BUSINESS DEVELOPMENT vs. POLITICAL PRESTIGE.

What promised to be a serious proposition has been averted by the railroad authorities not contending for their rights, and complying with the demands of Governor Glenn. The matter of federal ownership of railroads when first mooted by the Populist party and championed by W. J. Bryan and others, gave the people but little concern, but if many States follow the suit of North Carolina, the railroads will plead with the government to come to their relief by buying the property rather than by legislation confiscate it.

Federal control of railroads to some might be popular, but to us, we see in it a menace to our present conditions in the South. Let the government own and operate the railroads, and the party in power will have an army of appointees to keep it entrenched. Then will the people cry out sure enough that the railroads govern the land, and with government ownership separation of the races will be a thing of the past, all men of whatever race or condition will have the same accommodations, the same as is now the case where legislation has not separated the races in travel.

We fear very much that irrational legislation, and political demagogy will cripple our transportation facilities to the extent that the railroads will be usable to give a good service, and they will only welcome the government relieving them from disaster if the fight against the railroads, to build political prestige continues. There was no necessity for drastic measures in North Carolina, as the coupon arrangement was a fair proposition on the part of the roads to save themselves from loss pending judicial settlement of the issue. The action of North Carolina smacks of the highwayman, it is very much like a testator conscious of perpetrating an injustice in his will, makes a provision if any of the parties to the will attempt to contest, they shall be deprived of any share in the estate. Governor Glenn threatened, if the railroads failed to put the new rate in operation, and persisted in seeking their rights in the courts, he would call an extra session of the General Assembly and repeal their charters. This had the effect of making the roads throw up their hands and submit to the demands. The matter goes on to the courts, however, but should the railroads win out, the money they will have lost in the rate difference is a dead loss to them, as there is no one responsible, the State cannot be made to reimburse. The railroads have no souls to save, nor carcasses to kick; not a very inviting prospect to investors for future development.

ANARCHY PREVAILED.

The acquittal of Haywood, the labor leader at Boise, Idaho, is nothing less than we expected, not that there was lacking the evidence of guilt, but the sentiment created by a tremendous organization made it an impossibility to secure a conviction. The law is powerless where public sentiment asserts itself against it. In the State of North Carolina recently there was a demonstration of public sentiment overriding law, by the acquittal of the men tried for lynching, and turned loose in the face of positive evidence of the sheriff and his daughter identifying the parties charged. In case just concluded in Idaho the power of labor unions was manifest, all over the country union men were in sympathy with Haywood, Moyer, and Pettibone, the men accused of being connected with the assassination of Governor Steunenberg, they championed their cause, not from the evidence they read during the long trial, but before the trial began they were making all manner of demonstrations to attest their innocence. The power of this organization is so great that public officers are intimidated into fear to perform their duty. One of the attorneys for the defense in his speech openly defied constituted legal authority. He scoffed at law and vehemently sounded the doctrine of anarchy. This man's home is in Chicago where the followers of the red flag are concentrated, and it was to this element he was preaching all through his argument. In our judgment, the speech of Richardson, of Chicago, will encourage murder and arson, and that he and those believing like him are a curse to this land. We are not opposed to organized labor as such, and as long as labor organized retains respect for law and order, but when any organization enters into a conspiracy to assassinate and destroy property, then they are undeserving of sympathy. Capital frequently oppresses labor we believe, but when that is the case let the redress or remedy be sought in a civilized and legal manner, and not by hurling bombs, wielding daggers, and applying the torch, as seems to have been the methods of these Western miners.

A NEW RAILROAD.

