Mother's Day

On next Sunday, "Mothers' Day" will be celebrated for the fifth time, and white carnations, symbolizing purity of mother's love, will be worn by thousands in the United States and Great Britain. The several states have enacted legislation designating Mothers' Day in their respective commonwealths, but May 10 is Mothers' Day throughout the land, the day having been designated by an act of congress. The means of expression for this occasion has taken the form of flowers, and everyone should wear a flower of some kind on May 10, for everybody has a mother or has had one. In honor of the mothers living a bright flower is worn and a white flower is worn in memory of the mothers who have departed. Seven years ago, while Miss Anna Jarvis was commemorating the death of her own mother on the second Sunday in May, it occurred to her that the day, falling as it does in a season of blue sky and blossoms, might well be set aside as an annual festival upon which due tribute of affection and remembrance should be rendered to all mothers. Though naturally a modest and retiring little person, Miss Jarvis pleaded her cause so eloquently with leading clergymen, financiers and public officials, that on May 10, 1914, Mothers' day was established, not only in Philadelphia, her home city, but also in many other places thruout the Union. Special commemorative services were held in the Philadelphia churches, and Miss Jarvis personally arranged for the conveyance of the old and infirm to their houses of worship. Besides devoting much time to correspondence, Miss Jarvis has made several trips abroad spreading the cult of Mothers' Day in Europe. Feeling that there are few men or women, however unfortunate or degraded, that do not cherish memories of a mother's love, Miss Jarvis firmly believes that in such hallowed memories lies a potent force for consolation and regeneration. Accordingly she has visited many prisons, hospitals, asylums, and other institutions, distributing her symbolic white carnations among the inmates, endeavoring by simple, kindly talk to reawaken the tenderest of recollections. Miss Jarvis has an interesting collection of letters from kings, statesmen and noted writers, all expressing warm sympathy with her work in instituting a festival dear to all humanity. The local florist has made arrangements to carry an unusually large supply of carnations for next Sunday.

"Slopped Over"

In an endeavor to spread the "Harmony" dope too thickly, and attempting to lead the voters to believe that he was the man agreed upon by the people of Bemidji to make the run for State Senator, F. A. Wilson and a few supporters have discovered how mistaken they were in sizing up the situation. We ask, what man could have been named who would miss the "Harmony Idea" by a wider margin. It is clearly apparent that he is not the man on whom all factions agree.

In his issue this week Editor Wilson attempts to credit the Pioneer with extending its efforts to send the senatorship elsewhere. It is hardly necessary for us to make a denial. Surely we're not to blame when the majority of our citizens refuse to stand for the singling out of one candidate by a few. Efforts were made to effect a get together meeting. Attorney A. A. Andrews, the only other announced candidate at the time urged it. Then, if such a meeting selected either one of the two, or a third party, the city would have stood behind him.

It appears that Mr. Wilson's campaign manager was too wise to leave this matter to a public gathering, but insisted that the people agree on him. A forced agreement generally fails. It failed in this case. The result is that we now have five men out for the job. In order to vote for a Bemidji man, our citizens now have that privilege without being compelled to support one whom they preferred not to support. No, we do not claim any credit for bringing out an alleged harmony candidate, which seems to be the chief reason for lessening Bemidji's chances of landing the senatorship.

EDITORIAL EXPLOSIONS

If Eberhart were not a candidate for re-election the fellows who are now abusing him would have lots of nice things to say about him. The outs are out and the ins are in and that is all there is to this political prattle of the state.—Cannon Falls Beacon.

Julius Block, former state treasurer, filed as a candidate for state auditor this week. Rather think Julius will find he is in the wrong pew, as Jake Preus and Henry Rines have that one pretty well filled, and Julius will hardly have a chance to hear the benediction.—Spoonerville News.

The dairy cow with the crumpled horn that eats the clover and the corn, that gives the milk drawn night and morn, that turns to butter in the churn, that brings the cash that men don't scorn—she pays for the barn that Jack built—and for the auto that hustles the family to town.—Klester Courier.

Hats off to Andrew C. Dunn of Winnebago City, Minn., for the splendid reply he made to G. H. Selover, chairman, executive committee, state conference. It was a corker and one which every good republican can endorse. He closed thus: "No Mr. Selover, as at present advised, I cannot be counted on with an effort to, at disruption of the party with which I affiliated these long years and still affiliate. I am a republican."—Anoka Union.

PORT HOPE FARMERS MEET

The Port Hope Farmers' club held its annual business meeting at the home of William Gerlinger Saturday, May 2. All of the farmers attended with their wives and children. A large dinner was served at noon at which fried and baked fish was the chief article of food. In the afternoon a short program was given, the occasion being George Denahue's birthday. He was placed in a blanket and tossed up in the air several times. Although this made him dizzy for a time, he being a very jolly and good-natured fellow, he took it all as a joke. The men held their business meeting in the afternoon at which the following officers were elected for the coming year: Charles Spangler, President; Robert Amadus Krohn, Secretary, and A. J. Trusty, Treasurer. There were about one hundred and ten people who attended this meeting.

IF BACKACHY OR KIDNEYS BOTHER

Eat less meat and take a glass of Salts to flush out Kidneys—Drink plenty water.

Uric acid in meat excites the kidneys, they become overworked; get sluggish, ache, and feel like lumps of lead. The urine becomes cloudy; the bladder is irritated, and you may be obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night. When the kidneys clog you must help them flush off the body's urinous waste or you'll be a real sick person shortly. At first you feel a dull misery in the kidney region, you suffer from backache, sick headache, dizziness, stomach gets sour, tongue coated and you feel rheumatic twinges when the weather is bad. Eat less meat, drink lots of water; also get from any pharmacist four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity, also to neutralize the acids in urine, so it no longer is a source of irritation, thus ending bladder weakness. Jad Salts is inexpensive, cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to keep the kidneys clean and active. Druggists here say they sell lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in overcoming kidney trouble while it is only troubling.
