TUBERCULOSIS EXHIBITION.

The tuberculosis exhibition now being given at Tomlinson Hall, in Indianapolis, under the auspices of the Commercial Club and the National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis, offers a splendid opportunity to those afflicted with this dread disease to learn how they may be cured. The exhibition is also valuable on account of the mass of vital statistics in regard to this disease, which are being made public by the various speakers. These statistics give a very encouraging view of the fight which is being waged on the great white plague. They state that tuberculosis is decreasing; that the total death rate in the United States decreased 10 per cent from 1890 to 1900; that the death rate from consumption fell off 22 per cent in the same time, and that the most striking fall in the mortality was in the cities; that the decrease the last sixteen years in New York has been 40 per cent; that this great fall has been due to better times, which means better food and shelter, greater knowledge, through universal reading and education. The great lesson the exhibition aims to teach is that consumption is curable in its early stages, and is always preventable. This lesson is ably propounded in the conclusion of Mr. Williams' speech, which he delivered yesterday. Mr. Williams says, "In a word, wholesome, nutritious food and God's pure air and sunshine. That is the simple and sensible lesson that science teaches. Living in sanitary conditions, breathing always fresh air, you are less liable to attack. Attacked, keep your habitation wide open to the blessed sunshine and the healing mercy of the air."

Andrew Hamilton, the New York Life's Insurance lobbyist has returned from Europe of his own accord to face any criminal charges which may be lodged against him. John D. Rockefeller, who is guilty of crimes a thousand times worse than Hamilton's, is still in hiding.

That dispatch from Santo Domingo stating that "the country now is at peace, and everything is tranquil," is too good to be true.

Yesterday's Chicago Chronicle denounces the other Chicago papers for their articles in regard to the arrest of John R. Walsh. The Chronicle, however, is owned by Mr. Walsh.

Henry H. Rogers (Standard Oil magnate) visited his birth-place yesterday to try to keep the saloon interests from obtaining licenses at the election. He took many citizens to the polls in an automobile.—News Item.

Mr. Rogers is making a beginning at doing some really decent thing, and he is a Standard Oil magnate too. Good thing John D. Rockefeller is still in hiding and cannot see the back-sliding of his most trusted lieutenant.

For a number of hours yesterday Chicago was covered with a pall of smoke, which, coupled with heavy clouds, made the day as dark as night.—News Item.

Maybe it was the dust kicked up by criminals leaving the city on account of the new ordinance providing for an increase of 1000 in the police force.

SIXTH DISTRICT EDITORIALS

Always a Democrat.

Rev. Kuhn will not have any trouble in getting the endorsement of the Democratic party for Congress in the Sixth District, for he has always been a consistent party man up to this time.—Greenfield Star.

Down this way Mr. Kuhn is spoken of as a Prohibitionist, but there is no law against a man belonging to two parties at the same time when running independent, even though the traditions of the two parties are the antipodes of each other.—Connorsville News.

Let's see, isn't there an old proverb about serving two masters?

Soldiers of Valparaiso have sent a memorial to Senator Hemenway to present to the United States Senate protesting against the common practice of congress in passing special pension bills. This is a form of legislation which is unpopular with almost all soldiers except those who get, or want to get such acts in their own behalf. It is not popular either with the members of the National Congress. It has grown out of a few very deserving cases which could not be reached in any other way. From this it was invoked in other less deserving cases, until it is greatly abused. Many senators and congressmen feel that it is dangerous class legislation, and that instead of practicing it, congress should have the courage to pass a general pension law so liberal that special acts would not be necessary. Such is the sentiment of Congressman James E. Watson.—Greenfield Star.

Rev. Thomas H. Kuhn, pastor of the Christian church at Richmond, who recently announced himself as an Independent candidate for Congress in the Sixth District against James E. Watson, dropped into this city Monday night to take a little look at the political situation at this end of the district.

