. Taking the little Vara by the hand, and leading her through the corridors of an eventful life, it leaves upon the mind a genial and lasting impression, which will prove of service. We hope to see it circulated widely.—Buffalo Express.

we predict for it an immense sale, and venture to announce the author as a worthy addition to the few distinguished American authors. As a work of art, we place it high. Independently of any aim of plot, the language is both chaste and ornate, frequently pathetic, often humorous. The characters are drawn with great skill, and we can find originals in our mind, who seem to be here carefully pictured.—Newark

Eastman's infallible Sick Headache Remedy.

This preparation, by E. P. EASTMAN, M. D., of for the last four years, with the greatest success. A radical cure has been effected in every instance where the directions have been strictly followed and persevered in. It is now given to the public with the full

It is safe and pleasant to the taste, it brings immediate relief, and all who test its curative virtues rejoice in the removal of pain, and marvel at its power in alleviating so general, and often so fatal, a scourge
The following is from D. C. Baker, Esq., Mayor o.
Lynn, and President of the Howard Banking Company, Boston:
Dr. E. P. Eastman.

Dear Sir: A member of my family—a daughter, ten years of age—was afflicted with the sick headsche, and we tried various remedies without success. When, however, you administered to her your "Headache Powders," we found them to be very beneficial, and, in fact, restored her to health.

I should, without hesitation, recommend them to those afflicted; and I beg to assure you, that I fully appreciate their value.

Dr. E. P. Eastman.

My Dear Sin: I avail myself of this opportunity to express to you my high appreciation of the efficiency and value of your Sick Headache Remedy. I have been afflicted, eince my childhood, with very sovere turns of sick headache, and have tried various remedies which have been prescribed, but found no considerable relief until I tried your remedy, which, I am happy to say, has almost entirely cared me. Several of my neighbors and friends have tried your medicine, and in every instance it has entirely relieved or greatly mollified the disease.

Faithfully yours.

The author of this book is the editor of the Albany State Register, and among all our brother editors we know of none of such rare fancy and humor in depicting country life. Isaac Walton would have been delighted to read such a book, and Christopher North would be bappy in inbaling such good-humored sketches of country sports. We have rarely read anything more instinct of life and fun than this book, or which is more appropriate to the season of summer and rural life.—N. Y. Express.

luxuriant gardens, fertile meadows, quiet lakes and running brooks, hills, valleys, and mountains—a multitude of attractions to inspire new, enlarged, fresh thoughts, in the mind that is wearied with the dull routine of our city life and dusty streets.—Philadelphia Courier.

It is so attractive, that he who opens it, will reluc-tantly relinquish it, till he has followed the writer over the hills, across the lakes, and among the forest streams—Rockester American.

All the lovers of the country and of country life, of rural scenery and of nature in its wild grandeur, of the sports of the forest and the stream, should buy this book and read it.—Troy Times. A book that will be greeted by sportsmen, and eagerly read by the lovers of romantic adventure. Such readers will envy the author's happiness when they find him pulling up the simple, uneducated trout, from those seeluded lakes: tipping over the deer at every shot; snuffing the fresh breezes of those old primeval mountains and hills; and listening to the music of the wild, wild woods.—Authorn Journal.

This is a charming volume. One almost fiels the bracing freshness of the lakes and forests as he turns over its graphic and sprightly pages. They are absolutely so bowitching, that to read them is not to be content without rusticating.—Philadelphia News. His descriptions of the forest, the stream, the lake, the meadow, the birds, and the blossoms, are spontaneous gushes—warm feelings set to the simple music of Saxon words. The author has not only travelled among the scenes he paints so well but has tarried with them until he has found out all their secrets. Buffelo Express.
