

Mother. — Say, Willie, go the corner grocery and get a loaf of Shaker bread. If they have not got it, go to the next grocery, for I want the Shaker.

Willie: — No, mother; if they have not got it, I will go to Schroder's Bakery, 1129 Main St. There I'll surely get it. They have warm rolls every evening for supper, too.

LULU TYLER GATES AT JACKSON'S PARK

GAVE SPLENDID READINGS TO A LARGE AUDIENCE

THE CLAY MODELING

By Ross Crane Was a Unique Entertainment That Pleased the Large Crowd.

Jackson Park was filled from noon until late at night yesterday with large numbers of people from Richmond, Cambridge City, Milton, Centerville and other Wayne county towns, all endeavoring to get away from the heat and choosing cool Jackson Park as the place to do it.

The program of entertainment offered by the R. S. & I. company was indeed an excellent one, better than any yet offered so far, with the possible exception of the Phinney band. The entertainment yesterday was of an entirely different nature and seemed to please even more readily than did the band last Sunday.

Mrs. Lulu Tyler Gates, the well known Chautauqua reader, who delighted the large audiences at the Richmond Chautauqua last fall, appeared on the program for several readings and received quite an ovation on her appearance from the many who heard her last August. Her readings were better even than they were last year. Her voice, well modulated, threw the emphasis on the striking important thoughts and her readings were wonderful. Mrs. Gates is probably one of the best entertainers in her line in the West, and she has never appeared to better advantage, nor with better reading, than she did yesterday, and the applause given her was long and loud.

Ross Crane offered one of the most unique entertainments that has been given in this city for a long time. His forte was clay modeling and Mr. Crane worked with a dexterity and accuracy that was marvelous to the onlookers. A large lump of wet clay, ugly and with no semblance of form, was in a few minutes, by the swift work of his magic fingers, transformed into the bust and head of some noted American or foreigner. In each case the work was done so well and accurately that it was needless for Mr. Crane to call out the name, as the audience recognized immediately whom the clay model represented. This unique entertainment proved very enjoyable to the audience.

The Cambridge City band made a good impression and played well, receiving great applause for the artistic rendition of the selections.

Numbers of picnic parties were in Jackson Park to spend the afternoon and evening, with a picnic supper. The R. S. & I. offered good service to the park, which was appreciated by the patrons.

NEW BRANCH TO RICHMOND

OF C. H. & D. FROM COAL FIELD NOW CERTAIN

FIRST GIVEN OUT

To Surveyors, Etc., That Their Work
Was for a New Traction Line.

It is now an assured fact that the branch will be built to some point a few miles south, or even to this city itself, from Dayton, Ohio, to connect with the coal-carrying branch of the C. H. & D., of which the "Straight Line" is now a part. Several of the engineers, surveyors and helpers, who are working on the branch now, were in Richmond yesterday to spend the day and they all talked freely concerning the proposed branch. Although they would not say for certain exactly why the road was being built nor by whom, they said that it was almost certain that the C. H. & D. was back of it. It was first given out, when the surveyors set out, that the surveying and other work was for a narrow-gauge traction line, and this was told to both workmen and the people of the towns through which the road passed. But subsequent events showed that this road was not to be for a traction line and finally, after the preliminary work was well started it leaked out that the road was a branch from Dayton to Richmond. The surveyors and road men are now as far as West Lebanon, Ohio, and are working fast to get their part of the work completed soon. It is probable that before winter sets in the work on the new branch will be well under way. The new road will mean much to this city and to the manufacturers, chiefly in that it will give a new short route to the Ohio coal fields.
