

DANCY SAYS 16-FOOT PORT THE MINIMUM

Channel Construction Less Than 16 Feet Waste of Public Money, Is Claim

To construct anything less than a 16-foot channel would be a waste of public money, was the statement of County Judge O. C. Dancy, who in recent weeks has been corresponding with port managers throughout the United States, and especially those of the Gulf coast.

As a result of his queries Judge Dancy has received voluminous correspondence, and without exception the managers of ports state that construction of anything less than a 16-foot channel except for canal barges should not be entertained by the people of the Lower Rio Grande Valley. They assert that an effort should be made to secure a 20- or 30-foot channel, but that it will be possible to work this out after a 16-foot channel is in operation.

"Summing up this correspondence, I am convinced that we are not going to secure maximum benefits from a 16-foot channel," Judge Dancy said. "But I find that practically all harbors in the United States have been dredged at that depth, and the government would not spend its money for such harbors unless they were practicable. Furthermore, I believe that when the government starts in on such harbor, if local interests show the proper appreciation and co-operation, Uncle Sam will not turn back, but will go ahead and aid in deepening such harbor."

"At Houston they started in with a shallow depth—13 feet, I believe, and the government has gone on increasing the depth to 20 feet. They are now contemplating 35 feet. Relative to the formation of navigation districts upon which the commissioners court has taken action the past week, the county judge said: "In the matter of navigation districts the commissioners court have a duty that cannot be shirked. No district of this kind can be created without the permission and judgment of the commissioners court; therefore there is an indirect duty on the county judge as a chairman, which cannot be evaded and will not be evaded by me."

"There is one thing on these navigation district matters that is unlike roads. In building roads we can date our bonds ahead, putting the tax ahead so that the taxpayers can get the road to travel over when he goes to pay his taxes. Such does not exist in the matter of navigation districts. We will doubtless have several years' time just what they are doing as nearly as it is possible to advise. Frankly I do not know and cannot know what our county judge will do in deepening a harbor. Therefore, it is impossible for me to tell the tax payer what it is going to cost to get the real, 30-foot harbor. I will put this county in development."

2 Valley Farms Named Models In Electricity Use

SAN BENITO, Nov. 22.—Two of the 21 model electrified farm homes in Texas are located in the Lower Rio Grande Valley, according to announcement of the selection of the Texas committee on the relation of electricity to agriculture which was received here today by the Central Power and Light Co.

The home of J. H. Coleman, located near San Benito, in Cameron county, and the home of John Weisband, near McAllen, in Hidalgo county, are the ones named from the Rio Grande Valley. J. H. Wagoner, superintendent of the committee, stated that a total of 505 electrified Texas farms, located in different sections of the state were visited by this survey, which resulted in the selection of twenty-one model electrified homes. The selection represented the following types: Dairy, poultry, general, cotton, truck, and ranch, the farms selected being among the leaders in their respective communities. The Coleman farm comes under the general classification because it demonstrates the many advantages supplied to rural residents through electricity, making for better living conditions on the farm. The Weisband farm was placed under the truck classification since it demonstrates the advantage of the growing of truck crops using electrically operated overhead irrigation with the resulting opportunity for more diversified farming.

SCREEN STAR SAID DRUNK

Woman States Alma Rubens Had Negro Maid Whip Her

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 22.—(AP)—A charge that Alma Rubens, screen actress, was "extremely intoxicated" and that she thrust herself into an argument over an automobile collision which led her negro maid to administer a beating to a Beverly Hills woman motorist drew an indignant denial from the actress here last night. Miss Rubens declared she would ask her lawyer to "protect my interests in the affair."

The charge was made in an affidavit filed in the city prosecutor's office by Mrs. W. N. Schoelwer of Beverly Hills. Mrs. Schoelwer obtained issuance of a complaint charging Mrs. Rubens' maid, Edna Clayton, with battery. The affidavit also declared that Miss Rubens threatened Mrs. Schoelwer with bodily harm during the argument.

The affidavit said Miss Rubens' automobile occupied by the maid and a chauffeur, collided with Mrs. Schoelwer's car, parked at a motion picture studio in Hollywood. It was alleged that an argument ensued between Miss Rubens' employes and Mrs. Schoelwer and a friend, Mrs. W. G. Swenson, which was climaxed by the maid seizing Mrs. Schoelwer by the throat and beating her in the face with her fist.

Hunters Seeking Duck; Satisfied With Mere Buck

(Special to The Herald) McALLEN, Nov. 22.—(AP)—Evidence of their successful duck hunt Jack Humphries of this city and L. Bryan of Harlingen brought to town an 8-point buck weighing close to 200 pounds. The deer was killed by the two men while engaged in a duck hunt some 20 miles west of Mission.

"No," Humphries said, "the deer was not mistaken for a duck. Here's how it happened: We left town for a duck hunt and spent considerable time near a small lake west of Mission. After waiting hours without results, we decided to move to another lake nearby. This we did and while hiding behind a blind, imagine our surprise upon seeing a large deer approaching the lake."

"We had brought one box of buckshot on the hunt. We loaded our guns as quickly as possible. Took dead aim and both fired. Down came the deer. When we reached him we found both shots had taken effect so that eliminated any argument as to who killed the deer.

"Naturally that ended our duck hunt," Humphries said.
