d loot

Is als

s ever

true

going by the there

mpos

nothir

int I d

or any

ot grü rtiele

ny opi

expre r to they imply

e done

not to be nks t

g sin.

ny one

Texa

TRICT

swell 1

ge Ha

na proof the

arged is, hi iled.

y for es Ba

e state

intex

ceptio) tinuar

ed. Y

he cas

journu

nly for and dered

ens b e obta

ise W

s, and term.

ybone

ly of their

Marria

y after

y Rev

riends

partal

t. Ce

ing ge

aparti pact. by the the rij

e cake

Fxe

y Ald

ker, l prob alvest

rr and buildi

lalves ss, Be s. Tl

tothe

to annet y nigh

ed on ortion

ugh t

event

inted

gal

ciatio

e city pany erday i't giv

Main drug

the city. Leave orders a yard. H. W. HOLDEN, ence

ron

ble e chris i, that if har How the Death of E. J. Davis is Contemplated at the Capital.

The Ex-Governor's Extraordinary Career-His Idiosyncrasies and Superiority in Texas.

The Negroes Left Without a Leader-Who Will Take His Place.

Special Correspondence of the Gazette,

Washington, February 10. - The question arises, and may occupy the attention of a cabinet meeting, who, now that ex-Governor Davis is no more, shall dispose of public plunder in your state? Will the position of the late grand almoner in Texas, for our elective monarchy, be transferred to Tem Ochiltree, or given over to the no less redoubtable Colonel Bob Taylor of Fannin county? Colonel Bob is already in the capital. Ex-United States Marshal Russell, if General Dudley, Jno. C. New and Indiana and Ohio republicans controlled the dedon, would have the place vacated by Davis and wear Davis' mantle, but Brewster Cameron, with devilish malignity and cunning, is master of the attorney-general, and continuing to fire blank indictments at Russell, envelops him in a cloud through which the sunshine of patronage and power-cannot send its benignant rays into Texas. Brewster Cameron it is who directs the star route prosecutions. He loves Jewell and hates Dorsey as he does Russell, and Brewster Cameron drew inspiration from Davis, and the demise of Davis invests Texas Republican politics with infinite gloom and many au-certainties. A noted barnacle who has held offices by federal appointment for twenty years in Texas and now occupies the best in the state, has been here for some days mending his fences. He was from the mending his fences. He was non-northwest and makes all his invest-northwest and makes all his invest-house of commons, to which he was covered with black cloth, lay in the ments there. If Davis' death results house of commons, to which he was covered with black cloth, lay in the ments there. The balance of the re-elected from North Hampton in center of the room. The face of the Dalance of the late o ten thousand dollars, annually abstracted from the commerce of the state, will be invested in Texas instead of Wisconsin or Iowa, and wise legislatures of those states will protest. latures of those states will protest against his removal. All that the south has lost by carpetbaggers has enured to the advantage of states be four o'clock this p. m. about the bill yond the Ohio. Many m lions have been thus transferred from new to the other section of the country. Ohio is thus profitted a million dollars annually and yet the north does how! that ly and yet the north does howl that house. A large crowd is outside of Tennessee "protected" in nothing and Westminister gates, which are well ravaged in everything can't pay her guarded. debts. But the south should not complain of this injustice. Northern peo-ple do not understand the process. ple do not understand the process, oners charged with conspiracy to mur-They never felt the halter draw and der, an eye-witness will depose that have good opinion of the law—of radi-both Lord Cavendish and Burke were

NIL NISI BONUM DE MORTIUS. Do not misconceive

I would not wrong the living and still less the dead, Gov. Davis' intensity of devotion to party made him many enemies and he would tolerate no divided empire. Aut Grear out pollus was the legend inscribed on his escutcheon. Two such lions as he and Russell could not roam in the same forest, not even in Central African jungles of Wharton county Therefore the invocation of Brewster Cameron and thus of the attorney general that Russell, like Dorsey, might be crushed by the resistless weight of federal power. But Davis, in his private personal conduct, was honest. He rises up in solitary majority above his tellows. His name must ever be emblazoned upon the shield of southern radicalism and upon his tomb an extraordinary recital must be inscribed.

