Miss Lulu Likens, daughter of Mrs. Elmore Likens and Dr. Charles Seales Bosenbury of South Bend, Ind., were married this morning at nine o'clock in the St. Paul's Episcopal church. Rev. David Huntington performed the ceremony. Palms, ferns and blossoms were used in arranging the altar. As the company of friends and relatives assembled Mrs. Reuben Stowell of Chicago played a program of bridal airs. Promptly at nine o'clock the bride and groom entered the church, Mrs. Stowell playing Mendelssohn's wedding march. There were no attendants. The bride wore a pongee silk suit trimmed with buttons and lace. She carried a white prayer book and a small bouquet of roses, caught with white satin ribbon fell from her waist. Her hat was trimmed to match the gown. The bride and groom were met at the chapel by Mr. Horace Likens of Springfield, Massachusetts, and the officiating minister. She was given away by her brother, Mr. Horace Likens. After the ceremony the party went to the home of the bride, where an informal reception was held. Dr. and Mrs. Bosenbury left for the north, where they will spend about two weeks at the lakes. Mrs. Bosenbury's going away gown was a beautiful tailored suit with other accessories to match. They will make their future home in South Bend. The bride is one of the most popular young women of this city in social and educational circles. She was a teacher during the past year at Warner school. An unusually large number of social events have been given during the past few weeks in honor of Mrs. Bosenbury. Their many friends extend their heartiest congratulations. The out of town guests were Mrs. L. S. Kelsey of New York, Mrs. B. S. Towne, Master Herbert Towne of Holyoke, Massachusetts, Miss Anna Bell, Franklin, Pa., Mrs. J. Holt Livingston, Kansas City, Mo., Mr. and Mrs. Horace Likens of Springfield, Mass., Paul Likens of Los Angeles, California, Mr. George Sande of Kokomo, Ind., Mrs. Reuben Stowell of Chicago, Mr. and Mrs. William C. Bosenbury of New Castle, Miss Pratt of Indianapolis, Miss Nixon of Indianapolis, Miss Langston of Knightstown, Ind., and Miss Mary Bispham of Waynesville, O.

Mrs. Emily Dill has gone to Bay View, Michigan, to spend the summer.

Mr. John Sutton of Warsaw is in the city for a visit. He came to attend the commencement exercises at Earlham college, his daughter being a graduate.

A bridge whist party was given this morning at the Country Club house for members. The game began at nine thirty o'clock. There were members present for eight tables.

The recital which was to have been given Friday afternoon at the eRid Memorial church for members of the Art association has been arranged for Thursday afternoon. The affair is for visiting guests, members of the association and also for the members of the church. The program as announced today will be given. Any one not a member of the association is privileged to attend providing they secure a membership ticket.

Mrs. H. Shuman Jones of Los Angeles, Cal., is in the city for a visit with friends and relatives.

A very simple but beautiful wedding was celebrated this afternoon at the home of Mrs. A. F. Trueblood on South Twelfth street. The bride was her daughter, Miss Beattie Trueblood, and the groom Mr. Clarence Parks. In the parlor where the ceremony was performed green and white was the color scheme used in decorating. Brides roses were used profusely. Mock oranges, ferns and palms were utilized effectively in arranging the living rooms. The dining room was pretty with the clusters of pink roses and ferns. There were no attendants. Rev. Harry Keates of the South Eighth street Friends' church performed the ceremony. The bride was beautifully attired in a white lingerie gown trimmed with lace. Little Miss Mary Parks carried the bridal bouquet. After the ritual had been said the guests were invited to the dining room where luncheon was served. Mr. and Mrs. Parks left for Detroit, Michigan, where they will spend their honeymoon. The bride's traveling gown was a tailored suit, with hat and gloves to match. Upon their return they will be at home to their many friends in this city. Mrs. Parks is a graduate of the local high school. Mr. Parks is well known in business circles. The out of town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Little of Onward, Ind., Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Little of Peru, Ind., Mr. Palmer J. Christman of Indianapolis, Mr. and Mrs. George R. Clark, Mr. and Mrs. Ira Thompson and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Sennell of Lynn, Ind. Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Trueblood of Chicago, Mrs. Mary Toney and Miss Linnie Toney of Boston, Ind., Mr. C. L. Trueblood of Salem, Ind., and Mr. and Mrs. Paul A. Mount of Covington, Ky.

