

MAKES ANSWERS TO SUIT FOR SLANDER

Two of Wallingford's Replies Held Not Sufficient for a Defense.

That he had denounced Dr. Arthur H. Jones, the Whitewater physician, pharmacist and general storekeeper as a saloon keeper and a malpractitioner because in the first place he had drunk intoxicating liquors as a beverage and not for medicinal purposes in the plaintiff's place of business and further that Dr. Jones had admitted to him three acts of malpractice, was the answer of Manford B. Wallingford, of Whitewater, to the suit of the physician, in which the latter demands $5,000 damages for slander.

The answers of the defendant were filed in three paragraphs and the second and third were held not good by Judge Fox of the circuit court Saturday, in ruling on a demurrer to these answers. The attorney for Dr. Jones had pleaded the answers did not constitute sufficient facts as a defense. The first answer of the defendant in which he admitted making the charges was held good.

The defendant's attorney took exception to the court's sustaining the demurrer to the last two paragraphs. In January the Methodist of Whitewater were holding a revival, but without much success, when one evening, Wallingford at the meeting declared no revival could be a success in Whitewater with Dr. Jones living in the town, so Dr. Jones charges. He also alleges Wallingford then publicly accused him of being guilty of selling liquors in less quantities than five gallons, and charged that he had been guilty of malpractice. Not long afterwards Dr. Jones instituted suit in the circuit court for $5,000 damages for slander. The defendant is a well known man and owner of a fairly large farm.

Wallingford in his answer as to his charge that Jones was a saloon keeper says he made this charge because he, himself, had drunk intoxicating liquor upon Jones' premises, solely as a beverage and in less quantities than five gallons. He claims that Dr. Jones told him he sold liquors for gain. Wallingford also in his answer represented to the court that he had seen people come out of Jones' place drunk and carrying packages of "wet" goods in less quantities than five gallons.

Relative to his defense in calling Dr. Jones a malpractitioner Wallingford says the physician told him he had committed such acts, and that Jones led him to believe that on three occasions, which Wallingford in his answer did not specify more minutely, the alleged acts were not necessary for the purpose of saving the lives of the women operated on.

The case is now ready for trial. It will probably be held this summer.

TENNESSEE PARSON'S MARRIAGE RECORD

Bristol, Tenn., May 27.—"Out of two thousand young couples married by me without the consent of their parents, so far as I have been able to trace, not more than five divorces have been sought. The percentage of divorces in parent-made matches is much larger. If parents would be more considerate of the desires of the hearts of their children in so important a matter we would have less of the now growing evil of divorce."

Such is the belief of the Rev. Alfred Harrison Burroughs, who has married more than five thousand runaway couples in the last ten years. His fees in that time have amounted to $25,000.

Tennessee's "marrying parson" holds the world's record, and his business has increased so rapidly of late that he has erected a handsome "Gretna Green hotel"—the only one of its kind in the world, designed especially for the use of bridal couples. Bristol is the metropolis of eastern Tennessee and southwestern Virginia. The hotel is on both sides of the line that divides the two states. It is said that the hotel has a Tennessee parlor and a Virginia parlor and that the ceremonies take place in the one that most easily evades the law.

MARRIED SO OFTEN FORGOT WIVES NAMES

Kansas City, May 27.—As a simple and mutually satisfactory way of adjusting a legal contest for the possession of the children of Andrew L. Lindholm, they are for half the year to be with him and his fourth wife and the remainder of the year with Mrs. Lindholm III, their mother. The court asked both the boys, who are less than ten years old, which parent they preferred, but the little fellows expressed no preference.

One of the amusing incidents of the hearing was Lindholm's statement that he could not remember the given name of his first wife. They were married on brief acquaintanceship, he said, and divorced after a short time, so that the name slipped his mind.

AT 79 PREFERS TO SUPPORT HERSELF

Forest Grove, Ore., May 27.—Mrs. Sarah Crowther, of this city, who has just celebrated her seventy-ninth birthday anniversary, has eight living children, two daughters and six sons, and has ten grandsons living in this city.

Mrs. Crowther, who has been a widow for ten years, spent her girlhood in Westmoreland, England, where she was born, and then came to America, locating at New Orleans, where she lived three years. She then moved to St. Louis, and came to Forest Grove with her husband and children twenty-one years ago. She splits her own wood and is practically self-supporting.

DIVORCES A BRUTE FIND DAZED YOUTH ON TOP OF A CAR

Treatment Accorded Pearl
Perry Revolting.

After being subjected to one of the most indecent cruelties imaginable, Pearl M. Perry was on Saturday divorced by Judge H. C. Fox of the circuit court from Verden E. Perry, a degenerate, sought by the police on a charge of assault and battery, but now a fugitive from justice. His cruelties, which came to the attention of the authorities in February were not brought out in detail in the circuit court, and the divorce was perhaps one of the easiest obtained of any in several months. All the court required was to prove that the complainant was the same woman who was prosecuting witness in the police court case, he having been familiar with the revolting details of that case. In addition to the divorce decree, the woman was given custody of the minor children.

