

TO UNVEIL BIG CROSS

Greeks from Calumet Region Plan Celebration at Hessville Cemetery

TAKES PLACE ON FOURTH

Crucifix of Solid Oak Twenty Feet High Donated by St. Marys Congregation of Whiting

The leaders of the Greek Catholic church of Chicago and the Calumet region have decided on the Fourth of July as a day of a religious dedication which is to be followed by a regular Fourth of July celebration. A huge cross will be unveiled and dedicated at the Greek Catholic cemetery, Gologatha, at Hessville and it is in this dedication of the cross that the Greeks of Chicago and the Calumet region will unite.

A special train will run from Chicago to Hessville in the forenoon over the Nickel Plate bearing the excursionists. A large tent will be erected, large enough to accommodate every body who appears at Hessville. So many high mass will be said there in which three priests will participate. The officiating priests are the Rev. Victor Kovaitzky of Chicago, the Rev. John Parscouta of Whiting and the Rev. B. Relich of Chicago. The dedication of the cross will take place after the highmass. The cross is of solid oak 20 feet high resting on a stone pedestal and bearing a corpus 5 feet 6 inches tall. It was procured through the Dabrasso firm of Chicago which imported it from abroad. It was donated by St. Marys congregation of Whiting of which the Rev. John Parscouta is the pastor.

After the religious ceremonies, the special will bear the foreigners to Whiting where they will make merry at the Whiting Opera House for the balance of the day. Societies of all creeds and nationalities have received comprehensive invitations to attend dedication and it looks as though every town will be represented.

Gologatha Cemetery at Hessville is primarily the burial place for the Greeks of Whiting but is divided into three sections. In the first section are buried the Whiting Greeks, in the second Greeks from other cities and in the third Protestants of any denomination.

Miss Mary Ibach will give a party to several of her Hammond friends tomorrow evening.

HOT AND COLD WATER.

How to Use These Remedies to the Best Advantage.

Hot or cold water is excellent as an application for inflammation, congestions or abrasions, but how many people know which to apply in particular cases while awaiting the arrival of medical relief? Not many, and the mistakes made in some instances are ludicrous.

Take the barber, for example, who has cut his patron's face. He generally washes the face with a towel soaked in warm water, often pressing it right into the injury, and then wonders why the blood flows from the cut so freely. In ninety-nine cases out of a hundred if he had used cold water, and the colder the better, the blood would have ceased to flow from the injury altogether, as the cold would have a tendency to contract the openings in the torn blood vessels. In all cases of such cuts or abrasions very cold water will at least reduce the amount of bleeding if it doesn't stop it altogether, and yet, singularly enough, boiling water will have the same effect.

Water below the boiling point increases the flow, but above that degree decreases it. In surface inflammations or congestions cold water ought to be used, while if the condition is situated below the surface hot water is necessary as an application because it draws the blood toward the surface and thus stimulates the circulation through the part where it is most needed.

In cases of abscesses or pimples with pus forming in them, but which have not yet come to a head, the secretion of pus can be rapidly increased and the duration of the annoyance thereby decreased by applying hot water to them at frequent intervals.

Where the eye is inflamed or smarted, after a period of eye strain, such as night work often induces, hot applications are the things for relief, but the water used should be gradually allowed to cool off toward the end. Tired eyes will invariably be rejuvenated by adopting this method of treatment, and many headaches resulting from such a condition may thereby be prevented or cured.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

BLEAK SHETLAND.

Its Swarms of Sea Gulls and Its Lone Tree.

Up a little lane off Lerwick's one street there is a garden. At least, it is an inclosed space. In the middle of this space there is a tree. It is not a very tall tree; you could, in fact, toss a biscuit over its branches, but still it is a tree—the only tree in Shetland. And Shetland is proud of it. Children who are brought for the first time to see the wonders of one streeted Lerwick are shown this tree. This is not fiction. It is the only tree in Shetland. As there are no trees in Shetland, there are no birds, except, of course, the sea gulls, which you can number by the thousand. The sea gulls are the sparrows of Lerwick, and, as such, they have a greater share in the town's life than have the sparrows of London. In the morning time you will note that a sea gull sits on every chimney pot. Sea gulls swoop and hover over every roof in the town.

The air is full of their strange, high, plaintive, haunting cries. Their sad, shrill, long drawn cries are to Lerwick as the chattering of sparrows or the cawing of rooks are to us in England. Every house has its own familiar sea gulls and every street its own band of sea gulls. They never mix. The children in each house have a pet name for their own particular sea gulls, and, having called them to them by those names, they feed them every day. And each sea gull knows what is meant for him. No sea gull attached to one house ever seeks to eat the food scattered from the house next door. He does not dare; the other gulls would kill him. So all day long the sea gulls hover and call over the roofs of Lerwick. The people of the town, if they come across a little pile of rice laid upon the roadway, step over it with care. They know that it is placed there for some sea gull. And at night the sea gulls leave their own appointed chimney pots and fly gracefully away to their roosting places on the rocks of the Isle of Ness.—London Express.

Hiocough at Dinner.

Many persons are debarred from dining out owing to their inability to contract hiocough during a meal. As a rule when caused by food it comes on at once, and equally as a rule the food causing it is hot. Soups are more likely to provoke hiocough than solids are. It is a good plan to forego soup, which can be done without causing remark, says Home Notes. Or one may eat a little bread before taking it. A third plan is to drink a little cold water and to take the soup in very small sips.

FINANCE AND COMMERCE

Chicago, June 26th.—WHEAT.—Market opened active and higher in response to firmer Liverpool markets and bad weather throughout the spring wheat district. The highest prices of the days were recorded at the opening however and there was considerable selling by one of the larger elevator houses who have been buyers of wheat on every decline during the last fortnight.

Duluth reported a small cargo of wheat worked there for export, this had a stimulating effect on prices temporarily, but the advance was not maintained, the market closing practically at the lowest prices of the day. Bradstreets reported the world's visible decrease 3,046,000, which was construed as rather bearish.

CORN.—Market opened slightly lower on the brilliant crop prospects throughout the corn belt, but on the slight decline at the opening there was considerable short covering by those who sold yesterday, thus strengthening the corn market in face of the weakness in wheat. Corn closed at about yesterday's figures with a very firm undertone.

Oats.—Market opened at about yesterday's figures but there was a tendency to buy the July option which had a strengthening influence on all of the other futures and brought about a rally of 1-2 cent in July and September, closing firm at the best prices.

PROVISIONS.—Market opened higher on light run of hogs at the yards and a disposition on the part of packers to cover short contracts. Receipts hogs at the yards 31,006.
