Pretty Girl Suffered From Nervousness and Pelvic Catarrh—Found Quick Relief in a Few Days.

NERVOUSNESS AND WEAKNESS CURED BY PE-RU-NA.

Miss Sadie Robinson, 4 Rand street, Malden, Mass., writes:

"Peruna was recommended to me about a year ago as an excellent remedy for the troubles peculiar to our sex, and as I found that all that was said of this medicine was true, I was pleased to endorse it."

"I began to use it about seven months ago for weakness and nervousness, caused from overwork and sleeplessness, and found that in a few days I began to grow strong, my appetite increased and I began to sleep better, consequently my nervousness passed away and the weakness in the pelvic organs soon disappeared and I have been well and strong ever since."

Beauty and the Babies.

As a guardian of children, no human being ever surpassed "Beauty," an Irish setter dog, says Daniel Leo of 830 South Fifteenth street, her owner. Lee has trained his dog to take care of the little pickininnies which call him pap. He says that the dog is better than a nurse to keep the children from harm and would willingly sacrifice her life to save that of his children. Lee has one little girl who likes to play in the street. She occasionally tries to do this, although her mother has strictly forbidden it.

"Beauty knows that the children should not go out of their own yard," said Lee yesterday, "and whenever my little girl tries to go through the gate she has a rough and tumble fight with Beauty. Beauty will run in front of her and if she refuses to stop grasps her dress and pulls her back. She holds on in spite of any efforts she makes to get away. Some times the child in her innocence reaches for the dog's ears and Beauty kicks her. When she hurts her the dog whines pitifully, but still holds on. The other day the child in her rage took hold of the dog's ear with her teeth and bit it. The dog howled in pain, but did not offer to do her injury."

Beauty is a very valuable dog and has a faultless pedigree. Some time since she gave birth to twelve little beauties and is not out of the yard much now, as she has children of her own to care for.—Denver Republican.

SAFEST FOOD

In Any Time of Trouble Is Grape-Nuts.

Food to rebuild the strength and that is pre-digested must be selected when one is convalescent. At this time there is nothing so valuable as Grape-Nuts, for the reason that this food is all nourishment and is also all digestible nourishment. A woman who used it says:

"Some time ago I was very ill with typhoid fever, so ill everyone thought I would die, even myself. It left me so weak I could not properly digest food of any kind and I also had much bowel trouble which left me a weak, helpless wreck."

"I needed nourishment as badly as anyone could, but none has been so helpful to me as I finally tried Grape-Nuts food morning and evening. This not only supplied food that I thought delicious as could be, but it also made me perfectly well and strong again so I can do all my housework, sleep well, can eat anything without any trace of bowel trouble and for that reason alone Grape-Nuts food is worth a weight in gold." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

Typhoid fever, like some other diseases, attacks the bowels and frequently sets up bleeding and makes them for months incapable of digesting the starches and therefore pre-digested Grape-Nuts is invaluable for the well-known reason that in Grape-Nuts all the starches have been transformed into grape sugar. This means that the first stage of digestion has been mechanically accomplished in Grape-Nuts food at the factories and therefore anyone, no matter how weak the stomach, can handle it and grow strong, for all the nourishment is still there.

There's a sound reason and 10 days' trial proves.

COMPLETE ROUT

RUSSIANS IN FULL RETREAT.

May Have to Leave Mukden—Correspondents Ordered Back to Harbin.—Kuropatkin's Report.

St. Petersburg, Oct. 17.—3:45 p. m.—The official veil was lifted to-day from the ghastly tragedy around Shakhie, but even the official account, supplemented by numerous press dispatches, leaves much uncertainty as to the situation of the fragmentary mass of information at hand. It is possible only to conclude that the costly withdrawal and retreat from Liao Yang is being duplicated on an even grander scale, after more desperate fighting and heavier losses.

