W. W. Morehead, formerly a merchant in Carrollton and a son-in-law of Judge J. E. Drake, died last Friday at Colorado Springs, Colorado, where he had gone for his health.—Carroll Record.

Gov. Morehouse has announced himself a candidate for governor. The governor is not a very strong man before the people, and we do not believe he will create a following large enough to give him the nomination.—Holden Enterprise.

An exchange says another scheme has just been evolved by asharper doing business with the farmers. They now make their notes read "not transferable." In a short time, however, it is found in the hands of another party with an "e" added to the "not" which makes it read "note transferable."

The workings of the high-license system as opposed to prohibition on paper are seen in Nebraska. The Chicago Journal, (Rep.), says: Omaha, with a population of 100,000 people, has 200 saloons, paying a license of $1,000 each. There is not a low license east or west of half that population but has twice that number of saloons.

We have for many years studied the art of advertising, and still it remains to us a marvel that there is not one hundred times more of it. We never knew a man yet to advertise his wares liberally and steadily that it did not pay. Yet there are thousands of manufacturers and tens of thousands of men having articles that they declare ought to be in every household in the country, who advertise as gingerly and closely as though they had at heart no faith in it at all. How can they expect to get their goods everywhere unless some knowledge of the articles get into the family first through the family paper? If we waited till people learned from their neighbors, we might wait for years before the most wonderful and useful inventions became known.—Forney's Press.

A heifer has no rings on her horns until she is two years of age, and one is added each year thereafter. You can therefore tell the age of a cow with tolerable accuracy by counting the rings on her horns and adding two to the number. The bull has no rings, as a rule, until he is five years old, so to tell his age, after that period, add five to the number of rings. The better way to tell the age is by the teeth. What are called the milk teeth gradually disappear in front. At the end of three years, the second pair of permanent teeth are well grown, at four years the third pair, and at five the fourth and last pair have appeared, and at this time the central pair are of full size. At seven years, a dark line caused by the wearing of the teeth, appears on all of them and on the central pair a circular mark. At eight years this circular mark appears on all of them, and at nine years, the central pair begin to shrink. At ten the second pair begin to shrink and the third at eleven. After this period, the age can only be determined by the degree of shrinkage generally. At fifteen the teeth are nearly all gone.—Orange County Farmer.

Kansas City, Feb. 7. A special says that T. L. Buford, a wealthy farmer of Pettis county, Mo., died recently disinheriting two of his sons and bequeathing his money to two other sons. The will was contested and yesterday, when the will was produced in the circuit court, it was found that the lower part of the document had been torn off. The legatees claimed that mice had nibbled off the signature, etc., but the judge decided that the will was void and an equal division of the estate will be made.

The heart has ears.

Honor is better than wealth.
God waits long, but hits hard.
Pray to God, but row to the shore.
Modesty is a maiden's necklace.

Calumny is like a coal: if it does not burn it will soil.
It is not so much the dew of heaven as the sweat of man's brow which renders the soil fruitful.

She Found Out.

A patrolman who was going up Slocomb street the other night was joined by a resident of that street who was on his way home. When the two reached the house it was nearly midnight, and the citizen jokingly said:

"I guess I can get in without the old lady hearing me. Some wives are mighty particular, you know."

He passed around to the side door with a key in his hand, but in about a minute the officer heard a terrible yell, followed by shouts for help. A chamber window was thrown up and a head thrust out, and the officer asked what was the matter.

"Oh, nothing much," answered a woman's voice, "I wanted to know just what time he got home to-night, and so I set a steel trap on the door step. I think it caught him. You can go on about your business and I'll go down and let him in."

The officer obeyed the suggestion and was heard to say, as he promenaded his beat:

The "Destroyer" Deprived of his Prey

In the long records of human misery, disease and death, Consumption has, for ages occupied a prominent and dreadful distinction as the "fell destroyer," and to this omnius prominence this tenacious and deadly disease is well entitled. Close upon its heels, in the characteristics of deadliness and pain and the extent to which it prevails, comes Cancer—the fruitful source of unspeakable distress, the dreadful and ever-present assailant of health, hope and happiness. The following cases, given in the voluntary testimony of the writers, show how closely to the brink of death these diseases brought two sufferers in the same family, and how, under providence and by the use of a simple, well-known and wonderfully efficacious remedy, they were rescued from the deadly peril and restored to health and vigor. We commend this experience to the reader, and particularly to those who themselves suffer from similar diseases, or who have friends or relatives in whose restoration to health they are interested.

