

GROWERS OF FRUIT TO HOLD ALL-DAY SESSION IN PREBLE

EATON, Ohio, Sept. 2.—Fruit growers of Preble and adjoining counties will hold an all-day meeting at the demonstration farm and orchard of Paul Logan, two and one-half miles southwest of Camden, on Saturday, Sept. 9. Prof. Cruikshank, horticulturalist of Ohio State university, will attend the demonstration and explain the results.

The orchard will be inspected in the forenoon and the methods of treatment will be discussed in the afternoon. Scientific methods of fruit culture have been followed and check trees have been left for each practice, so that it will be possible to check up closely on the effects of the treatment.

All Preble county farmers interested in fruit growing have been notified, and many are planning to attend, with families and lunch baskets, making a picnic of the affair. Farmers from beyond the county line who are interested will be welcomed also, although it is impossible to send them a personal invitation.

Cost of Upkeep
A total cost of 75 cents per tree is reported by Mr. Logan for the upkeep of the orchard the last year. Much of this cost is due to "cleaning up" of the old orchard, which had been badly neglected before he took hold of it. This cost includes 15 cents a tree for pruning, 18 cents for fertilizing, plus 7 1/2 cents for application of the fertilizer. The spray costs were as follows: April 2, dormant lime sulphur, one to eight spray, 10 1/2 cents; April 14, Bordeaux, 4-6-50, 4 1/2 cents; May 3, at petal fall, 1-40 lime sulphur mixture with one and a half pounds of arsenate of lead, 6 cents; July 1, Bordeaux, 4-4-50, with one and a half pounds of arsenate of lead, 6 cents. Two and a half cents a tree for each of the operations of cleaning up the orchard and removing tree stumps, mowing and thinning out, covered all other expenses.

Thousand Trees
The orchard consists of 1,000 trees from 20 to 25 years old. Peaches which were interplanted were later cut off six inches from the ground. Part of the orchard was topped and the tops had filled up with water sprouts. Sod, consisting of blue grass, clover and weeds, was mown each year and the clippings allowed to lie. A top dressing of manure is being applied to the thin ground now. Sulphate of ammonia is being applied by Mr. Logan in the spring, beyond the drip on the branches of each tree.

The orchard suffered severely this spring from freezing on April 18, 20 and 22. Bees worked only two days on the blossoms. However, the trees needed thinning and although much fruit dropped, a fair crop was left.

GERMAN NAVY HOLDS FIRST MANEUVERS SINCE WAR

The Jenkins' device, it is also mentioned, will be of great importance to the army. With it military commanders could watch the progress of field activities while seated in their headquarters many miles away from the firing line.

Anti-Johnson Republicans in California based their opposition to his re-nomination to the senate on two major charges: First, that Johnson was not loyal to his party when Hughes was the presidential candidate; second, that he has been "in habitual opposition to President Harding's policies."

Johnson's victory was, as usual, an impressive one and on the second count of the indictment brought against him President Harding wins a rebuke in one of the important pivotal states. The charge that Johnson was an opponent of the present administration was preferred, it is said, without the approval or the expressed or implied wish of the president.

Senator Johnson accepted the issue named by his opposition without protest. Had he been disposed to defend himself against the charge he could have produced his record in the senate during the present administration. His record fails to disclose that he has been by any means "habitually" opposed to the president's policies.

The slap earned by Mr. Harding in the California primary election must be charged to certain of his "fool friends" in the Golden state, as Washington views it. Whether they are the same ones who cost Hughes the presidency in 1916 has not yet been disclosed.
