The imitations of prominent and well-known actors by Mr. Goodwin were very well received, and the distinctive peculiarities of each were readily recognized. "Hobbles" will be the attraction during the balance of the week, and no more pleasant evening can be spent than to witness its many amusing and laughable features. "Olivette," which has had so great a success in New York, was produced for the first time in this city at Ford's Opera-House last night. The Wilson was yesterday admitted to probate, and audience was very large, and the applause was emphatic and continuous. This opera is filled with pleasing situations, the music is bright and sparkling, the costumes are new and elaborate, and the success was pronounced. "Olivette" will hold the boards during the entire week, with matinees Wednesday and Saturday afternoons, The Theatre Comique was crowded last night with a highly delighted audience. The watery difficulty of Saturday and the consequent interruption of the performances served rather to increase the desire of the patrons of this popular resort, and as each new face appeared the applause was loud and long, while the old familiar standbys were most heartily welcomed. The great English Specialty Company furnished the bulk of the attraction, and each performer fully justified the reputation that had preceded him. GRACE AND MAGNANIMITY.

Weak-Kneed After Election.

To the Editor of The Republican

Why is it that after every election which the Republican party happens to carry a class of men calling themselves Republicans, and who are so recognized, turn out in a clamor for the party to show grace and sugmanimity to its defeated oppon these pseudo-Republicans believe in the princi ples of the party of which they professedly form a part? If they do, why desire to hand over for Democratic preservation and maturing the results of the battle so hotly contested? In the face of th most infamous outrages and fraud committed b the Democratic party, Mr. Hayes was elected devilory had exhausted its resources in the vain attempt to prevent it. What the attitude, actions, and practices of the Democrats in that canvass were to entitle them to magnanimity in their defeat I have always been too thick-headed to discern. It seems rather that the remaining duty of the Republicans towar the Democratic party (having seated Presider Hayes) was to unite in an earnest and aggressly movement to stamp out forever what life yet re mained in a party so disloyal and of such inh chievous and revolutionary tendencies. No sooner had Mr. Hayes been inducted into office than this sentimenal-emotional element of our party sent up a cry for magnanimity. For four years now we have had it and its belongings. Last fall the conciliated rebel element, in return for the magnanimity given, forced us to enter a contest handicapped, with 138 out of 185 electors votes perverted and stolen and packed against us. No wonder their success seemed so assure nor that life became a series of insults and INSOLENCE TO BEPUBLICANS here in this city last summer and fall. There was insult and insolence on the street, in the street cars, in the stores, and in the Departments—everywhere Republicans met it. It was the old rebet spirit of the South that characteristically sneaks and crawls and dissembles when it must, appearing in its second edition drunken, bold, and defiant with prospective success. Heaven be praised, they were thrashed and the banner of Republicanism kept aloft. No sooner had Garfield's election been placed beyond cavil or doubt than this pestiferous tribe doffed the garb of insolence and gol back into their accustomed role of penitents. Then almost coeval therewith, came the old cry for mag-nanimity, division of office—acc civil service recognition of Democrats in the Cabinet, Thur-man on the Supreme Court bench, and other like what it professes, its principles are "everlastingle right," and the opposition to them wrong and only Railroad Company, and the Chesapeake and Ohio Canal.

Fight," and the opposition to them wrong and only wrong. The people who elected General Garfield expect and demand his adherence to Republican ideas. If the Democratic party is wrong, why should the Republican party nurse it and keep it alive? Why not let it die? Least of all, why should it aid in perpetuating Bourbonism which the people so emphatically condemned when it DEFEATED GENERAL HANCOCK "

The Republican party is not a "close corpora-tion;" it excludes nobody, and its doors are open If magnanimity, after which so many effusive Re-publicans are just now groaning in great travail, is anxiously wanted, let the would-be recipients come into the Republican ranks and get it after probation has proven they are fit for it; but let there be a quarter to an armed foe, Amnesty only comes after surrender, but defeat and subjection by no means imply surrender, as a "solid South" should teach us. Armed rebellion met defeat in 1865, and rebellion again in the November of 1889; but has it surrendered its principles? If it has, there will be no need of magnanimity, for the future will have no Democratic party a-hunger for that sort of sustenance. At all events, if the principles of the Republican party are not thinly-disguised lies, favor to the Democratic party should be the very last proposition to which it should give a thought. A principle compromised is a principle lost. F. P.
