Howe Military School.

The Howe Military School is one of the oldest and most successful schools for boys in this vicinity. It is so conveniently located with reference to Fort Wayne that our citizens ought to appreciate its advantages. The school is well endowed and has a superior equipment. The numbers are strictly limited to one hundred boys in the upper school, and thirty in the lower school, so that each boy is assured of careful and personal attention. The number of applicants however each year exceeds this number so that a selection can be made and only boys of good character and intellectual promise admitted.

The high standing of scholarship is respected in university and college circles and wherever students are admitted by certificate the Howe school certificate is accepted.

Not long since a gentleman of this State wrote to Harvard inquiring for a preparatory school in the East where his son could prepare for that university. The dean wrote him it was not necessary to come East as the Howe school in his own State was successfully preparing candidates for Harvard. The school points with pride to the record of its students in college—not only in Harvard, but in other great universities of the country.

The location of the school is ideal. It is entirely removed from city influences and is a community within itself with everything provided that makes country and school life pleasant and profitable.

Mr. G. C. Good, a representative of the school, is at the Westcott and will be glad to meet by appointment any who are interested in the advantages of this excellent school.