Invitations as follows were issued today: Mr. and Mrs. John C. Bayer request you to be present at the marriage of their daughter Edna Cathryn to

Mr. Warren Edwin Hill on the evening of Wednesday the Thirtieth day of June, Nineteen hundred and nine at six-thirty o'clock in the First English Lutheran church, Richmond, Ind.

The "at home" cards are after August first, 9022 Avenue H, South Chicago. A number of Richmond vocal pupils of Mr. Fritz Krull of Indianapolis, will join in a song recital at the Starr Piano parlors, Monday evening, June 21, at 8:15 o'clock. They are Misses Blanche Boyd, Laura Colvin, Ima Elkember, Eva Griffiths, Florence Lacey and Mr. Leroy Lacey. The program is composed entirely of the works of the foremost German song writers of this and the past centuries, whose works the pupils have been engaged in studying this season. Robert Schumann, Franz Peter Schubert, Johannes Brahms, Richard Strauss and Alexander von Flieitz are the composers represented. The program promises to be of exceptional interest because of its high musical value, as well as of the standing of the young singers of Richmond who will render it. The recital is open to the public without admission fee. Misses Hasemeler and Schalk will join with Mr. Krull in playing the accompaniments.

The program is: Schumann—"Ich grolle nicht"; "Die Lotosblume"; Mr. Lacey Schumann—"To the Sunshine"; "Er, der Herrliche von Allen"; Miss Elkember Schubert—"My Abode"; Miss Boyd Schubert—"The Young Nun"; Miss Colvin Von Flieitz from the Songcycle "Elland"; "Silent Sorrow"; "Roses"; "O, Irmgard"; "Moonlight"; "Dreams of Roaming"; "Resignation"; Miss Lacey Schumann—"Marienwunderchen"; "Springtime"; Miss Elkember Schubert—"Hark, Hark, the Lark"; "Who is Sylvia"; Miss Griffiths Schubert—"Serenade"; Miss Boyd Strauss—"Tomorrow"; Brahms—"Sappho Ode"; Miss Colvin Schumann—"The Two Grenadiers"; Mr. Lacey.

A picnic party was given Tuesday afternoon for Miss Elizabeth Fletcher, of Cincinnati, who is the guest of Miss Esther Fletcher. The affair was held in Glen Miller park. An informal company will be given this evening in honor of Miss Edna Bayer of South Eighth street, a June bride.

Mrs. John Lott of South Eighth street entertained with a six o'clock dinner company last evening in honor of Miss Nina Hoover of Indianapolis. Flowers and ferns were used in decorating. Among the guests were: Miss Esther Besselman, Miss Amy Stubbs and Mr. Leroy Lacey.

Mrs. John Dougan and Miss Sophia Marchant have gone to Clifton Springs, New York, where they will spend several months.

Mr. and Mrs. D. L. Mather, Mrs. Kelsey and Miss Mary Mather have gone to St. Ste. Marie. They will stop at lake ports enroute, including Mackinac Island. They will be passengers on the steamship Manitowish. Mr. Mather will attend the fifteenth annual convention of the Michigan and Indiana Retail Coal Association.

A family reunion was held recently at the home of Mr. Jacob Abel. The guests included children and grandchildren. Mr. and Mrs. Edward Abel of Dayton and Mrs. Benbow of Cincinnati were the out of town guests. Mr. Jacob Abel went to Dayton today. He will attend the Wright celebration.

Connersville and Rushville society folks are proposing a country club to be built and maintained as a joint institution. It is proposed to locate it somewhere along the road between the two cities where it would be easy of access from both. The movement has a number of adherents who will endeavor to make it a reality.

Mr. and Mrs. John Y. Poundstone left this afternoon to visit friends in Columbus, O., and with Mr. Poundstone's sister, Mrs. David Beall at Steubenville, O. Mr. Poundstone will return Sunday. Mrs. Poundstone will return about Wednesday of next week.

Love's Long Dream. The Stern Parent—And if you marry this young Littlecash where do you propose to live?

The Girl—Why, George says we are going to live at the same hotel where he lives now.

The Parent—Don't you know it costs a great deal to live at a hotel?