Rev. Kuhn appears to us as an honest, earnest citizen, who is imbued with the idea that he has a mission in politics to benefit rather than as a practical politician who goes about seeking personal aggrandizement through the corruption of the voter.—Greensburg Graphic.

The Greensburg Graphic, as the Democratic organ of Decatur county, must naturally support the candidate of its party.

Pastors and evangelists in Denver resort to freak advertising to fill the churches. It is hoped that the brand of the gospel they dispense is of a better quality.

THE MORNING PALLADIUM

MISS SUSAN B. ANTHONY.

Miss Anthony, who recently celebrated her eighty-sixth birthday, has worked all her life for temperance and for woman's rights. In 1852 she organized the first state woman's temperance society, and in 1869 she and the late Mrs. Elizabeth Cady Stanton organized the National Woman Suffrage association. No woman ever did more for her sex than Miss Anthony.

DECIDES NOT TO MAKE RACE

CHAS. E. SHIVELEY WILL NOT BE A CANDIDATE FOR ATTY. GENERAL.

HE ANNOUNCES NO REASONS

Shiveley's Friends Think He Could Have Won Nomination if He Had Tried.

Without assigning any reasons Charles E. Shiveley yesterday announced that he had decided not to become a candidate for attorney general. Mr. Shiveley has had the matter of his candidacy under consideration for some time, but his decision not to make the race for the office will come as no great surprise to the Republican leaders of the state.

As has been stated Wayne County already has one candidate in the field for state office, Judge D. W. Comstock, who is seeking re-election to the appellate bench. It was not considered a wise policy for any one county to have two candidates in the field for state offices.

Many of Mr. Shiveley's friends urged him to make the race because they thought that he stood an excellent show for nomination owing to his wide acquaintance throughout the state, made since he has been Supreme Chancellor of the Knights of Pythias, and while he was state senator from this county.

THE OTTOMAN EMPIRE.

Friday is the Moslem Sunday. Sultan Abdul Hamid II. was born Sept. 22, 1842, and succeeded to the throne Aug. 31, 1876.

Imports and exports of the Turkish empire are each estimated at from $20,000,000 to $25,000,000 a year.

Constantinople, the capital and chief city, has a population of 1,125,000 and is the world's twelfth largest city.

One of the most important fisheries of Turkey lies in its fisheries; the income from the Bosphorus strait alone represents a yearly value of $250,000.

The total area of the Ottoman empire (including states nominally subject) is estimated at 1,662,000 square miles and its total population at about 40,000,000.

There are 1,297 Turkish postoffices in the Ottoman empire. Foreign offices are maintained in many large coast towns by the nations commercially interested.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

PLAYS AND PLAYERS.

May Irwin is seen on tour in her funny farce, "Mrs. Black Is Back." Wright Lorimer has written a new Biblical play on the life of Daniel. The drama is to be on the same lines as "The Shepherd King."

During his annual engagement at the New Amsterdam theater, New York, this season Richard Mansfield will present "Don Carlos" and ten other plays.

Beerbohm Tree said in a recent interview: "The part of Nero offers many opportunities to an actor. There is hardly a note in the gamut of the human emotions which is not touched by him."

Gabriele d'Annunzio has been refused citizenship by the Swiss authorities, and it is reported that he seriously contemplates taking up his residence in the United States in order to secure a divorce.

E. Benedict de Mornay's three act drama, "Judith," has been accepted by Sarah Bernhardt and will be brought out at her French theater. The translation into French has been made by Frederick Mayer.

H. B. Irving is to revive "The Corsican Brothers" soon and hopes to appear at the Drury Lane theater, London, in the piece. It is likely that he will make a tour of the United States under the direction of the Shuberts next season.

ENGLISH ETCHINGS.

The elephants in the London zoological gardens earn $800 a year by carrying visitors about on their backs.

The silk industry of Great Britain, once so prosperous, has been reduced by foreign competition to a mere shadow of its former condition.

In answer to a query Berry, formerly the English executioner, states that not one of the 500 persons whom he hanged was a total abstainer.

