ELABORATE LUNCHEON TO ANNOUNCE WEDDING DATE.

Mrs. R. H. McHie Entertains at a Charming Affair in Honor of Her Daughter, Who Will Be Married on Dec. 12.

Mrs. R. H. McHie, 518 South Hohman street, gave an elaborate luncheon this afternoon at 2 o'clock in honor of her daughter, Miss Carolyn McHie, to announce the date of her wedding to H. B. Klingsmith. This will take place Dec. 12. Although it has been generally known for some time among the friends of the young people that they were engaged the fact had never been publicly announced, and nothing was known definitely of the date of the approaching nuptials. A pretty plan designed for announcing the date was by means of place cards, which were white with the names of the felicitated young people and the date when the happy event will take place.

The rooms were prettily decorated with autumn leaves, pumpkins and grain, appropriate to Halloween. The tables were arranged with autumn leaves, with centerpieces of pumpkin bowls of fruit and leaves. By those who knew him he was generally called "Paddy" or "Red." For some time he was employed at Gary, but the past few weeks he spent in Tolleston. The man is seemingly about 40 years old. He is five feet three inches tall and weighs about 140 pounds. He has blue eyes, blond hair and a sandy-colored mustache. He will be buried at the county's expense.

A LIMIT ON RICE HENS.

There seems to be a mistaken idea among hunters that they may kill all the rice hens they see fit on any day. This is not true, the limit of twenty-four to be killed in one day being the same as for ducks, as the following section will show:

Section 599, Acts of 1905.—"Whoever shoots or kills more than twenty-four wild ducks, brants, or other water fowl in any one day * * * shall, on conviction, be fined $10 for each wild duck, brant or other water fowl so shot or killed in excess of twenty-four."

It is understood every effort will be made to prosecute and convict violators of this section of the law.

GOAT AS PRISONER.

Officer John Kunz this morning arrested a goat named Sultan and thereby hangs a tale. Before continuing, it might be well to relate that Sultan was soon released for lack of sufficient evidence to convict him.

Sultan, belongs to Fred Sommers, but it was sort of a personal affair Sommers' name has not been put on the police file.

It seems that Sultan was bused this forenoon in the neighborhood of the Hotel Carleton where is employed a Mrs. Sowers who sometimes carries out the ashes. This morning she evidently raised more dust than Sultan thought necessary so he "busted in". It is not necessary to go into details to explain just how Sultan "busted in". Suffice it to say that Mrs. Sowers fell over a nearby brick pile.

Officer Kunz who just then stepped around the corner was appealed to and sizing up the situation he began to belabor the billy goat with his billy and the latter retaliated with an attempt to knock Kunz down goat fashion.

Officer Kunz, however, anticipating Sultan's design, seized the goat by the horns and under his breathe he muttered: "You to the Michigan Central tracks where a steam engine shall pass over your feeble body. No more shall you go into people's back yards and there steal and eat their red under-shirts nor shall you any longer interfere with such decent people as Mrs. Sowers."

As there was no train due for the next half hour and Sultan made a st-lent plea for mercy the officers heart repleated and he sent Sultan on his way rejoicing.

HINT FOR LATE STAYERS.

Custom Borrowed from the Boers to Get Rid of Bores.

In South Africa candles are used for lighting purposes in the homes, and when a young Boer maiden has gentlemen visitors, the mother sticks a pin in the candle, and when it has burned to the pin the callers understand that it is time for their departure.

Mrs. Early, a society matron of Washington, recently made a visit to the Transvaal, and was impressed with the custom of the Boers that she determined to introduce it into her own home. Consequently the electric lights were removed and candles substituted in the drawing-room.

Mr. Staylate, a frequent though not always welcome caller, was one of the first visitors to call after the inauguration of the new custom. He witnessed the placing of the pin in the candle by Mrs. Early, and after she had gone ventured to inquire: "Why, Miss Early, does your mother stick a pin in the candle?" "Oh," responded the young woman with an air of apparent innocence, "mother learned that in South Africa as a way of sending home the Boers."