The Girl—Why, no, papa; it won't cost any more. George says that if you know how to order one portion is ample for two persons. I really won't be the least bit of a burden on George, papa.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Keen Reminds—Have you seen my Hamlet, me boy?

Scribb—I am glad to hear you characterize it in that way. Keen Reminds—What do you mean? Scribb—I'm glad to hear you call your Hamlet. I knew it wasn't Shakespeare's.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

O. G. DAVIS LONG FIGHT FOR LAND COMES TO AN END

Williamsburg Man, Representing Wayne County Heirs, Secures Rich Texas Property After Trouble.

PROPERTY LOCATED IN OIL DISTRICTS

Had Been Grabbed by Land Sharks, Railroads and Corporations—Was a Gift to An Old Soldier.

After five years' effort O. G. Davis of Williamsburg, former representative of this county in the legislature, has succeeded in acquiring quit claim deeds to 4,500 acres of land in Montgomery county, near Beaumont, Tex., which was settled by William Massey, a soldier under Sam Houston, when he successfully wrested Texas from Mexico. About 3,400 acres of the land was sold recently and local heirs, including R. M. Lacey, James Lacey, Orville Price, the Lacey and Prices living near Fountain City, and the Studys and Cranors living near Williamsburg received their appointment.

When oil was discovered near Beaumont this land suddenly became much more valuable than it had been for farming purposes. Land sharks finding that the taxes for a few years had not been paid immediately grabbed it and started operations. A railroad company was mixed up in the deal. A large amount of the territory had been sold and settled and a large amount of work was entailed in straightening out the conditions.

Interesting Story. The acquisition of the land and other incidents connected with it is a very interesting story. William Massey, the original settler of the land and great-grandfather of the local heirs, had settled in Texas when Sam Houston resigned the governorship of Tennessee because his wife was overheard one day to say that she did not marry Houston, but the governor of Tennessee. Houston immediately went to Texas and made good his threat to establish a government of his own. Massey served under Houston in his conquests against Mexico and for good service was given about 5,000 acres of land.

Upon his death the land reverted to local heirs and they paid taxes on it for a number of years. However, for some reason, they finally discontinued to do so. By the laws of Texas, a grant of land made to an old soldier can not be sold for back taxes, a fact which saved the land for the local heirs. Not until the oil was discovered in this section of the state was any attention paid to the land by the heirs. When they took the matter up again, it was found that the land had been split up by corporations, land sharks and others.

O. G. Davis of Williamsburg was selected by the heirs to straighten out the matter. For five years he spent most of his time in acquiring quit claim deeds and a few weeks ago sold 3,400 acres. The heirs still own about 500 acres of the original grant.

The Printer's Devil. Aldus Manutius, a printer in Venice to the holy church and the doge, employed a negro boy to help him in his office. The boy was believed to be an imp of satan and went by the name of the "printer's devil." In order to protect him from persecution and confuse a foolish superstition Manutius made a public exhibition of the boy and announced that any one who doubted him to be flesh and blood might come forward and pinch him to make sure. The mistaken impression was removed, but before this time the name "printer's devil" had been attached to the boy and was thenceforth applied generally to the boyish assistants in a printing office.

Ruler of Russia's Title. The general allusion to the ruler of Russia as the czar is strictly speaking, incorrect. His official title is "emperor and autocrat." Czar is the old Russian word for lord or prince and was abandoned by Peter the Great on his triumphant return from Poltava, his crowning victory over Charles XII of Sweden. Since then the Russian monarch has been officially entitled emperor, and at the congress of Vienna in 1815 his right to the imperial term was admitted by the powers, with the proviso that, though he was emperor, he had no precedence over the kings of western Europe.—St. James Gazette.

The Lawyer's Habit. The legal formality of addressing a court sticks to many a lawyer of congressional premeditation. It is nothing unusual to hear an impassioned orator in the house, pausing in his argument or breaking in upon the argument of another, exclaim, "Now, if your honor pleases." Of course the house always perks the slip with a burst of loud laughter. In the senate, where there are also many lawyers, it is rarer to hear the familiar words because debate there is more sedate.

Strong Language. "Popley's looking bad. What's the matter with him?" "Lungs." "You don't say! Weak eh?" "No; strong. There's a new baby at his house that keeps him awake nights."—Philadelphia Press.

A NOVEL POLICEMAN.

Story About a Sagacious Dog and His Master's Money.

