"NUB" WRITES HIS VIEWS

Mr. Editor:
Knowing as I do that you are an advocate of law, order, and good government, I do not feel embarrassed when I ask for space in your valuable columns to express my views on some of the problems that now confront our people.

In the first place, I desire to say that I believe a very large majority of this country's citizens heartily agree with our great president, when he said a few weeks ago, that even though the armistice had been signed almost a year, we were neither at war nor at peace, but in a great crisis. When we read daily of the awful and appalling tragedies that are taking place, it certainly does appear to the writer, that if there ever was a time of unrest among our people it is today.

There have been and still are indications which point to disagreements between capital and labor, and with the power which lies with the labor unions, manufacturing industries have been tied up, from time to time, on account of strikes, which have greatly handicapped the shipping facilities of the railroad world, as well as keeping off the market thousands of articles needed for various causes all over the land and country. Not that the writer is opposed to labor unions, or in too great sympathy with the capitalists, but with each of these forces as well organized as they should be it does seem plausible that an agreement could be reached before a strike takes place and the great industrial enterprises are all closed down. I long to see the day come when capital and labor shall go hand and peace, harmony and good will shall prevail between these two.

Then there is another situation almost too appalling to mention. This is the great number of race riots taking place. During the period of the great war, which has not been so long closed, when many, many gallant soldiers were killed and sometimes, no doubt, innocent women and children were shot down, we thought this perfectly awful, and it was, and not willing to trust our arms all together, millions and millions of our American people, as well as the people of all the allied nations went on their knees before Almighty God, pleading for a speedy end of that great conflict. 'Tis needless to say what the result was. Now how can we, as a Christian people, believe that such conditions will longer exist? Preacher, teacher, Christian men and Christian women, white and colored let us remember what the Good Book says, "Blessed are the meek for they shall inherit the earth." Let us be meek in dealing with this problem and slow to anger, or we fear we shall have to forfeit the great name we have so long cherished, "Christian America."

Then there seems to be considerable unrest in the political world, and sometimes I have been almost persuaded to believe, that some of the representatives in Congress have failed to pass on some very important matters until they could feel out the situation and know what it would mean to them politically, in the future, while I hope that I am mistaken in my views along this line and that there is no representative in our Congress who has not the interest of our people and our country at heart.

Also, we hear it rumored that the colored people will make an effort in the next election to get the ballot. This may be true, but when we look back at conditions that existed just after the close of the civil war, when the colored man had a voice in the government, and then look around and see what marvelous progress has been made to the colored vote has been eliminated, can we believe that honest, broad-minded, deep thinking, intelligent, colored men are seeking the ballot?

With all the prosperity we have enjoyed, the colored people have surely had their portion, so let us be content with our present surroundings and let all people of both races, co-

It Helps!

There can be no doubt as to the merit of Cardui, the woman's tonic, in the treatment of many troubles peculiar to women. The thousands of women who have been helped by Cardui in the past 40 years, is conclusive proof that it is a good medicine for women who suffer. It should help you, too.
