

CAMERON SLATED FOR PRESIDENT

STATE SUPERINTENDENT TO HEAD TEACHERS' ASSOCIATION

BOOM ONCE LAUNCHED BECOMES TIDAL WAVE

Educators From All Parts of State Hear Interesting Program at Shawnee

Special to Daily Leader.

Shawnee, Okla., Dec. 30.—In the election of the State Teachers' association which takes place today it seems a foregone conclusion that Superintendent Cameron will be elected president of the association for next year. He is not a candidate for the place but stated that if his friends should thrust the honor upon him he will accept it. Perhaps no man of his century has accomplished nearly so much in so short a time as has Oklahoma's first state superintendent, and from the time teachers began arriving there has been a quiet undercurrent of sentiment amounting in his behalf. Prof. L. J. Abbott, of the Central normal, was a candidate, but he generously withdrew when the Cameron boom was launched. Abbott's work in behalf of the preservation of the school lands entitled him to recognition, his friends think, and he doubtless will be made chairman of the executive committee.

Today's session of the association began at 8:30 at the Becker theatre, the program opening with a piano and violin concert by J. Gerald Meaz and Charles F. Ward of Edworth university. The equalization of taxation for public schools, remedies for a congested course of study, and making the schools social centers were discussed. Prof. Charles Lane, of Atlanta, spoke on "Lessons Not Learned in B. O. K." at 10:30.

This afternoon Superintendent O. J. Kern, of Rockford, Illinois, will give an illustrated lecture on "The New Agriculture and the Country School," followed by a lecture on "The Teacher and Life," by Bishop William A. Quayle, of Oklahoma City. Bishop Quayle also lectures in the evening on "Prometheus Bound."

Today's afternoon session brought some of the state's leading college presidents into contact through discussion of 15 minutes each on "Worth and Value in Higher Education." Dr. A. Grant Evans of the state university; Dr. E. V. Zollars, of the Christian university at Enid; Dr. L. B. Beeler, of the Harry Kendall college at Tulsa; and Dr. J. H. Connell, of the agricultural and mechanical college at Stillwater appeared on the program. The discussion was followed with a lecture by Professor Charles Lane, of Atlanta, Georgia.

State Superintendent Cameron's address was devoted chiefly to the educational progress of the year and of his plans for the coming year. Twenty-two thousand school districts have been organized, he said, and 149,000 children who never attended school before have been given instruction. Oklahoma has done more in one year for education than any other state did from its beginning in 20 years.

The address of President Evans last night reviewed the work of the association for the past year and it graphically set the printing of the state out of a condition of chaos into the front rank of states in the educational way. He recommended some of the vicissitudes of the self-sacrificing teachers, dwelt at some length on the taming of some of the state's educational laws and predicted a second great year of growth.

INDIAN WOMAN SUES BANKER

Muskogee, Okla., Dec. 30.—Alleging that he has many times broken his promise to marry her, Mrs. William Marsh, a handsome Cherokee Indian woman who lives near Bragee, filed suit in the district court here for $45,000 against Frank A. Castellan, president of the Bank of Bragee and a wealthy land owner.

The suit will be a sensational one, Mrs. Marsh alleges that shortly after separating from Marsh she met Castellan who urged her to secure a divorce and marry him. She asserts that she has on numerous occasions prepared to marry him but that each time on some pretext or other he has postponed the ceremony.

The petition, filed by Peyton and Mason, the woman's attorneys, asks for $20,000 for breach of promise, $10,000 damages for seduction, $10,000 damages for ill treatment, and an extra $5,000 for good measure.

TEST LAND CASES BEING PREPARED

Special to Daily Leader.

Washington, Dec. 30.—Secretary Garfield said today he had directed that all possible speed be made by the assistant attorney general for the interior department and the others working under him in the preparation of the test cases to be brought to the United States Supreme court from Oklahoma involving title to Indian lands.

The secretary referred to the suits recently brought in Oklahoma by the district agents involving about 29,000 litigants. Senator Robert L. Owen is interested in a number of the suits, and a few days ago was quoted in an interview as wishing a speedy adjudication by the Supreme court of a test case.

"While I agreed with Senator Owen that the situation should be cleared up as speedily as possible, I could not agree with him in a talk we had a few days ago that there was but one question of jurisdiction involved. There are several other questions which we think must be decided along with that of the right of congress to place restrictions upon the alienation of the Indians' lands, and there will be a group, if not several groups of cases taken up for the test."

"The district agents in Oklahoma are now working in co-operation with our legal branch, and the department of Justice, under direction of Mr. Woodruff, of this department and Mr. Richards of the Department of Justice, selecting the character of cases and grouping them in preparation for the trials. I do not know whether it will be possible to get them before the court at this present term or not, but we are pushing the work as much as possible."

Dehorning Cattle.

Cattle may be dehorned in one of several ways. Through the use of caustic potash applied to the button before it becomes attached to the head the horns on calves may be effectually prevented from developing. The caustic potash should be held in some form so as to prevent its coming in contact with the horns, as it will burn them very severely. It should be well rubbed over the button until it is thoroughly reddened and the hair removed. Care should be taken not to get the potash run or drop on the head of the calf. One application is as a rule sufficient if the work is well done when the calves are but a few days old.

For mature animals the best instrument to use to remove the horns is the Kuyatone dehorner. This instrument will remove horns of medium size at a single stroke of the knives. It is not necessary to have a dehorning chisel, as a rule, where a clipper is used, as it is frequently best to remove the horns while the animal stands in the stalls. Where the horns are larger and more difficult to cut, the head of the animal may be tied securely to the fence, and the rope passed from the head along the side of the body and securely attached or held by a man to keep the animal from twisting and turning about. Where the horns are very large a knife will sometimes prove not satisfactory, and in that case a saw must be used. Where it is necessary to use a saw the animals must be tied very securely and a chute just large enough to receive the animals, and so arranged that the head can be secured and the animal kept practically rigid becomes necessary.

Dehorning, as a rule, should be done in cool weather, and the horns should be cut just so as to graze the skin where it is attached to the horn. Dehorning, when properly done, is not a serious or difficult undertaking. While to some it seems a brutal practice, the relief and protection afforded the animals fully justifies it.—Farmers' News Scientist.

Living Light.

A Frenchman, Raphael Dubois, reports to the Academy of Sciences the result of experiments with phosphorescent animalcules in producing an illumination useful to man. By cultivating in suitable manner a large number of micro-organisms capable of emitting light M. Dubois succeeded in illuminating a room with a degree of intensity about equal to that of moonlight. No radiation of heat appears to attend the production of this physiological light.

Before the assembled hosts of germs microbes and parasites a man stands fighting as one who beats the empty air. His blows are delivered manfully but they fall supinely. He has conquered the barbarian in his home, but he cannot conquer the bacilli in his retreat.

In the presence of the little things man stands as great a failure as before the great things he stands a victor.

SHAWNEE'S COURT HOUSE OFFER BARBERS UNION ELECTS OFFICERS

The attorney general's office is in receipt of a letter from the county attorney of Pottawatomie county, asking if in his judgment the passage of the resolution by the Shawnee city council offering the county the use of the city hall for ten years for ten dollars a year was prima facie evidence that the mayor and council of said city of Shawnee aspiring for the county seat of "Pot" county were guilty of violating the section of the constitution relating to bribery in county seat elections, and if the facts were sufficient to maintain a criminal action against the said officers in the courts.