In the Hospital For Incurables at Putney, England, there recently died a woman who had been an inmate fifty-one years and had cost the hospital $17,500.

In the first edition of the London Medical Credit Guide, shortly to be issued, will be the names of 20,000 living in London and vicinity who have forgotten to pay their doctors' bills.

Tablets to commemorate the residence of Thomas Carlyle, 33 Ampton street, W. C.; of William Wilberforce, 111 Bromwood road, Clapham, and of Lord Palmerston, 4 Carlton gardens, S. W., are to be affixed to the houses by the London county council.

FACTS FROM FRANCE.

In the arsenals of France, according to a French paper, there are $8,000,000 worth of antiquated and useless artillery.

A farmer at Larzicourt, in France, possesses a goose nearly twenty-five years old. The goose has not yet begun to show any signs of decrepitude.

France's ministry of war has formally taken over from Lebaudy brothers their airship 1905, which will in future be attached to the French forces on the eastern frontier.

A competition for spring wheel devices, pneumatic hubs and shock absorbers may be held in Paris this spring. A preliminary meeting of interested manufacturers has already been held.

An extraordinary marriage took place in Paris recently, when two artists, Alphonse and Gabriel Chanteaud, twin brothers, wedded twin sisters. The best men at the double wedding were another pair of twins, cousins of the bridegrooms.

IN SOCIETY'S REALM

PENNY CLUB MEETS WITH MRS.

WILLIAM LANE.

At the Close of the Business Session The Club Had an Art Exhibit of Unique Type—Cycle Club Held Its First Meeting With Mrs. Chas. Neal. Meeting of the Merry Go Round Club is Postponed. Club Meetings For Today.

There was an immense attendance at the meeting of the Ladies Penny Club yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. William Lane, South Tenth street. At the regular business session reports of the officers were read. During the winter season the society has paid out a large sum of money for the relief of the suffering poor, most of which was expended in purchasing and distributing fuel.

At the close of the business session the art gallery was opened and it delighted and amused the large crowd. Living pictures of "foolish Liz" and other characters were shown. The proceeds from this entertainment were placed in the club's treasury. After refreshments the meeting adjourned to meet in two weeks at the home of Mrs. Stever, 416 South Sixth Street.

The Cycle met yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Charles Neal, South Sixteenth street and enjoyed an interesting program. Excellent and entertaining papers were read by Miss Holmes, Miss Potter and Mrs. Markley and a musical recital was given by Miss Manger. The Cycle now has 22 members, nearly all of whom were members of the old Wednesday Social Club of the First Presbyterian Church. The present organization, however, is in no way connected with the church. The next meeting of the Cycle will be held March 28, at the home of Mrs. Samuel Buckley, 200 South Eleventh street.

The annual thank offering of the Women's Foreign Missionary Society of the Grace M. E. church was held last evening at the parsonage. A program was carried out consisting of vocal music by Mrs. Clarence Hadley and Miss Elizabeth Sands. A most interesting letter from Mrs. G. H. Hill was read and the chief address of the evening was given by the Rev. G. H. Hill, presiding elder of the district. The annual thank offering amounted to $35. Refreshments were served to the large company.

The Merry-Go-Round Club, which was to meet this evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Lane, South Tenth street, has been postponed until next Thursday, owing to a death in one of the member's family. The meeting next Thursday will be with Mr. and Mrs. Lane.

The Anglican Club of Earlham College will meet this afternoon. An interesting program has been prepared.

Miss Louise Behring this afternoon will entertain the Helping Hand Society at her home, 409 South Seventh street.

The Alice Cary Club will meet this afternoon at the home of Mrs. Charles Ross on South Thirteenth street.

Mrs. Hatfield, North Seventeenth street, will act as hostess to the Busy Bee Club.

When you entertain or are entertained; when you know anything of interest in social circles, call on the society editor of the Palladium, number 21, both phones, and tell him about it.

Crafty.

Mrs. Ascum—Mrs. Phamley has so many children I don't see how she manages to get them all looking so neat and clean every afternoon.

