

Fun in the Court Room.
(Wilkesbarre (Pa.) Paper.)

The dull monotony of our court was enlivened, one daylast week, in the case of the commonwealth against Dobson, in which the defendant was accused of assault upon a young lady named Hetler by kissing her against her will. The plaintiff complained that Dobson, "by force of arms, malice aforethought, and instigated by the devil, did then and there violently assault, waylay," &c. She told her story in a plain, straightforward kind of way, to the effect that she was enjoying breezes while leaning over her father's fence, and that William Dobson came along, seized her by the hands, and, forcibly pulling her over the pallade, committed the assault for which she claimed redress at the hands of the law. A sister of the complainant testified that she did not see the alleged impropriety, because of the darkness and she being in another part of the yard, but she heard a kiss, or something that sounded like a kiss, and knew that something was going on.

Dobson claimed the privilege of being his own witness, and he told the part of the story omitted by Miss Hetler and her sister. He is a jolly specimen of an Englishman. His narrative of the occurrence in which he had become involved runs as follows:

Dobson—Yer see, yer 'onors, I was walking along singing: "What will the 'arvest be?"

General McCartney (counsel for the plaintiff, disposed to have some fun while confusing the witness)—You were singing, "What will the 'arvest be?" (closely imitating the intonation of the witness).

Dobson (very composedly)—Yes, sir, "What will the 'arvest be?"

General McCartney—"What will the 'arvest be?"

Dobson (unruffled)—"What will the 'arvest be?"

General McCartney—Well, go on, sir.

Dobson—Yer see, yer 'onors, I was going along, singing "What will the 'arvest be?" when I heard Mary singing, "What will the 'arvest be?"

General McCartney—She was singing, "What will the 'arvest be?"

By this time there were decided evidences of merriment all over the court room; but Dobson remained as imperturbable as though officiating at a funeral.

Dobson—Yes, sir. She was singing, "What will the 'arvest be?" but not so loud as I was, and I called out, "Hallo, Mary, are that you?" and she let be. I went up to the fence, and she said she was half alone, has her father 'ad gone to "class."

General McCartney—Gone to class! What did she mean by that?

Dobson—Why, any fool knows what "class" means. Her father had gone to class meeting, and left 'er half alone. We chatted a little, and then—

General McCarty—Well, you have heard her testimony. You seized her, pulled her over the fence and kissed her?

Dobson—No. That testimony is false. We talked awhile, and she sort of leaned over the fence—like as if she wanted me to—and just then Satan got the best of me, and I kissed 'er right hon the mouth. I found out "What will the 'arvest be?" and I thing she was a heavy prey."

Here the gravity of the court counselors and spectators gave way, and seldom in a court of justice has there been such a scene of uncontrollable hilarity. Judge Harding fairly roared himself hoarse with laughter, and all business was suspended for several minutes to allow those in the court-room to recover their equanimity. Dobson was acquitted of the charge of assault, but must pay half the costs of the suit as his share of the "arrest."

You boys ought to be very kind to your sisters. I once knew a little boy who struck his sister a blow over the eye. Although she didn't slowly pine away and die in the early summer time, when the June roses were blowing, with words of sweet forgiveness on her lips, she rose up and bit him over the head with the rolling pin, so that he couldn't go to Sunday school for more than a month on account of not being able to put his best hat on.

Buffalo Nursery

IS THE PLACE.

Contains Thirty Acres of CHOICE TREES & PLANTS

adapted to our soil and climate. Send for new abridged descriptive catalogue and price list, or better still, call and see for yourself, and don't be gulled any longer by agents from foreign nurseries. Into buying stock of them at extravagant prices, but buy the same and better stock of me for less, and by so doing you will enable me to keep a nursery in your own community, suited to your wants. My varieties are the very best and well grown and in good soil. Don't fail to plant.

Don't forget that our eastern neighbors are feeding apples to stock with good results, whilst we have only a scanty supply for family use. Also the eastern farmers have their barrels of cider and an abundance of the best apple vinegar and here a cher is a rarity with the majority of families. And yet we most all cultivate more land than is profitable and have often an abundance of waste and worn out lands that could be made profitable if set in trees, besides improving the condition of the land.