Perry, who until the time he took French leave and skipped his bond, was a resident of the river bottoms. He turned the hounds on his wife frequently after he had retired and forced her to meet other men.

SPEECH RESTORED BY SUGGESTION

Los Angeles, May 27.—After two years of silence, Charles Fischel, twenty-three years old, is able to speak again in English and German. The cure is credited to mental suggestion by Drs. Hart and Hubbell.

"Two years ago Fischel was struck on the head with a club in a fight and thrown over a railing," said Dr. Hart. "He was literally scared speechless. His condition was that of hysterical aphonia and the cure was accomplished by psychotherapy or what is generally termed mental suggestion."

Fischel, when his silence was broken, spoke fluently and seems entirely recovered.

SAYS 4 YEAR OLD EGG IS STILL FRESH

Williamsport, Pa., May 27.—Harry Burns, of Hornell, N. Y., worked in a cold storage plant in this city four years back. One day he took an indelible pencil and wrote in small letters his name, address and the year "1907" on an egg.

Burns has since returned to Hornell to live. Thursday he went to market and bought a dozen "strictly fresh" eggs and paid the extra price. Among them he discovered the identical egg bearing his name, address and date of four years ago.

The grocer says he "bought them for strictly fresh eggs."

MARSHALL'S BOOM CAUSING BIG ROW

Moss' Plan to Have Meeting to Indorse Governor
Being Opposed.

(National News Association)

Washington, May 27.—An effort is to be made by some Indiana Democrats to call off the meeting engineered by Representative Moss of the Fifth district with the view of endorsing Marshall for president. The suggestion for the meeting is said to have originated with John E. Lamb.

Moss presented the matter to Senator Kern before he left for Virginia Thursday. Kern agreed to call a meeting whenever the delegation desired it and Moss gave it out that it would be held June 2.

But there is a big row going up from other Indiana Democrats and especially is this true of Kern's friends, who say that it is aimed to rebuke promoters of Kern's presidential boom. Kern has declared that he is not a candidate. To demand a formal commitment of the entire delegation to Marshall strikes Kern's friends as imputing lack of good faith to Kern's professed loyalty to Indiana's governor. Marshall's friends are said to be working to secure for him the second place on the ticket with Woodrow Wilson. They could deliver the delegation to Wilson in return for the second place. This is not pleasing to some Indiana men. So much complaint is heard of the Moss meeting that it is believed he will abandon it.

MOSQUITO SEASON APPROACHES FAST

Richmond People Can Exterminate Pests by Using Proper Methods.

There is one little insect that almost spoils the pleasure of the summer months. Have you ever heard of the mosquito? This little pest causes more worry and bother during the summer months, when no one wants to be worried or bothered, than any other in the world. Especially is this true in cities located along some river, like Richmond for instance along the Whitewater river.

There are many kinds of mosquitos, the most common in this state being the carrier of malarial fever germs. This is what the residents of this county must fight against.

The ideal method of exterminating mosquitos is to do away absolutely with all possible breeding places, that is, with standing water, whether in ponds, ditches or puddles, or in old tin cans, pails, rain barrels, broken bottles, etc., about one's own premises. Draining or filling in of all standing pools and ditches of water and seeing that there are no water-containing receptacles around are therefore the best and most satisfactory way of doing away with the mosquito nuisance.

At best, however, the filling up or draining of all ponds or ditches will take a long time, and meanwhile mosquitos will breed by the millions. There is fortunately another means of getting more immediate, even though not permanent relief. The pouring of kerosene oil on the water is very satisfactory for it forms a thin film over the surface and the young mosquitos cannot stick their breathing tubes through this film to get air. Being unable to breathe they soon die. One quart of kerosene oil is sufficient to form a film over a pool twenty feet in diameter, over as large a part of the pool as can be reached.

The only radical way of dealing with the mosquito and malaria problem is along the lines above laid down, that is by preventing mosquito breeding. If, however, the above measures have not been carried out the mosquitos are not already present, something can still be done, at least to make life indoors more bearable and to lessen the danger of contracting malaria.

By screening all windows and outside doors of the house not only will mosquitos be kept out but also flies, and these latter, while not capable of carrying malaria are believed to be responsible for a considerable proportion of all cases of a much more serious disease—typhoid fever. If you cannot afford screens for the entire house, at least screens for the bed rooms, and if this is impossible, mosquitos nets over the beds are better than nothing.

Perhaps the best practical method of freeing a room of mosquitos is by closing it tight and burning pyrethrum powder, which is simply the best grade of so-called "insect powder." This smoke is not poisonous to the human subject, though it is not advisable to breathe it unnecessarily. It does not kill the mosquito outright but merely stupefies them. After the powder has been burned out, the room should be entered within a short time and mosquitos swept up and burned before they recover consciousness.