HARRISON, Washington Co., Ga., July 6, 1887.

The Swift specific Co., Atlanta, Ga.:

Gentlemen—In February, 1882, I commenced having hemorrhages of the lungs. They alarmed me very much, because Consumption had carried off both my parents, three brothers and three sisters. I felt very badly and I had a very severe cough, and bled much from the lungs. Last June, a year ago, I took a course of two dozen bottles of S. S. S. The medicine at once had a beneficial effect. When I ceased taking it I was in splendid health, and I have not been sick since then. I regard S. S. S. as a wonderful blood purifier and builder-up of the system. It certainly cured me, and I do not now fear any further trouble from Consumption.

Yours, etc., A. W. GUIN.

HARRISON, Washington Co., Ga., July 6, 1887.

The Swift Specific Co., Atlanta Ga.:

Gentlemen—Over nine years ago a Cancer developed on my nose. Its course ran steadily until the septum was entirely destroyed, and the disease had nearly eaten through the upper lip. The Cancer had a surface on my nose and lip of about four inches. I had two doctors attending me all the time, but they were unable to arrest the progress of the malady. My lungs were affected. I had a terrible cough and a number of hemorrhages. I inherited Consumption, that evil having carried off nearly all my father's people. My father had hemorrhages and affected lungs, and he was cured by S. S. S. His cure suggested that maybe S. S. S. would do me some good. About a year ago I began taking the Swift Specific, and I have taken now only about thirty bottles. The effect of the medicine was to stop the sloughing of the Cancer and to very much improve the condition of my lungs. The Cancer has gradually yielded to the S. S. S. until now the lip is entirely healed, the nostrils are filling up and the cartilage is being renewed rapidly. Persons who saw me a year ago are surprised to see how greatly I have improved, and how great that improvement is. I am delighted at the result. My general health is good, and I feel like a different woman to what I was one year ago.

Vitrified Brick.

Vitrified bricks are rapidly coming into prominence for street paving. They are burned at a temperature of 4,000 degrees, and are, therefore, as hard as granite and as elastic as glass.

It requires a peculiar kind of clay to produce good vitrified bricks, and we are of the opinion that our domestic product is adapted to their manufacture. As this article is now coming into popular favor, it would be well for some of our enterprising business men and brick makers to give the matter careful consideration. If they can be made readily and cheaply here, we are satisfied that they will come into prominent and permanent requisition both in Moberly and out of it. Let our brick men look into the matter and see if anything can be done in that line.—Moberly Monitor.

A bill to prevent railroad trains from running on Sunday is now pending in the Iowa legislature. That body often acts on the theory that it was elected to take care of the moral interests of the people, but this measure will hardly pass. Iowa is a great state, and the prospected enactment would seriously interfere with the weekly vocations of many members of the legislature who are willing to ride on Sunday as long as it does not cost anything.—Republican.

Their Business Booming

Probably no one thing has caused such a general revival of trade at Taylor & Ewing's Drug Store as their giving away to their customers of so many free trial bottles of Dr. King's New Discovery for consumption. Their trade is simply enormous in this very valuable article from the fact that it always cures and never disappoints. Coughs, Colds, Asthma, Bronchitis, Croup, and all throat and lung diseases quickly cured. You can test it before buying by getting a trial bottle free, large size $1. Every bottle warranted. Feb.

It is exceedingly unfortunate that the first druggist in Clinton county to be charged with a violation of the Local Option law is one is one who has always ranked as a temperance man, and that the prosecuting witness is a minister of the gospel and an outspoken temperance lecturer and writer. No matter what extenuating circumstances may be brought forward, the fact remains that this occurence puts into the hands of the enemies of the church and and temperance cause, a club with which they can strike hard blows, that no man can dodge.—Lathrop Monitor.

It is announced that the German chemists have succeeded in making a first-rate brandy out of sawdust. What chance will the prohibition movement now have, when a man can get a ripsaw and go out and get drunk with a fence rail? What is the use of a prohibitory liquor law if a man can make brandy smashes out of the shingles of his roof, or if he can get delirium tremens by drinking the legs of his kitchen chairs? You may shut an inebriate out of a gin shop and keep him away from a tavern, but if he can become uproarous on boiled sawdust and desiccated window sills, any attempt at reform must necessarily be a failure.

James G. Hoss, a widely known and popular citizen of Bedford, Livingston county, committed suicide Monday afternoon. He had gone from his home at his wife's request, to get some kindling wood for the cook stove. With the hatchet used for splitting the kindling still in his hand, he went to an open well, struck himself in the temple with the instrument and fell head foremost into the well. There was but little water in the cistern, but sufficient to complete what the hatchet had begun. He was found some little time afterwards by his niece, whose cries summoned assistance and he was taken out dead. Financial reverses are supposed to have unbalanced his mind.