Every passer-by, through countless coming years, reading the unique epitaph with wondering incredulity, will repeat the marvelous story and sigh as he wanders on :

"HERE LIES E. J. DAVIS, THE RECON-STRUCTION GOVERNOR OF TEXAS, WHO NEVER STOLE ANYTHING."

His virtues, however, were never shared by official or partisan associates. One of his cabinet fled the country, a confessed thief; another, pov-erty-stricken when he entered the state's service, came out rich; of another it was written: his name was Honey, that he was drowned, and the river in which he fell became metheglin for forty miles below. The state's credit was utterly annihilated, and The state's railway adventurers bought and sold Davis' legislature in market overt.
Coke was elected governor, and Davis thinking that Grant would give him military protection, refused to surrender his office. He was helpless and only went forth when the peo-ple of Austin resorted to violent measures to induce submission to decrees of the ballot box. He was not a bad man and only an insane zealot in partisanship. He honestly believed democrats incapable of patriotic ac-tion or purposes. He never forgave Grant for his refusal to intervene in his behalf when Coke entered the capitol at Austin.

WHAT WILL COME OF IT?

What will be the fate of Davis' party in Texas? True, there is not much of it, and it is almost utterly black. Davis was very loth, many supposed, to have its members augmented. It had a monopoly of Federal officers in the state and there were not enough of those to appease the hunger of its parti-colored leaders. Davis' life, even as it was, became a burden because of the impossibility of slaking the insane thirst for power that maddened the many radical leaders, of high and low degree, dogging his steps forever and begging for crumbs of Federal patronage that fell from his richly spread table. He sought to rise higher, not that he might enrich himself, but that he ruight have more to give. Therefore, he came to Washington and sat at item was reading about an American Garfield's breakfast table, and asked that he might be postmaster-general. Garfield "palavered," as was his wout. liar, about his trip across the Atlantic. and promised and evaded, and filled divers offices as Devis sug-gested; but nothing more, and here again deeper shadows fell

No wonder he sank into the bosom of mother earth.

Deal kindly with his fame and memory. His virtues were marvelous. He went naked, as a politician and party leader, out of the world; but his-tory invests him with rarest habili-ments of honor and truth, and that his Stuart Robson, the Actor, Conducts singular and extraordinary virtues may be approved and accepted by posterity, Texas should rear a proud mau-soleum in attestation of his worth. He was Hongst when knavery was the fashion of his class and of his

A BROKEN RAIL

Causes a Frightful Accident on the Grand Trunk Line.

Chicago, February 15.—Passenger train number four, bound west on the Grand Trunk, struck a broken rail one mile east of Flint, Michigan, detaching three coaches and one Pullman. The engine, mall and baggage car passed safely. The engineer, with commendable bravery and presence of mind, stopped the engine immediately and got two pails of water, and stopped the fire that had broke out, thus saving a holocaust. Mrs. Haldah Lemon, aged 74, was killed instantly. She re-sides in St. Vincent, Ontario, and was going to Nebraska. Her daughter, Mrs. Hill, was injured badiy and lies insane. Thomas Lindsay was injured fatally in the chest. He jumped from the car window and was thrown under the truck. William Mannes of Waterloo was slightly injured in the bead. Mrs. Chester Miller of Stalbin, Indian Territory, had her nose broken and was otherwise badly hurt. Some ten or twelve others were slightly in-

FOREIGN.

London, February 15.-There is great popular demonstration in Char-

Dublin, February 15.-It is stated that at a hearing to-day that the prissuddenly seized from behind and that they wrenched themselved loose. It was thus they were wounded in the backs as well as breasts.

Indian Troubles.

St. Louis, February, 15.—The Intest advises from the Indian Territory says the previous announcement that Genaral Porter, commander of the constitutional party had left Okmulkee with 400 men for the camp of Spichee was premature. He has not yet taken the field. United States Agent Tufts has notified Cheote that if he does not comply with the law within the given time, he will report him to the interior department as a rebel, as against the Creeks nation. Cheote and Spichee have £ad a conference but no settlement of the difficulties between the factions was effected.

She Kissed Them All.

