EOOK NOTICES.

OLD Mam'selle's Secret. By Mrs. A. L. Wister. J. B. Lippincott Company, publisher. Paper cover. 25c.

The author has succeeded in presenting in "Old Mam'selle's Secret" a very entertaining story. It will be found to be just the thing for an idle hour.

THEERA." By William Armstrong. J. B. Lippincott Company, publisher, Philadelphia. Cloth. Price $1.

This is a story of Viennese musical life and a rather interesting story it is. The heroine is a finely drawn character and the plot of the story is well conceived.

MAGAZINES.

In the opening paper of the Forum for July Prof. W. T. Harris points out "Henry George's Mistake About Land." The mistake is that the aggregate of the ground rent which Mr. George proposes to confiscate is a very large sum; whereas Prof. Harris reckons it as no more than $400,000,000 per annum, or $8 per year for each inhabitant—an increase of income which, he suggests, "would not bring ease and luxury to those who are struggling with poverty." The "Position of Canada" is not depicted in rose colors in David A. Poe's article. A heavy colors in David A. Poe's article. A heavy burden of debt, due to extravagant expenditures made for the purpose of binding the confederation together, the general prevalence of an extreme and corrupt partisanship, and the growing discontent of the people, are leading points in the picture. The writer advocates absorption into the United States, but acknowledges that "the word 'annexation' is under a ban, and no Canadian statesman is under a ban, and no Canadian statesman dares to avow himself in favor" of that policy. In "Race Prejudice at Summer Resorts," Alice Hyneman Rhine treats the edict retired journalist. "It was cast in St.

hotel in Saratoga as the point of a new departure, and says "a host of hotel and boarding-house proprietors throughout the State of New York have followed the example set at Saratoga." The Forum Publishing Co., 97 Fifth avenue, New York city.

terial is of a sparkling out-of-doors character. The opening paper, by John Burroughs, on "Wild Flowers," is profusely illustrated; another, by W. J. Henderson, on "The Sportsman's Music," giving pictures of live game birds. A third paper, by Talcott Williams, treats of "Animal Loco-motion in the Muybridge Photographs," with a lot of drollish fascinating pictures exhibiting in progressive series familiar phenomena not fully seen before in nature. A humorous story, yet not without a serious conclusion, is "Sister Todhunter's Heart," by H. S. Edwards, with attractive genre pictures by Kemble, to which there is a foil in Mr. Boyesen's pathetic "Crooked John," in which the writer returns to the Norwegian field of "Gunnar" and his other early successes. The Lincoln History closes up the Kansas troubles and discusses their corollary, the "Lincoln-Douglas Debates." The War Series, followed since the start by the closest attention of thousands, compasses this month the hun-dred days of battle in "The Struggle for Atlanta," compactly narrated by Gen. O. O. Howard. The poetry of the Century embraces from month to month many new con tributors and a large range of method. The Century Company, Union Square, New

The New Princeton Review for July presents a series of articles which possess in an unusual degree the quality of being interesting; the subjects discussed are not only varied but entertaining. Mr. R. W. Gilder, the editor of the Century Magazine, mphasizes "Certain Tendencies in Current Literature," and interprets them as indications of the thirst for life and realty in art. Mr. S. G. W. Benjamin outlines the development of "American Art Since the Centennial." "The Theory of Prohibition" is examined at length and in a thoroughly candid spirit by Mr. Sanford H. Cobb, Madame Blaze de Bury contributes a very fresh and interest-ing resume of the "Recollections of the Duc de Broglie." Prof. T. W. Hunt discusses de Broglie." Prof. T. W. Hunt discusses the subject of "Literary Criticism" with special reference to American letters. "The Minister's Factotum" is a capital piece of character study. Miss Hapgood, who has done such good service in the translation of Russian literary masterpieces into English, gives Tolstoi at his best in "Sevastapol in May." A. C. Armstrong & Son, New York city.

The North American Review for July has for its leading article a paper by Henry George on "The New Party." Mr. George holds that the old parties of hack politics are dead, and that the party of political economy is now in order. "Why am I a Free Religionist?" is answered by Rev. O. B. Frothingham. Hon. George W. Julian, who was appointed Surveyor General of New Mexico by President Cleveland to look after the "land stealing" in that part of the coun-try, contributes startling facts and figures on the subject. Arthur Richmond, not much troubled, apparently, by recent strictures on himself, does Hon. James Russell Lowell the honor of addressing him a second letter, specially deaddressing him a second letter, specially depicting his conduct, a short time ago, in Chicago. Ignatius Donnelly concludes his paper, "The Shakespeare Myth." "Johnson, Grant, Seward, Sumner" are portrayed by Gideon Welles, according to his view of them and their day, in two very remarkable posthumous letters, hitherto unpublished. North American Review, No. 3 East Fourteenth street, New York city.