SCHNEIDER CHILD DIES OF INJURIES

After twenty-four hours of intense agony Katherine Schneider, three years old, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Schneider, of Indianapolis, which was hit by a taxicab Thursday night, died at eleven o'clock last night. The body will be brought to Richmond tonight, and taken to the home of Mrs. Schneider's mother, on North Eighth street.

$15 GREW TO $50 FESTIVAL CLOSES WITH AN OVATION

A Hammond Youth Makes Profitable Trades.

Hammond, Ind., May 27.—Once more Hammond has come into the limelight as the home of an up to date "David Harum" who could have given the David of story book fame a few pointers on trading.

Frank Coorse is the new "Harum" and when he had finished his day's work he had succeeded in raising $50 with a nominal expenditure of 15 cents.

Horses, harness, wagons, wheels, buggies and watches were a few of the things that rapidly changed hands in Coorse's deals.

The trading started then Frank Nelson, president of the Lowell bank, made Coorse a present of an old silver watch. It wouldn't run, so Coorse paid fifteen cents in real money to have it fixed. Then he sold it for $2.

With this money he purchased a sick and decrepit looking horse from a farmer. He traded the horse for an old buggy and two wheels.

An hour later he traded the two wheels for the body of a road cart, and taking off the buggy wheels he placed them under the road cart. He traded the body of the buggy for a set of harness. Then taking the whole outfit to another farmer he traded it for a likely looking broncho.

While driving home the animal ran away and Coorse discovered it was blind. In the course of the runaway the broncho upset a buggy in which a young farmer was driving.

"That's a lively animal you've got," said the farmer.

"Nothing to it," replied Coorse, rubbing his shin, "nothing in the county can touch him."

"Sell him?" queried the farmer.

"Well, I might let him go for $50 if I was sure he would be well treated. You see, he's a great pet; I raised him from a colt. It's pretty hard to part with him, but I might take $50, and Coorse wiped his eyes as the rural purchaser counted out five $10 bills.

"Wall street hasn't anything on the trading game," said Coorse to Mr. Nelson last night.

FELL NINE STORIES

Iron Worker Lost Balance,
Pulled Inspector Along

Washington, D. C., May 27.—Barney Coughlin, one of the iron workers who risk his lives daily, while trotting around on narrow beams high in the air, took one risk too many and plunged to his death through nine stories of iron network on the new Woodward building, Fifteenth and H streets. As he turned over and over in the fall he struck A. B. Galt, a steel inspector, and the two fell together for the remaining five stories. While Coughlin was crushed and bruised so that scarcely a single bone remained unbroken, Galt has but a scalp wound, some scratches and a possible fracture of a bone in the left leg.

Galt, the target of a human missile, who plunged from a height which would seem to mean instant death, will no doubt be out of bed within a few days.

Iron workers have steel nerves, but the scream from Coughlin's throat, as the man felt himself gone forever, made every hammer stop in its tapping and the quick clutch of "heart in the throat" seized every man in the building. It was a scream that frightened their very souls and turned their strength into childish fears. Sixty-five men were working there and the entire force quit work because of that terrible scream.

There were men who saw every inch of the fall. They happened to be looking upward from the minute the board upon which Coughlin was standing gave way. They saw the man plunge and heard the scream which they perhaps stay in their ears forever. They say that Coughlin reached out to clutch at everything and in reaching he turned over and over.

VETERANS OF '98 TO HAVE EXERCISES

Besides assisting the Sons of Veterans and other patriotic organizations of the city in arranging for the general celebration of Memorial Day, the Spanish American War veterans will have exercises of their own. They will assemble in the camp room at 8:30 o'clock and proceed to Earlham cemetery. There they will decorate the graves of dead veterans, and at 10:30 o'clock will hold Memorial services in section six. A salute will be fired over the graves at the close of the services. Members of the Auxiliary will assist in the decoration of the graves.

Indianapolis, May 27.—Grand Army commander Waugh announced his appointments for the ensuing year to be John R. Fessler, Indianapolis, assistant adjt. commander general and assistant quartermaster general, and Webster Ray of Madison, department inspector.

Prof. Earhart and Musicians
Applauded — Finances
Not Reported.

With the rendition of Verdi's Requiem by the adult chorus of 250 voices, soloists and Richmond Symphony orchestra at the Coliseum last evening the fifth May Musical Festival came to a brilliant conclusion. From a musical standpoint it was an unequalled success. As an artistic accomplishment it ranks along with the festivals which have preceded it, and perhaps a little higher, for it came nearer being an entirely Richmond affair than ever before.

The worth and character of the offering last evening was evidenced by the continued applause of the musical enthusiasts which reverberated throughout the Coliseum when the concert had come to a close. The audience lingered for many minutes, apparently unwilling to go, calling upon Prof. Earhart and the soloists for repeated bows.

A Splendid Chorus.

The chorus had been drilled through the untiring efforts of Prof. Earhart practically to perfection, and the result was highly pleasing. It was a concert that would be a great asset to a city many times larger than Richmond and it did much toape Richmond's reputation as a musical center.