The Cincinnati Enquirer tells a story of a young lady receiving a surprise party. The girls entered first and she kissed them all; but some young men followed and the hostess, all smiles and blushes, in the dim, religious light, nade a mistake. The first young man that stepped in to surprise was himself surprised by a warm hug and a most decided oscilatory salute square in the middle of his mouth. Mr. Thorne frequently recited with a With courage bordering on the sublime, she did not faint. She saw that she had made a miscalculation that was simply awful. Nothing remained the substantial master's remained in our time. These our actors, and the stantial master's remained in our time. to her but to rest ever after under the suspicion of partiality, or to treat all the boys alike. She chose the latter course. It is alleged that the young men bringing up the rear, as they saw how matters were progressing in front, braced themselves up and moved forward with an air no painter can ever do justice to.

A Costly Navy.

Since the close of the war, not yet eighteen years, congress has made appropriations for the na amounting to $369,000,000. This $9,000,000 more than all the United States currency outstanding to date, including all the issues of legal-tender notes. All that we have to show for this enormous expendi-ture is 139 vessels of all classes, not one of them fit to engage a modern English or Italian war vessel, and Robeson and Chandler each, it is true, carrying more metal to the square inch of face than necessary, but either of them dear at $21,000,000 a Not a new ship exists or is provided for but new appropriations of money come to time with the great-est regularity, so that is literally true, in the language of the humorist, that it would be money in the pocket of the United States if they never had any money to give to the navy.

How to Handle a Liar,

[From Peck's Sun.] The only way to deal with a liar is to beat him at his own game. That is, of course, unless he is the editor of a pious newspaper. What started this item was reading about an American liar, about his trip across the Atlantic and how, on the 25th of the month, they encountered a swarm of locusts, and the locusts carried away every stitch of canvas on the ship." The and here again deeper shadows tell athwart the pathway of Davis' ambition. Again, he was beaten by Hancock as a candidate for congress, and then having already lost the chairmanship of the state radical central manship of the state radical central went around the corner and kicked himself.

stitch of thoughtful a moment, and then said: "Yes, I guess we met what is 'north Texas?" Does it give metes and bounds? Does it propose to have the line between 'north' Texas went around the corner and kicked himself.

NO PREACHERS.

Charles R. Thorne's Dying Request About His Funeral Ceremonies.

the Service-A Simple Burial.

St. Louis, February 15.—The following New York special to the Post-Dispatch was published here yesterday: One day about twelve years ago Charles R. Thorne, Jr., Stuart Robson and Posts. and Robert Craig were discussing the quiet burial of Charles Dickens, and fell to talking about unpleasant funeral sermons that had been preached over actors. Craig said that he would have no clergyman speak at his funeral.
"It was there," Mr. Robson said,
"that Thorne, Craig and I made a compact that whoever of us survived the others or another should do what could be done to keep the preachers away from the funeral. Thorne went to Europe. Craig died suddenly. His family insisted on having the usual religious services at the funeral. I told them of Craig's well known wish in the matter, but they insisted. The minister who conducted the service was an educated man, but he had all the prejudices more common in his profession then than now, and he began to make an apology for the evil which this young man had committed in adopting a profession that had so many evil associations, while his talents in an honorable calling might have brought him great honor. He thought be was justified in asserting that in spitte of this Mr. Craig might have a hope of heaven. I told Thorne this when he returned from Europe, and it increased his feelings against such proceedings. He said he did not wish all sorts of people to be running to his funeral at the Little Church around the Corner, Just because he was an actor, and the last word he said to his wife was: "No preacher, tell Rob." In accordance with this wish of Mr. ing Cross in favor of the claim of Thorne, his fourral was conducted Charles Bradlaugh to a seat in the early in the morning. The coffin,

> Crane, Chas. R. Thorne, Sr.. Will Thorne and his wife, Mrs. Jno. Chamberlin, Walden Ramsay, Jno. Mathews, Dr. Haywood and Stuart Robson and his daughter Alceia. At 9:30 o'clock Mr. Robson crossed the room and stood beside the coffin and said in his peculiar voice: "It was often the expressed wish of our dear friend during the illness which resulted in his death that no performances of a religious nature should be permitted at his funeral. In conformity with this desire, let us bid good-by to him simply and briefly. He had few enemies and many friends. Narrow men did not love him-generous men did. He was liberal to a fault, honest, manly and true. Those who knew him best loved him best. High tempered at times as all good men are if led hastily into an injustice, he as quickly saw his error and rectified it. It s a source of gratification for us to know that he who lately feared death as the most dreaded of all evils, when the time came, welcomed it with all the calmness of a sleeping child. He had few regrets for the past and none for the future. If Chas. P. Thorne had faults, I never saw them. My great love for the man clouded my judgment perhaps. I could see only the good in him. Last Thursday I saw him for the last time. He asked me in laughing way if I had any clearly defined ideas in respect to a future state. I replied as vaguely as 1 could that I supposed the subject was rather indefinite; that the more I thought the less I knew, and several other current answers in popular use. He said that during his illness he had read liberally on this theme and saw nothing more suitable to his views than the following lines. The future is a dark, impenetrable curtain which no human being has ever drawn aside and cannot be better reached than by the recital of the following words from the immertal master's Tempest, which