The Verdict Unanimous.

W. D. Suit, Druggist, Bippus, Ind., testifies. "I can recommend Electric Bitters as the very best remedy. Every bottle sold has given relief in every case. One man took six bottles, and was cured of Rheumatism of 10 years' standing." Abraham Hare, druggist, Bellville, Ohio, adirms: "The best selling medicine I have ever handled in my 20 years experience, is Electric Bitters." Thousands of others have added their testimony, so that the verdict is unanimous that Electric Bitters do cure all diseases of the Liver, Kidneys or Blood. Only half dollar a bottle at Taylor & Ewing's Drug Store.

All the Old Man was Worth.

In a recent after-dinner speech Chauncey M. Depew told of an old fellow named Jimmy, at Peekskill, an employe of the railroad company, who got drunk and was killed by a train. "His widow came to me for some money. 'Jimmy,' she said, 'had been the sole support of the family.' I pointed out that his death was caused by his own bad habits and recklessness. But I added that as Jimmy had been with the road a good while I would let her have $1,000. They money was counted out to her. 'And is that all mine?' she asked incredulously. I answered that it was. 'And can you not take it back from me?' I said I did not care to. 'Did you know Jimmy?' 'I did?' was my reply. 'Don't you think the old man brought a pretty high price?' she rejoined."—Chicago Herald.

If the water that falls upon the soil must pass away either by running over the surface, or by evaporation and percolation, there is a great loss to the soil's fertility by "surface washing," or to use a milder term, "surface drainage," by which it carries away into the streams the finest and richest particles and the fertilizers of the soil. If the water is removed by evaporation, then the soil is cold as long as the excess of water, and unfavorable for plant growth. It is far better to put in tile drains and pass out the surplus water through them and save the waste and preserves the needed heat.

Mrs. Mariah Sedwick, of Lexington, widow of Geo. W. Dehorning.

The main object of our visit to Orange County was to examine the work done by the Westtown Farm and Garden Club at dehorning cattle. This club is composed of some of the most progressive farmers in the county. They are all milk farmers, depending upon the milch cow for a living. It may therefore be very slow to recommend any operation that would prove injurious to milch cows. At the club meeting a good-sized table was covered with horns of various sizes and shapes. The following report was unanimously adopted after considerable discussion:

"The numerous serious and fatal accidents that are continually occurring throughout the country, and in our midst, by being tossed on horns and gored by angry bulls have become a matter of serious import and alarm. Bulls that were supposed to be trusty and gentle, so that no precautions were taken, have suddenly, and without a moment's warning, turned upon their masters or some member of the family and very seriously malmed them or sent them to untimely graves. The Club having learned that dehorning is quite extensively practiced in the west, and that it is a humane way of depriving an animal of his formidable weapons, sent to Professor H. H. Haaff the originator of dehorning, for the necessary tools and instructions. Mr. Walter Manning invited the Club to dehorn a vicious cow. The horns were quickly removed, and she betrayed no pain whatever after the operation. The blood she shed did not exceed one-half gill. She was at once put in a box stall, and all present were amazed to see her feed as though nothing had happened. This cow was in milk and doing well. J. B. Halsey shortly afterward had a vicious cow dehorned with the same result. She is now the gentlest cow in the dairy. The Club then met at M. H. C. Gardner's and witnessed the dehorning of a valuable Holstein bull, and as ugly cow, which was especially so when children were near her. They bled nothing to speak of, ate feed immediately, and showed no pain whatever afterward. Those present were jubilant at this success. Gideon C. Lain then had his fine Holstein bull dehorned and the bull ate feed at once. The same day E. V. B. Gardner had his Belted bull dehorned, with the same result as the others. Messrs. Lain and Gardner report, after a lapse of two weeks, that their bulls are doing splendidly, and they would not have their horns back for any reasonable amount of money, and such also is the report of all the owners of the dehorned cattle. And now your committee in view of the above investigations, will cheerfully assert that dehorning is safe and humane: that horns must go particularly those on bulls and vicious cows.—Ex.

Some experienced educators think that a great many teachers in the public schools make a mistake in not urging the scholars to talk more—the laconic reply of "yes" or "no" on the part of the scholar not being conducive to the process of thinking. Questions should be put in such a manner by the teacher that the pupil will be bound to use one or more sentences, thus exercising the mind more and acquiring a better knowledge of the construction of the English language.

