

WALLS OF BUILDING PUT UP IN ONE DAY

Tabernacle Workmen Will Start Work on Roof Soon.

HOLD SHOP MEETING

Y. M. C. A. Workers Speak to 200 Employees of Starr Factory.

Only a few volunteers turned out today to work on the tabernacle which is being built behind the Quaker church on Main street between Fifteenth and Sixteenth streets. The work is progressing rapidly, however, and all side walls are up. Work on the roof will start soon.

Richard Sedgwick, who is in charge of the construction work, says that the building will be ready for interior work Saturday night. He believes the roof will have been completed by that time.

The seat ends arrived today from Troy, O. There will be others from other cities where revivals have been conducted along similar lines to the Richmond union meetings. The seat ends are supports on which wooden seats with backs are made.

Want Interior Decorated.

In the matter of interior decoration to be placed in the tabernacle, the committee has done nothing. Mr. Sedgwick believes, however, that a plan like that of the Muncie union revival committee will be used. The committee asked for some lodge to volunteer to decorate the building. The Elks responded and trimmed the interior with flags and bunting.

Shop meetings at the Starr Piano plant were resumed at noon today by the religious extension department of the Y. M. C. A. Dr. S. R. Lyons making a ten-minute talk on the needs of mankind to know God.

J. H. McAfee, who was for several years identified with Y. M. C. A. work in the east, assisted in the meeting by leading the singing. At the close of the meetings, those present, numbering two hundred, unanimously voted to continue the meetings the remainder of the winter.

Hold Meetings Weekly. Under present arrangements the religious extension meetings of the Y. M. C. A. will be held weekly in the Starr Piano and the American Sewing Machine plants. Dr. A. L. Bramkamp will talk at noon next Thursday on the need of a tuberculosis hospital in Wayne county.

In part, Dr. Lyons said: "One of the principal questions of man's being is his relationship to God. Men in general are in more or less close relationship to Him. Only a very few will acknowledge that they have no thought for a higher power. 'You know what kind of a mechanic a watchmaker is by the watch he makes. But you can not tell from his product what manner of man he is. So the works of God are shown in nature, though nature will tell but little of Him.'"

The party conducting the meeting, consisting of Dr. Bramkamp, Secretary Learner, J. H. McAfee and Dr. Lyons, was given a cordial reception. On Saturday evening, December 20, the Y. M. C. A. building will be thrown open to the employees of the Starr Piano company.

HAGERSTOWN WINS

High School Team Defeats Cambridge City.

HAGERSTOWN, Dec. 4. — Defeat was administered the Cambridge City high school basketball team by the Hagerstown high school team here last night. The Hagerstown team, coached by Willard Starr of the local high school team, played a splendid game as guard and stopped the visitor's star forwards with little difficulty. The Cambridge City guards played excellent games and stopped to some extent the usually fast play of Lloyd Gwinn of Hagerstown. Hagerstown has a fast team this season.

QUAKER MAIDENS GET NEW HOBBY: NOW WEAR PATCH

"I told you there was nothing new in the world," said the skeptical philosopher as he saw one of Richmond's Quaker maids wearing a little black patch under her eye.

"Sill imitation," he continued. "They are trying to look like Venus, who didn't have to patch, because she had a real mole on her face."

With the resurrection of the art, Richmond's younger set has added a book of black court plaster to the "make-up" kit of powder, paint and whatnot, which is an essential part of the equipment of every dressing table.

They are not slow to appreciate that the patch forms a contrast to the complexion, attracting the attention of the so-called sterner sex. A patch and a pair of dancing, teasing eyes shooting sidelong glances, have caused many of the city's young men to lose their mental balance since patching became fashion's latest whim. Unlike Venus' native mole, patches worn by the Quaker maids are never in the same place—some times they are on one side, some times on the other.

Patching brings out strongly the eternal feminine. Girls that have moles electrocute them to get rid of them, while those that haven't them, use the patch. What is the impulse that makes the wheels in the feminine head go round?

Since Venus started the style waves of craze for patching have recurred with startling regularity, in no less than twelve stages of the world's history.

He May Escape Chair

Charles Becker, former lieutenant of the New York police department, who occupies a cell in the death house at Sing Sing, under sentence to die for conspiracy in the case of the murder of Gambler Herman Rosenthal, for which four gunmen have also been sentenced to the electric chair, may be saved by the man who caused his conviction. The State Court of Appeals is now hearing an argument put forth by Becker's attorneys for a new trial. Sam Schepps, former gambler and friend of Rosenthal's, whose testimony was the strongest link in the chain of evidence that convicted Becker, has cabled from Paris, where he is engaged in the motion picture business, that he can tell a story that will save Becker from the chair. Mrs. Becker is the recipient of the message and she is endeavoring to get in communication with Schepps.

ISSUES SUGGESTIONS ON HEALTH SPEECHES

Supt. Williams Completes Plans For Exercises in County Schools.

"The most powerful bug in the world," is one of the six topics of discussion which Charles O. Williams, superintendent of the county schools, has set down to take one half of the "Health Day" hour to be observed in the schools Monday. The cause, cost and prevention of tuberculosis will be told the school pupils by the teacher of a physician.

The school teachers have received letters from the county superintendent ordering school work to stop at 2:30 in the afternoon and the health day subjects taken up. He recommended that a physician or one well informed on the subject be asked to give a short talk.

The letter which Mr. Williams sent out is as follows:

There is a great public awakening to the necessity of sanitation and the proper care of health. The schools should help in this most desirable movement. The length of the human life and the efficiency with which we work and the happiness in life depend upon the care we give the body, especially when such care is given in the earlier years of life.

I should like to see these topics discussed and explained: Care of the body—bathing, eyes, ears, nose, teeth, nails, hair, feet, mouth, breathing, walking, sitting, work, play.

Food for growing children, especially the noonday lunch. Manner of eating. Clothing—the dress of a school boy or girl in winter; health and styles. Sleeping—when, how much, the bed room.

School and home sanitation. The most powerful bug in the world.

ILL LUCK PURSUES LITTLE GIANT TEAM

CRAWFORD, Ind., Dec. 4.—Owing to a lack of a suitable place, Wabash may be left in the same position as DePauw and be unable to place a basketball team in the field this winter. To add to the difficulties of the situation all the basketball equipment of the college has been lost through theft.

LARGE PLAYGROUND AT MOORE SCHOOL

Six Acres of Land Surround Newest Building in City.

With the occupancy of the Joseph Moore school house the first of the year that school will have the largest playground of any city school in the state. Six acres of land, which will be divided into baseball diamonds, tennis courts and numerous other athletic grounds surround the school. This playground will give the widest range of play of any in the city.

"The tendency of the large city is to provide larger playgrounds for the students and Richmond has more playground space than any town in the state, with the same number of buildings," declared Superintendent Giles. Each building in the city has a playground varying from a half block to a block and a half long and the same width. In addition to the school playground there is the public grounds on the east side which will accommodate hundreds of seekers of amusements and athletics. The Glen Miller park also provides a large space for the use of the children.

Henry S. Curtis, head of the United States Bureau of Education, in a recently issued bulletin asserts that every high school should have at least ten acres of playgrounds.