A proposition from Hon. Walter Hazard of Georgetown has been made to build a railroad from Georgetown through Williamsburg to touch either Kingstree or Cades on the A. C. L. thence to Motts Bridge on Lynches River to Timmonsville, Hartsville, tapping the Seaboard Air Line between Cheraw and Camden, making a road of about 100 miles. The idea is a good one and we have no doubt it will, as it should, appeal to railroad promoters. The suggested road would open up a great section of farming and timber lands now lying undeveloped, and if such a road could be built it would easily be made to unbottle this section. It would take but a small amount of money to connect the Alcolu railroad with a road crossing Lynches River at Motts Bridge, as the Alcolu road is now within a few miles from that point, then bring on the Alcolu road to traverse this section on through the Panola and St. Paul section to the Santee River, the development of the county would be marvelous. We heartily agree with Mr. Hazard's suggestion. The country needs more transportation facilities and more competition. The past few years there has been much complaint about tardiness in the handling of freight all over the country, and we think J. J. Hill the great railrord magnate struck the truth when he said "The railroads of today cannot do any better, they cannot prevent congestion of freights, because the country has outgrown the roads, and what is needed, is more roads to move the traffic." The 100 miles of road from Georgetown to connect with a competing line would greatly help the country, and if the present roads are making money there is every reason to believe the suggested road would be a mint. It is to be hoped Mr. Hazard's suggestion will make capitalists sit up and take notice, but if they will not, we hope the movement will be started in Georgetown any way, for the greater development of South Carolina's greatest inland seaport.

Beginning January 1st, 1908, "Jaw-Jaw" will have State prohibition, with the right of drug stores to sell liquor on prescription. There will be a great influx of doctors and druggists into our sister State. Liquor sold only on a doctor's prescription. What a farce?

The Orangeburg Times and Democrat, usually as serene as a morning in May, came out last week with its editorial columns printed in tobasco sauce. Why, Brother Sims, we are amazed that you should let your angry passions rise, and slip your chance for mansions in the skies. Take the advice of the humble and meek; if the St. Matthews brother offend thee, turn the other cheek and let him offend the again, and should he do so, go down before him on all-fours with diverted face, to continue his offending. It is a rule that may not bring you comfort, but there is a consolation in feeling that it is thy brother not you who has sinned.

We are indebted to our distinguished European correspondent, now representing The Times in the old country—the land of our ancestors, where he is being wined, and dined, feted and banqueted upon Rhine wine, Wurtzberger beer and Schwitzer kase, for a five column minion type letter from Geneva, Switzerland, which he sent us for publication, but having failed to enclose a check, and not having contracted for space we do not know whether to run his advertisement next to reading matter, or give it run of paper, and therefore must receive it as personal information. The letter is well written and gives a lot of statistics, but there is not a word in it to indicate how much copper stock our friend has disposed of to the Emperor of Germany, the king of Austria and jolly old Edward, king of England or whether not he has succeeded in coppering anybody. It is one of the chief traits of an American to do something, and the more exalted the personage, the more glory there is in the doing and who is done, and when we read over his long letter and found nothing to indicate his usual thrift, we reached the conclusion that he has not suspended business at all, but modesty forbade him from exulting over his royal victims, at least until he had again gotten upon the high seas, beyond the jurisdiction and wrath of monarchy.

Summerton News.

Editor The Manning Times:

Love laughs at trouble. The elements on Wednesday seemed disposed to test the earnestness of Cupid's captives, but was disdiscomfitted utterly, for seldom if ever gathered a more lovely party of maidens or gallant gentlemen than assembled in the face of black clouds and thunder claps on this afternoon to be participants in the Harvin-Belser marriage.

The Baptist church had been beautifully decorated and at the appointed time the organ under the skillful hands of Miss Bessie Blackwell of Darlington, announced the arrival of the bridal party. The audience had been comfortably seated in the meantime by the ushers. Messrs. J. B. Rutledge, Ben Harvin, Summerton, and T. D. Brohum, of Asheville, N. C., and J. T. Belser, of Columbia.

The bridesmaids advancing in couples took their places at one side of the marriage altar, while the groomsmen took position facing them. Little Miss Milred Johnson bearing flowers and Master Laurens Bradham bearing the ring, came in just ahead of the bride, Miss May Harvin with Miss Lola Sublett, her maid of honor.