General Kuropatkin's story leaves the Russians still tenaciously holding the north bank of the Shakhie river, but general belief is that this is only the desperate finale of one of the greatest military dramas in history, and that the Russian army as a whole is retreating toward Mukden, having suffered at the most conservative estimate a loss of over 30,000.

Of the left flank, which was one of the most important points in the line of battle, absolutely nothing is heard, which leaves the inference that it is not in a position to communicate with the remainder of the army. All the wounded are being carried to Harbin, further north. It is understood that the corresponding losses have been ordered to Harbin, which indicates that the retreat will not even stop at Tie pass.

All hopes of the world-heralded advance to Port Arthur have been abandoned. The military conditions are even worse than during the retreat from Liao Yang. Streams are bank high and fords are impassable, but it is impossible to say how this will affect the final situation. It may prove Russian salvation by preventing a Japanese pursuit. On the other hand, however, if the Russians are on the wrong side, the flooded rivers may only emphasize the completeness of the disaster.

TEN BADLY INJURED.

Accident to a Denver Omnibus Party Near Golden.

Denver, Oct. 16.—A Golden dispatch last night says that a bad accident occurred about four miles north of Golden at 5:15 o'clock this afternoon, in which David C. Ring and Miss Vera G. Dawson, teachers in the East Denver high school, and Joseph Dennis, a Golden liverman, were badly injured.

This morning a party of teachers from the East Denver high school came up to Golden to enjoy a day's outing. During the forenoon they visited the School of Mines and State Industrial School, and about 11 o'clock conveyances were procured from Dennis & Cunningham's livery stable to take the party out to the Glencoe stone quarries, about five miles north of town, where a picnic dinner was enjoyed.

When the start for home was made, Professor and Mrs. Garvin, Mr. and Mrs. Ring, Misses Dawson, Canon and Wallace, Mr. Potter and Mr. Reed rode in the large bus, Misses Dawson and Wallace occupying the high outside seat with the driver, Joseph Dennis, one of the proprietors of the stable from which the teams were obtained. After driving about a mile, at a sharp turn in the road, one of the wheels struck a rock. Mr. Dennis and the two ladies were thrown to the ground. The team became frightened and ran away. But without a driver, the bus was overturned before going fifty feet. The tongue broke and the horses got loose from the vehicle, which probably averted serious injury to the entire party.

Miss Dawson was the most seriously injured, two wheels of the heavy vehicle having passed over her body. Her injuries are internal and are considered dangerous.

Mr. Ring, who had both legs broken above the knee, was trying to get out of the vehicle when it fell on him, pinning him down.

Joseph Dennis, the driver, was also run over. His right shoulder and arm are badly lacerated and bruised, but no bones were broken and he will probably be out in a few days.

The other members of the party, who were in the vehicle, were all more or less injured.

The escape of Miss Edith Wallace from serious injury seems almost miraculous. The high seat on which she and Miss Dawson were sitting was about eight or ten feet from the ground, but fortunately Miss Wallace fell far enough away from the vehicle so that the wheels did not touch her.

Mr. Dennis is considered a most careful driver and this is the first accident he has ever had, although he has been in the livery business here for fourteen years.

An ambulance from Denver came up after Miss Dawson and Mr. Ring, the other injured members of the party being able to go home on the cars.

Mr. Ring died in the Homeopathic hospital shortly after midnight.

Pan-American Railway.

Mexico City, Oct. 17.—The Pan-American railway has passed into the hands of a St. Louis Syndicate, the new shareholders being nearly all railroad men. David H. Doak of St. Louis is president, and J. J. Neenan, formerly general manager, has been promoted to the vice presidency of the road. Among the shareholders is Howard Elliott, president of the Northern Pacific.

Christian Church Service.

St. Louis, Oct. 16.—The only gathering to-day of the delegates attending the conventions of the several missionary societies of the Christian Church took place at the Coliseum, where a union communion service was held.

The congregation was the largest that has ever gathered for communion in the history of the world. It was stated by Dr. Garrison, on opening the service.