Mrs. Newitt—Well, she's a shrewd manager. Just before it's time to dress them for dinner she lets them blow soap bubbles. In that way they wash themselves.—Philadelphia Press.

INVITATION EXTENDED.

The Wayne County school trustees will hold a regular meeting today in the office of County Superintendent Jordan. A general program has been arranged, the principal subject being "Commencements." A large amount of routine business will be transacted.

HUMOR

HAD THE LAUGH ON HIM.

How the Wife of a Contractor Accomplished It.

The clerk at the Stafford hotel was smiling broadly yesterday afternoon, and a caller asked him the cause of his jocularity.

"Why, it's a story a Missourian who is staying at his house just told me about a friend of his who is a well known contractor here in Baltimore." "Shall we have the story?" asked the caller.

"Sure," returned the other, "only we'll have to eliminate names. The contractor is sometimes given to brief sessions of bibulousness, and while returning from one of these a short time ago he made up his mind that he would not disturb his wife. On reaching home he was successful in finding the keyhole, and after careful effort he successfully navigated his way upstairs. Here he saw, or thought he saw, in the dim light which the electric lamp outside shed through the window the five-months-old baby sitting up in a rocker while his wife was comfortably sleeping in the bed beyond. Softly creeping over to the rocker he took the baby in his arms and began to rock her to sleep, when his wife awakened.

"John," she said, "what are you doing there?"

"Sh, m' dear," whispered John. "I'm rocking baby to sleep."

"Baby's been asleep for over an hour," said the patient wife reproachfully. "John, put down that doll and come to bed. I rather think you need a little sleep."—Baltimore Herald.

For Convenience Sake.

There was no help for it. Mr. Sinclair had to change trains; but when he found that the place at which he would have to make the change was a roadside station which was just far enough from the village not to allow of him walking in and obtaining refreshment, of which he was sorely in need, he was angry in the extreme, and at no great pains to hide the fact.

"Great Scott, man," he said to the solitary stolid porter on duty, "what on earth made them build the station so far from the village?"

"Dunno, mister," said the porter gravely, "unless perhaps it was because they thought it would be more convenient to have it down here near the railway."—Tit-Bits.

At the Expense of the Public.

"On whom does the cost of a big strike fall?" said J. Ogden Armour, the great beef packer in answer to a question of a reporter. "Well, I'll try to illustrate with a story."

"A butcher was carrying to a customer's kitchen some meat that had been ordered and paid for, when he was attacked and pinned to the wall by a great dog."

"Here! Here!" called a woman's voice. The dog slunk away. "Oh," anxiously asked the mistress of the house, "did Hero bite you?"

"No," answered the still trembling butcher; "I kept him off by giving him your chops, and you came just in time to save your steak."—Woman's Home Companion.

He Spoke His Mind.

Two Irish farmers who had not seen each other for a long time met at a fair. They had a lot of things to tell each other. "Shure, it's married I am," said Murphy. "You don't tell me so," said Moran. "Faix, yes," said Murphy, "an' I've got a fine, healthy boy, which the neighbors say is the very picture of me." Moran looked for a moment at Murphy, who was not, to say the least, remarkable for his good looks, and then said, "Och, well, what's the harm so long as the child's healthy?"—Dublin Gazette.

Willing.

"Sir," said the grafter to the cartoonist, "you have perpetrated a brazen insult in caricaturing me as a hog. An ample apology is due."

"Very well, sir," replied the courteous cartoonist, "I will write an apology to the hog if you will give me its address."—Judge.

The Retort Courteous.

She—What! Marry you? Why, you couldn't keep an old cat alive. He—But, dear, you know I said I should insist on your mother not living with us.—New York World.

Locating the Blame.

"Why does Mrs. Smithers insist on gossiping?" said the conscious woman. "That isn't the really serious question," answered Miss Cayenne. "She is merely anxious to oblige. Why do we eager auditors insist on encouraging her to gossip?"—Washington Star.