The groom, Mr. Archie Hugh Belser, was accompanied by his brother and best man, Mr. J. Edwin Belser, of Columbia.

The ceremony beneath a beautiful wedding bell, was performed by Rev. Mr. Tolar, of the Baptist church. The impressive ceremony over, the happy couple left the church, followed by their attendants as follows:

Miss Lola Sublett, maid of honor, with J. Edwin Belser, of Columbia, best man; Miss Gertrude Bradham, of Manning, with Mr. S. H. Wilder, of Darlington; Miss Alma Felder, of Pinewood, with Mr. Hurbert Sublett, of Summerton: Miss Ruth Etheredge, of Saluda, with Mr. Alvah Sublett, of Greenville: Miss Louise Scarborough, Summerton, with Mr. D. Sligh, of Darlington; Miss Annie Coskrey, of Summerton, with Mr. P. B. Harvin, of Silver: Miss Leonie Druelle, of Charleston, with Mr. A. Eugene Brock, of Rhems: Miss May Harvin, of Manning, with Mr. Richard Richardson, of Pinewood: Miss Kate Cantey, of Summerton, with Mr. Randolph Murdough, of Hampton; Miss Lucie Johnson, of Manning, with Mr. A. Judson Plowden, of Summerton: Miss Florde Norris, of Vances, with Mr. J. Harvey Rogers, of Society Hill.

The bride wore a dress of dainty loveliness, exceeded only by her own charming self. She is the daughter of Mr. Thos. H. Harvin, and belongs to one of the best and most widely known families of Clarendon county.

Mr. Belser is the fourth son of the late R. H. Belser, of this place, a young man of parts and presence, well-known and liked by all, and the young couple have with them the best wishes for a long and happy reunion.

After a reception at the country place of the bride's father the couple left for Manning, from which place they will begin their wedding tour, seeing various places and incidentally visiting the Jamestown exposition.

On Saturday at 10, a. m. a meeting of citizens of the community was held at Summerton in the interest of the High School movement. Mr. S. P. Holladay, County Superintendent of Education, was present and gave information as to how to proceed in the matter. It was decided to undertake to enlist the following townships in the movement: Friendship, St. Paul, Calvary, Concord, St. James, Santee, Sammy Swamp, and Fulton. The school to be located at Summerton, where adequate buildings to accommodate it are now building. If the co-operation of the above townships can be secured, the school is pretty well assured.

The meeting at the Methodist church closed last night. The paster, Rev. A. S. Jones, had no help, but large congregations were at the different services and much good was done. B.

Everybody Hasn't a Blanket, Quilt or Skirt to Spare for Ice Keeping Purposes—People Will Differ.

Editor The Manning Times

At this time when the subject of Sabbath Observance is being discussed, especially in regard to Sunday delivery, some facts from my personal experience may not be amiss.

In the seventeen years, nearly, as a housekeeper, I have never found it necessary to have ice and beef delivered on Sunday, and I do not use a refrigerator either. Perhaps it may be helpful to other housekeepers, who truly desire to "Remember the Sabbath Day to keep it holy" and yet are puzzled about this matter to know how I manage. I order Saturday night 5 or 10 pounds of ice and the quantity of meat I shall need. I first wrap the ice tightly in two layers of old newspaper or wrapping paper, and then place the meat, wrapped just as it comes from the market on the ice, and roll the whole thing in a number of papers, and then in a piece of clean old blanket, quilt or flannel skirt, place in a cool place, being careful to have the meat on top of the ice so that that the water will not injure it. I keep dressed chickens in the same way, and have never lost either, and even when I get only five pounds of ice there is plenty for ice tea for dinner.