Women Must Like to Work.

The increase in the number of women in the trade and industry of America is alarming. Out of 305 "gainful occupations" enumerated by the census of the United States, there are only eight in which women do not appear. From four out of these eight occupations women are excluded by law. At the present time there are over 6,000,000 women at work in various trades and occupations in the United States. In 1900, of every five American women over ten years of age, there was one who was going outside of her family duties and who was taking part in the gainful work of the working world. At that time there were 40 women civil engineers, 30 women mechanical and electrical engineers and three women mining engineers, besides 14 women veterinary surgeons.—Technical World.

WINTER DRAPERIES.

The New Fashions in Curtains Revive the Old.

The purchase of new curtains is an all important one and a question which drives to desperation many a shopper who is at other times unruffled. Helpless she sits there in the curtain department, while the obliging clerk gracefully displays his assortment, with all its glories, and at the end of a half hour the purchaser is in more of a maze than ever on the subject.

The principal point for her to remember in this season's choice is that the old styles are coming back and that the cornice is being revived. Last winter it made its appearance first, and a certain new hotel, which is supposed to be an authority on good taste, had all its rooms supplied with cornices made of the same cloth as the window curtains. This style became popular then, but now the old fashioned brass and gilt cornices of colonial days are most in demand. The originals are so rare that they are almost unobtainable, but such good imitations are made that the difference can scarcely be noted.

When cornices were the fashion in former years it was the custom to draw back the curtains, but today they are, as a rule, allowed to hang. The lambrequin is edged with gimp of the same shade as the cloth, and sometimes, when the curtains are made of some cheap little material, such as cotton or cotton and silk, this gimp is not used at all. Bedroom curtains, made of some soft material and edged with a ruffle of lace, are exceedingly effective hanging from a brass cornice, no sash curtains being used.

Fortunately fashion does not sanction the Nottingham lace curtains, ungraceful, hard to launder and altogether hideous. Swiss, madras and Calcutta net are welcome substitutes. Soft cream madras, ranging from 35 to 70 cents a yard, may be made into as pretty a curtain as any one could desire. Colored nets in a great variety of designs are used for casement curtains or for inner curtains when the glass is covered with a cream or white net.

In regard to making curtains at home, those who have the best success follow these rules: Make the hems about two inches wide; miter the corners; turn the top hem in two or three thicknesses, as the curtain is very apt to shrink when laundered.

A Guide to Happiness.

Learn to laugh. A good laugh is better than medicine. Learn to tell a story. A well told story is as welcome as a sunbeam in a sickroom. Learn to keep your own troubles to yourself. The world is too busy to care for your ills and sorrows. Learn to do something for others. Even if you are a bedridden invalid, there is always something that you can do to make others happier, and that is the surest way to attain happiness for yourself. Let your aim be high. Let some great object fire your whole being. Our country holds out a thousand situations which you might fill honorably. Seek to be such that the present generation and all posterity will hold you in the sweetest remembrance of doing some sunshine work.

Stuffed Sweet Peppers.

Select the sweet green peppers which are very mild. Have some cold cooked meat chopped fine and seasoned with salt and pepper. Cut the tops from the peppers and take out all the seeds, being sure not to miss one. Fill with the meat and set closely together in a baking dish. For five peppers mix one cup of strained cooked tomato, two tablespoons of water, a rounding tablespoon of butter and half a level teaspoon of salt. Pour into the peppers, then bake them in a slow oven, basting occasionally.

A Handy Table.

The following time table should be preserved by every mother, as it is often a source of the greatest anxiety to know whether or not a child will develop a disease after having been exposed to it: Chickenpox, symptoms usually appear on the fourteenth day; diphtheria, second day; measles, fourth day; mumps, nineteenth day; scarlet fever, fourth day; smallpox, twelfth day; typhoid fever, twenty-first day; whooping cough, fourteenth day.

The Wash Lady.

"He says they have a servant at his house who just goes tearing through her day's work." "It must be their washwoman."