When the services were opened there were 12,000 persons seated and standing in the Coliseum.

Tonight many of the ministers of the Christian Church who are attending the conventions occupied pulpits of St. Louis churches, their sermons being on missionary matters.

Shelling Russian Fleet.

Tokio, Oct. 17, 9:30 a. m.—It is reported authoritatively that the Russian fleet at Port Arthur is suffering severely from the fire of the Japanese land batteries.

Reports of a recent attempt by the fleet to sortie are unfounded, as is the reported capture of another blockade runner.

OBEYED ORDERS

KUROPATKIN FORCED TO FIGHT

Russian Prisoners Say Emperor Ordered Attack—Regiments Badly Depleted in Numbers.

Tokio, Sept. 16.—8 p. m.—According to statements made by Russian prisoners, General Kuropatkin was ordered by Emperor Nicholas to make an attack on Mukden and to assume the aggressive as speedily as possible, in order to relieve the Port Arthur garrison.

This order, the prisoners say, reached Mukden on September 27th, and General Kuropatkin, who was at Mukden, began his disastrous southern advance movement. An extended report dealing with the statements of these prisoners is as follows:

"According to statements made to officers of the center army by Russian prisoners whom they had captured, the enemy had received information that the strength of the garrison at Port Arthur was being daily reduced and that the garrison was in a disastrous condition. Fresh Russian reinforcements were being constantly arriving at Manchuria from Europe and the strength of the forces under General Kuropatkin in the neighborhood of Mukden had reached to over nine army corps.

"Thereupon, the prisoners said, the Russian Emperor on September 27th ordered Kuropatkin not to retire a step beyond Mukden and directed him, circumstances permitting, to assume the offensive as quickly as possible and to drive the Japanese out of southern Manchuria, in order to rescue the Port Arthur garrison.

"The prisoners declared that the war would continue for a long time because the Russians had decided to attain a final victory, regardless of the losses which might be involved, and that a defeat would mean a general revolution and the disintegration of Russian territory.

"During one engagement the Thirty-seventh division, especially the First brigade, sustained extraordinary losses. The first company of the One Hundred and Forty-fifth regiment was annihilated on Sankualish mountain and many line officers were killed, wounded or captured. The Third Siberian reserve division sustained the greatest losses.

"At the beginning of the war the Russian regiments numbered 4,000 men each. After the battle of Liao Yang each of the regiments was reduced to a strength of about 2,500, with the exception of the Twelfth regiment, which as a result of this battle was reduced to 800. This regiment, after the battle, was commanded by a captain, the battalions being in command of sub-lieutenants, while the older privates directed the operations of its companies."

His skull is broken and he is suffering from concussion of the brain. Both arms are crushed and his recovery is considered impossible by the hospital physicians.

President Discharges Inspectors.

Washington, Oct. 16.—The report of the United States commission of investigation into the disaster to the steamer General Slocum was made public to-day. In connection with the important findings of the commission, presented in the report, President Roosevelt, to whom the report was submitted, has written a letter to the Secretary of the Department of Commerce and Labor, briefly summarizing the report and directing him to carry into effect the recommendations of the commission. He also directs that Robert S. Rodde, supervising inspector of the Second district, steamboat inspection service, and James A. Dumont and Thomas H. Barrett, local inspectors in charge of the port of New York, be discharged from the service, the commission holding them directly responsible for the disaster to the Slocum disaster was directly attributable.

The President also directs an examination and the weeding out of all incompetent inspectors.

Against Changing Divorce Canon.

Boston, Oct. 16.—The house of deputies of the Episcopal general convention at the close of four days' debate, rejected an amendment to the divorce canon, which amendment sought to prevent the remarriage of divorced persons by clergymen of the denomination. While the house of bishops may yet act on the matter, it is certain that no change will be made by the present convention.

The present law of the church, which has been in operation since 1859, allows the remarriage of the innocent party to a divorce granted for infidelity.