Now as to milk—I do not think the delivery of milk comes under the same head. A cow does not accommodatingly yield a double supply Saturday night, so that those who make a business of selling milk could not supply a sufficient quanity to last customers from Saturday night till Monday morning. It is an absolute work of mercy and necessity that milking be done on Sunday. Even with a refrigerator, it is hard to keep milk sweet and pure for any length of time. Nothing absorbs impurities more rapidly, and in an open pan, in a refrigerator with other things, it is soon unfit for use. Infants, little children and sick people must have fresh milk.

"The Sabbath was made for man, not man for the Sabbath" and it seems to me that those who object to the delivery of milk on Sunday "are straining at gnats" and likely "swallow camels."

From my own experience I affirm that it is not necessary to wait till Sunday morning to get ice and beef, except in case of illness, when any market man will willingly and gladly furnish what is needful.

Very Respectfully,
JOSIE SPROTT.

A Fashion From War.

When the next man takes unto himself a watch as thin as parchment he little thinks that that thin watch results from army regulation.

Up to the time of the Allies taking Paris the ordinary watch was convex in shape and called from its outline a "turnid." The officers of the Russian and other armies objected to this because of a man on parade looking untidy, whether it was carried in the coat or the fob. Here in Paris, how ever they found that the watchmakers of the Palais Royal had contrived a chronometer which got over the difficulty.

Flat watches were the fashion in Paris. The English when they appeared in the streets of the French capital marched in, not in gala dress such as the others wore, but in the raiment which they had worn on campaign. Great was the impression which their habiliments created. But they at once adopted the smart flat watch and brought it back to England for our own manufacturers to copy.—London Standard.

Vision Of Savages.

Many people believe, because they have read in books, that the sight of the Indians was extraordinarily keen, and that they were able to descry objects at a greater distance than was possible for white men, says a writer in Popular Science Monthly. This is an error, if the assertion is to be taken without qualification. All savages have eyes trained to see those things that are necessary to their preservation—game and enemies. Their sight is not by nature more acute than that of the white man, but in some respects it was better trained. The whites who live among the Indians and were compelled to defend themselves against their enemies. It may be affirmed as a general principle that there is nothing a civilized man cannot do better than a savage. The latter uses his reason to aid his instinct: the former makes his instinct subservient to his reason. It is well known that sailors are able to discern objects at sea a greater distance than landsmen, but we have to here with a faculty that any one can acquire. The Indians did just what the whites who lived among them did who subsisted on game and were obliged to be on the constant lookout for enemies. Both had acquired not merely the power to discern objects, but also training in the interpretation of the signification of those object that came within visible range. It is probable, for reasons given above, that not only the Indians as well as all tribes living on the same social level, but also the backwoodsmen, retained their sight to a more advanced age than is now generally the case: but that the eye of the former was natnrally more powerful than that of the present generation or that of men in general is unsupported by trustworthy evidence. There is no doubt that a child born with normal eyes in one of our largest cities can see objects just as far off and define them just as accurately with proper training as a person who never saw a dozen together. It is well known, too, that what are sometimes called the lower senses—touch, taste and smell—are often of extraordinary acuteness in civilized men as the result of training. If, therefore, any of the senses of our urban population is feebler than that of the dweller in the rural district, it is not due to an inherent weakness, but to improper or injudicious use.

To a good cause she is generosity itself. Giving promptly and freely, she has no sympathy with niggards. I once heard her tell a story about a niggardly rich man of her childhood.

"This man visited a school and made an address. At the end he called a little boy up to him and said:

"'My lad, have you a purse?'

"'No, sir.'

"'I am sorry,' said the rich man. 'If you had had a purse I should have given you a dime to put in it.'

"This man was scheduled to speak again at the school the next month, and when he came the boys were prepared for him. An empty purse lay hid in every little pair of trousers.

"'And sure enough, at the end of his speech the man called another boy and said:

"'Have you a purse, son?'

"'Yes, sir,' was the eager answer.

"'I am glad of it,' said the other. 'If you hadn't I should have given you a dime to bny one with.'"