The Curculio.

Paper by M. L. Bonham, Clinton, Mo., read before the 20th annual meeting of the Missouri Horticultural Society, at Boonville, Mo.

It is an old practice and saying that tying cotton or wool around the tree that the curculio infests, will keep them off; but the above is an exploded idea, as the curculio would hardly take the trouble to climb a tree when it has perfect wings and can fly with ease; then again, some say that pigs or chickens penned under the tree, are sure preventatives; they doubtless have an influence so far as destroying the fruit containing the larvea of the insect go, but it is doubtful with me whether the curculio knows the difference in a tree with pigs or chickens under it, or one without them, although it is an established fact that all the lower order of insects have a marked instinct in the increase and preservation of their species. One instance I will mention to show how sure their instinct guides them. I have often taken a "tree moth" that was ready to deposit its eggs (they will only deposit them in a crevice), cut off its head, held it tightly by the body on smooth surface; it would extend its abdomen in every direction for a suitable place to deposit its eggs. Then taking the point of a knife and a slit, and as soon as it touches it, it would deposit its eggs in perfect order in it with its head off.

By what means does the curculio know the plum or fruit under from other from other fruits? by sight or scent? Or is it by some other means? I contend that it is by scent, and if so we have the key to success, that is, change the natural scent of the tree by burning some offensive material under the tree. Or, what is better and more permanent, by spraying every few days while the fruit is young, with some strong and offensive odor, especially after a rain. I have used a weak solution of coal oil, carbolic acid, turpentine and whale oil soap.

I think any of the above will answer the purpose. I have tried for three years, as I believed it to be the true principle, and have been rewarded with heavy crops of Lombard, English pound seedlings and Damson plums.

Protecting trees from borers and rabbits:

The best and most economical plan for protecting fruit trees, especially the apple from the ravages of the borer and rabbit, also from the heat is a subject that must interest all that plant an orchard. The plan I propose is not a theory only, but it has been thoroughly tested bare by myself and others with perfect success, the protectors is simple, economical and easily obtained and consists of nothing more than common 'screen wire,' such as you use in your doors and windows to keep out flies and other insects. Get wire of the width you want (20 to 30 inches), cut off of the end a strip from 6 to 12 inches for young trees, roll tightly on an old broom handle and you are ready to place around your trees. Unroll, place around the tree, fold back and settle a little in the earth, then draw the top moderately close to the tree, tie it at top only with a small wire or string and your work is done for years, as the wire will usually last until the tree out grows it. There is no patent on this and I don't think it can be beaten.

They tell in Dover, Mo., that two strong temperance women one day came upon a man lying drunk by the roadside, while his wife sat by his side knitting. She had been walking home with him when he collapsed. One of the ladies asked the faithful wife: "What would become of him if he should die in this condition?" "I declare," said the knitter, "I don't know what his destiny would be in the future, but he seems to have a good time now."

A Boston Paper-Hanger's Trouble and How He Got Out of It—Plain Words From The Sunny South.

"When we are in trouble we cry for help. When we are relieved we often forget to be thankful. But not always. Mr. W. W. Gribbin, of Trout Creek, St. Clair Co., Ark., writes: "I had a bad attack of chills and fever. My system was full of malaria. For two years I was scarcely able to work at all. Some times my heart would palpitate for two hours at a time. My legs would get cold to the knees, and I fully expected to die. In September, 1885, I bought a bottle of Dr. Miles' Antidote for Nervous Diseases, of Seigel's Curative Syrup, of your agent, Mr. H. M. King, and before I had taken the first bottle I felt certain that in a short time was able to go to work. May God bless you for the good you have done."

Mr. Wm. J. McCann, 39 Randall st., Boston, writes: "Six months ago I began to throw up my food after eating. I thought I was going to die of consumption. I soon began to have pains in the chest, stomach and sides. I got little sleep and woke all tired out. I soon lost five pounds in four days. I began using Dr. Miles' Extract of Roots, or Seigel's Syrup. When I had finished the sixth bottle I could eat three square meals a day, and go to sleep the minute I struck the bed. I am a paper hanger by trade, and have worked day since I took the second bottle, and gained eighteen pounds. I ought to be thankful and I am."

This remedy opens all the natural passages of the body, allays the pains from the blood and enables nature to rebuild what disease has destroyed.

Miles' Extract of Roots, or Seigel's Syrup, is sold by all druggists, or send to the proprietor, A. J. White, 38 Warren street, New York.