"Military Brotherhood" opens the July outing and leads one naturally to the first article entitled "On the March," a neat and vivid picture of a soldier's experiences. The paper is well illustrated by half a dozen clever pen and ink sketches by Remington.

Ripley Hitchcock recounts in a humorous rate a leaderway's triels while on a variety and the road was finished. San the last tiel and the road was finished. The July Wide Awake has an interesting article on what sort of a boy George Washington was, with another hatchet story as good as the cherry tree story, and more human. Charles Egbert Craddock's story, begun in the June number, halts at a coon hunt. The other story-tellers stop to take breath as they can. There is more of what goes on inside of a bank, a peep at the Harvard Annex, a boy misses his Fourth of July, and a picture story of animals and their animal friends. D. Lothrop, Boston.

The Sanitarian for June is a splendid number. The article on "The Relations of Drinking Water to Typhoid Fever," by Dr. Drinking Water to Typhold Fever," by Dr. Dowling Benjamin, of Camden, N. J., is alone well worth the price of the number. Another article that will attract attention is that of Horace W. Conrad, on "The Health of the Negroes in the South." 113 Fulton street, New York.

The Church Magazine for July has for its opening article "The Heroism of Christ," by Rev. Thomas A. Hyde. The subject is ably handled, and the article is well worth and handled, and the attitle is well worth reading. There are a number of other articles that possess great merit. Hamersly & Co., 1510 Chestnut street, Philadelphia, Pa.

The English Illustrated Magazine for July is exceptionally bright and interesting. The frontispiece, "Chatter," is a very pretty picture. The fiction and short articles are well up to the standard of this publication. McMillan & Co., 112 Fourth avenue, New York city.

The Bookbuyer for July has an interesting summary of home and foreign literature for the past month. It has also a superb illustration of the Mayflower-Galatea contest of 1886. Charles Scribner's Sons, New York.

No. 2 of Battles and Leaders of the civil war of the Century's war articles, contains fine portraits of distinguished Southerners who took part in the civil war. The Century Co., Union Square, New York.

The Atlanta Medical and Surgical Journal for July has considerable interesting original matter and a number of valuable reports. James P. Harrison & Co., At-lanta, Ga.

The Swiss Cross for July is an excellent number. The articles are both interesting and instructive. The Swiss Cross, 47 Lafayette Place, New York.

CALIFORNIA RELICS.

Treasures Displayed at the Pioneer Museum in San Francisco.

From the St. Louis Republican. "Yes, indeed, that little howitzer is a cannon which has occupied no mean place in the early history of California." So spoke the veteran journalist, H. B. Livingstone the other day, as he leisurely rocked to and fro his comfortable chair in the luxuriously appointed Museum Hall of the Pioneers' building at San Francisco. The remark was addressed to a reporter who had been examining with curious interest a small brass 4-pounder, inscribed with Russian characters and mounted on a highly pol-ished wooden frame.

of Judge Hilton regarding admissions to his hotel in Saratoga as the point of a new departure, and says "a host of hotel and boarding-house proprietors throughout the State of New York have followed the example set at Saratoga." The Forum Publishing Co., 97 Fifth avenue, New York city.

In the Century for July the lighter massing the point of the control of the United States was hoisted over the fort at sun-In the Century for July the lighter ma-States was hoisted over the fort at sun-rise on July 12, 1846, this venerable cannon roared right lustily in honor of the event.

Subsequently the gun was used by Com. Stockton in his advance from San Pedro to Los Angeles, and it played a conspicuous part in the engagement at San Pasqual Dec 6, 1846, and again at Los Angeles on Jan. 8 and 9, 1847. The gun was then transferred to Col. Mason, of the First United States Dragoons, and he returned it to Sutter, who gave it to the Pioneer Society. What wonderful changes have been wrought on this coast since that cannon was landed here. Over there in the corner are the horns of the ox that dragged that gun from Santa Barbara to Los Angeles in 46. He was a sturdy old fellow, was that ox, for he died a peaceful death at the age of 27

Meanwhile the reporter had espied beneath a table a small iron chest or treasure box, the key in the lock, as if inviting the ting of the reminiscences within.
'What is that, Mr. Livingstone; the chest of Monte Cristo?"