Condition of the Injured.

Salida, Colo., Oct. 16.—At 9 o'clock to-night Engineer Boosinger, who was seriously injured in the collision on the Denver & Rio Grande near Florence yesterday, was still in an unconscious condition. When asked if Boosinger would recover the surgeon replied that there was little hope for him. The remains of Fred Boosinger were shipped to-day to relatives in Burlington, Missouri. The other six injured in the hospital are resting easy to-night and are said to be past all danger.

TOO MANY BEARS

TERRORIZE THE NATIONAL PARK

Man and Boy Killed at Yellowstone Lake Hotel—Campers and Private Conveyances in Danger.

A Cody, Wyoming, dispatch says that a man and boy employed in the Yellowstone National park were recently killed by bears. The names cannot be obtained, but the victims were in the employ of the Lake hotel, on Yellowstone lake. The authorities endeavored to keep the matter from the public, but the news was brought out by campers. The authorities say the man and boy were teasing the bears and were to blame, but the campers tell a different story, as follows:

One day the door of the meat house at the hotel was left open and the man and boy were sent to close it. When they reached the small building they heard a commotion inside. Before they could escape they were attacked by two huge cinnamon bears. The boy was killed instantly and the man so badly injured he died.

The park officials are alleged to have done much to cover up the details of the affair and have left the impression that death did not occur. They now admit that the two men were killed, but say they were to blame.

The time is not far distant when it will be impossible for the poorer class of people to visit the Yellowstone park owing to the constantly increasing number of bears. Many parties en route home from a visit to the park say that the journey through the wonderland was most dangerous.

It is alleged that the park transportation company and the hotel proprietors are doing everything possible to discourage campers and private conveyances from making the trip.

The bears have become so numerous and bold that even the park guards are frequently compelled to shoot the bears to save their own lives.

Recently a freighter from Gardner in passing through the park was attacked by bears and he shot one of them. A mounted police immediately placed the freighter under arrest, despite the fact that the bear climbed onto the wagon. The major in command released the freighter.

A formal protest will be made to President Roosevelt, who will be asked to decrease the number of bears in the park and to make arrangements for the better protection of tourists.

Cites a Colorado Drum Corps.

The New York Times, in a recent editorial took up the study briefly of civic pride. It does not believe the merchants and business men of New York city are doing all they should for the municipality; it considers New York self-satisfied and says so. In summing up its discontent with the attitude of New York merchants in general, the Times pays the following tribute to Denver:

"It is well enough, all these things. But why stop at this? Why not drink in some of the spirit of any Western city—for example, Denver. That city sent a famous drum corps to Boston during the G. A. R. reunion. The hundred or so lads beat the drums and sang the praises of Denver. They wanted the G. A. R. reunion in Denver next year and got it."

"New York got out a drum corps? 'Impossible! Terrible! That is what the average merchant of New York would say. And why? If a drum corps will bring visitors to New York, then let New York get a drum corps."

The Peach State.

Georgia has held the lead in the production of peaches for the Eastern market since 1902, and it is likely to be for years to come the leading peach state in the Union. The supremacy has been wrested from Maryland. Twelve years ago the order of the chief peach producing states was Maryland, 6,100,000 trees; Delaware, 4,520,000; New Jersey, 4,300,000; Georgia, 3,700,000. Since that time the peculiar excellence of the soil and climate of parts of Georgia for peach growing has been established, with the result that Georgia has largely increased the number of its peach-bearing trees while in the other states there has been a diminution in the number of trees.

In the fall of 1901 the number of peach trees reported in these states, and expected to be in good bearing in 1902, was: Georgia, 7,600,000; Maryland, 4,015,000; New Jersey, 2,700,000; Delaware, 2,400,000. In the following year, accordingly, Georgia had the bumper crop. She had so far surpassed all other states in number of trees that she is likely to continue to be the peach state par excellence for an indefinite time.—New York Sun.