One day a man laid a wager with his friend that if he were to hide a silver half dollar in the dusty road his dog would find it and bring it to him. The wager was accepted and the coin was hidden. When the two had walked some distance from the hidden coin the owner called his dog, explained that he had lost something and ordered him to find it. The dog turned back, while the two friends continued their walk.

Meanwhile a traveler driving along the deserted road saw the silver piece shining through the dust and picked it up and put it in his coat pocket just as the dog came to the spot. The man re-entered his phaeton and drove to the inn, closely followed by the dog. The dog scented the coin in the man's pocket and made wild leaps at him to obtain it, but the man, supposing the animal had taken a fancy to him and wanted a master, gave the dog food and caresses and took him to his bed-chamber for the night. No sooner had the man undressed than the dog seized the coat and made for the door. The man opened the door to see if any one was without, when the dog bounded through the hall and did not stop until, coat in mouth, he reached his master's house. The traveler followed and accused the dog of robbery. "My dog is a very faithful creature, and if he ran away with your coat it is because you have money in your pocket which does not belong there."

The traveler grew angry, but when the master explained the burial of the half dollar and the dog's desire to find it he understood and cheerfully gave up the money, saying as he patted the dog, "You are indeed a novel policeman."—Philadelphia Ledger.

A STIRRING INCIDENT.

How a Child's Life Was Saved by a Blast of Bugles.

The drum major of a German regiment recently showed that he does not lose his head in an emergency, says the Chicago News. The regiment was on the march from one station to another and had halted on a country road to rest. Suddenly the men heard the terrified cries of a child, and looking in the direction from which they came, they saw a little girl running for her life from a maddened bull. The animal was tearing along with lowered horns and was so close to the girl that rescue by interference or even by shooting the bull seemed impossible. Just as the men had given up the child for lost the drum major shouted to the buglers, who stood near by with their instruments in their hands, to blow a loud blast. Not realizing what he meant, but obeying mechanically, they blew a blast that would have wakened the dead. The moment the bull heard the sound he stopped and looked in surprise at the men and then raised his head and belched with all his might. Meanwhile several of the men had reached the child, and when the bull had recovered from his astonishment at the unusual noise she was in a place of safety.

The Lost Balloon.

Up, up, way up in the air. My dear balloon went flying. Perhaps you think that I don't care. But it was new. And it was blue. And, oh, I feel like crying: Up, up, way up in the sky. It never heard me calling. It's dropping now, and that is why Some other boy Will see my toy. And catch it while it's falling:—Youth's Companion.

What Cats Are These?

There's a cat very good for food, 'tis said, And a cat marks the resting place of the dead. There's a cat that makes a discordant sound, And a cat that is made to scatter round. There's a cat that crawls beneath our feet, And a cat whose movements are quick and fleet. There's a cat that blanches our face with fear, And a cat that wanders far and near. Answers.—Catsup, catscomb, house cat, catalogue, caterpillar, catamount, catastrophe, cattle.

The Five Kakkas.

A set of regulations, intended to distinguish the Sikhs irrevocably from those around them, was the rule of the Five Kakkas. Every Sikh must have with him five things beginning with the letter "k"—viz, kess (long hair), kirpana (a sword), karanda (a knife), kirapana (a sword) and kacha (breaches reaching to the knees). The purpose of these rules was that every Sikh should avoid shaving, as do Mohammedans and Hindoos, and should be constantly armed and free from the long garments that might impede him in a fight.

Modern Ambulance Service

We introduced about 3 years ago the first private ambulance ever used in the city, which has met with success beyond our expectation. Wishing to give the public the best service that modern equipment can supply, we have recently added one of the best arranged white ambulances equipped with a special device for removing sick patients down difficult stairways. Disinfected, clean linens used in each case, and every comfort furnished. Careful and experienced men answer calls day or night. Wilson, Follmeyer & Downing Phone 1325. 15 N. 10th Street.

Delayed. Though his complexion was pale green, he managed to totter to the deck on the third day after leaving port. There he met an exasperatingly jovial and healthy looking fellow passenger. "Glad to see you!" exclaimed the latter to the man with the green face. "How is it that you haven't been on deck before this?" "Well, you see," replied the other, "each time that I planned to get on deck something kept coming up, so I had to postpone the trip."—New York Times.
