Heiress to Aid Return of Football to Trinity

Miss Mary L. Duke, daughter of Benjamin N. Duke, the multi-millionaire head of the American Tobacco company, is the proine of the Trinity college students as a result of her promise to use her influence in the students' movement to have football re-established on the athletic programme of the college. More than a decade ago the faculty of Trinity decided that football must be abolished from the college sports because of its alleged excessive brutality. Benjamin Duke has been one of the largest benefactors in Trinity and the family voice will undoubtedly be given a hearing in its plea for the return of football.