"Well, well, if there isn't the Jenkins box! That little box has an exciting history. Thirty-six years ago, on June 10, that iron box was in the shipping office of Virgin & Co., on Long wharf, A man by the name of John Jenkins picked it up and started off with it. He was seen pursued. the name of John Jenkins picked it up and started off with it. He was seen, pur-sued and captured, but not before he had thrown the box into the bay. That was a sorry deed for Jenkins, for that very day the vigilantes took charge of him and determined to make an example of him that should strike terror in the hearts of the lawless hordes thronging the city. Jen-kins was tried by the vigilantes, convicted and sentenced to death, and that night was hanged to a beam in the old adobe build-ing on the plaza, relays of men holding the rope all night. The vigilantes didn't know anything about a bill of exceptions or a stay of execution of judgment pending an appeal to the Supreme Court. The box was presented to the pioneers by H. W. Neal and W. E. Domett, two of the oldest pilots in the harbor. That clock over there was used by the vigilantes of '56 in their hall, and that break in the frame was done by a bullet." was done by a bullet."

While the pioneer editor had been recounting this tale of the troublous vigi-lante times the reporter had kicked up a surveyor's chain, rusty with age and bat-tered with service. In itself the chain was nothing, but the inscription upon it, though terse, established the historical value of the relic beyond a doubt. The chain, so the inscription said, was used by Jasper O'Farrell in laying off the city of San Francisco in 1844. O'Farrell was a State Senator, and from him the present O'Farrell street takes its name. Close by the chain was placed a coffee pot once used by the millionaire James Lick.

"Here is a relic, Mr. Reporter, that recalls our debt of gratitude to Lafayette, for it is slat from a door of the ship Cadmus, which brought that nobleman to America on the occasion of his visit in 1834. The vessel was broken up in this harbor in 1858."

various articles are now in close juxtaposi-tion that were widely enough apart a few years ago. For instance, that wooden cap much room in the corner was used by Gen.

Grant when, as a lieutenant, he was stationed at Humboldt. Traditions did say that Grant made the desk with his own hands, but when he was out here he knocked that romance all to pieces. Why," said Mr. Livingstone with a laugh, "Grant vowed that he never could make even a sled, let desk was, however, really and truly, as the children say, worn by Grant at the surren-der at Vicksburg. The straps on it were those worn by him during the Virginia campaigns"

"That bell over there," continued Mr. Livingstone, pointing with his cane to a fire-alarm bell, "was the first fire-alarm bell ever in this city. It was the property of the old Monumental, No. 6, Volunteer Fire Company. "You see," said Mr. Livingstone, "that you now have your hand on was the top of the liberty pole that stood on the plaza from the liberty pole that stood on the plaza from 1850 to 1861, and there just behind you is a piece of timber from the Northeast corner of the cabin occupied by the ill-fated Donner party in 1846, away up amid the snows of the Sierras. That fragment of wood is from the ship Sparrow Hawk, wrecked off Cape Cod in 1826, and that other chip is from a fragment of the brig Natalia, wrecked at Monterey, Oct. 14, 1834. This last vessel is said to have been the one on which the great Napoleon escaped from Elba. That roughly-fashioned desk which takes up so much room in the corner was used by Gen. Report adopted.

Chairman Committee on Streets and Lanes. Report adopted.
The joint Committee of Water and Fire, to whom was referred the communication of the Board of Fire Underwriters relative to the recent fire in Lovell's building on Broughton street, beg leave to report that they have examined the principal employes of the city, both in the Water and Fire Departments, who were on duty on the night of the fire, and upon information obtained from this source the committee are of the opinion that the disastrous conflagration was not the result of an insufficient supply of water. Upon thorough investigation the committee find that the supply of water was then, and is now, ample. From the evidence given by the firemen who were on duty in

REPORTS OF COMMITTEES.

The Committee on Health and Cemetery, to whom was referred the petition of Abram Minis asking Council to abate nuisance southeast corner of Jones and Abercorn streets, beg leave to report that a careful examination of the premises complained of has been made by the Health Officer, as will appear by within report from him, and as these privy vaults are considered by the Health Officer to be in good condition and recently cleaned and disinfected, the committee cannot justly take any steps looking to their removal. Instructions have been given to Mr. Cleary, Superintendent of this department of the public service, to apply frequent disinfectants and deodorizers. Any procedure looking to the removal of the privy vaults as being a nuisance can only be accomplished by their authority alone after due trial and examination.