Are melted into air, into thin air; And, like the baseless fabric of this vision,

The cloud-clapped towers, the gorgeous palaces, The solemn temples, the great glabe itself.

Yea, all which it inherit, shall dissolve. And, like this insubstantial pageant faded.

Leave not a rack behind.'
"'We are such stuff
As dreams are made of, and our little

Is rounded with a sleep," " Mr. Robson then read this telegram from Robt. G. Ingersoll: Say what your heart prompts. A few tears, a few words, a few flowers, are all that the living can give to the dead. The tragedy has ended, the curtain has fallen, Applause cannot lift it again, but memory and hope rebut main. Give my sincere sympathy to those who weep."

The pall-bearers lifted the coffin into the hearse, which was driven to the Grand Central depot. o'clock train bore it to Woodlawn cemetery. Here, without any words, it was placed in a receiving yault.

A Bad Opinion of Us. [From the National Republican.]

Texas has a bill before her legislature to punish "the use of profane language in the vicinity of a dwelling house." That bill, if passed, would compel the population of Texas to live in tents, campout or pay their entire possessions into the public treasury within the first week.

How it is Bounded. [Dallas Times.]

It seems that the legislature, in the headed brother of the Dallas Times will be good enough to tell us just what 'north Texas' is. Give us the the boundary. Sterrett.—Houston Age" With pleasure. It is that part of the state which gives Texas her democratic administrations, and is bounded on the north by the Indians on the cast by the office seekers of the state, and on the south by an element composed of deep-water patriots, negroes, and democrats for revenue only. Them's the boundaries."

FASHIONS IN DANCING.

The New Capers Indulged in by New York Society.-The Racket Suppressed.

Fashions in dancing, writes a New York correspondent, present no strik-ing change since last season. The American Society of Professors of Dancing, which had its headquarters in this city, held its annual meeting last week, and decided to recognize no new dances. They voted to discard the "racket" from their lessons, and to forbid it altogether in their academies. Notwithstanding this action, I have seen it indulged in at every ball which I have attended. Its name is a slang one for the better known redo wagallop step, and originated in the fact that the music in which it was first used for it was "The Racquelle Waltz." showy for modest girls to fling them-selves into, and this is why the pro-fessors have undertaken to place it under taboo. The round dances which strict propriety permits this year are the plain waltz and the redowa. The latter may be varied by what is called the polka Bohemia, a toe-and-heel step that is not thentrical if quietly and gracefully done. The close hugging, sometimes done in last winter by couples who ought to have known better, is now visably relaxed, and altogether I think that dancing is rather freer from abuses than before. The square dances in use at the public halls are the plain quadrille and the plain Saratoga lan-In the latter the couples form parallel lines and dance together, the figures and movements remaining similiar to those of the ordinary lancers. The German is danced still in Agents private assemblages, but never at large balls. A new round dance in some vogue in parlors is called the Russe, and partakes of the character of the galop and mazurka combined. There is also a square dance called the National Guard, composed of squares and circles of a somewhat militiary character. The polo quadrille, with its rapid all-hands-round, proved too much of a circus to please women, and has gone pretty nearly out of fashion. Varita, tions of the polka are frequently seenand the old fashioned Virginia reel is extensively revived.

For Sale.

Two stoves, two bedsteads and beds, set of chairs, tables and other house-hold goods. Apply to C. B. Lindsey at Wells' drugstore. 2-14-wed&sun-4t

PROFESSIONAL.

DR. A. J. LAWRENCE. DENTIST, WILLIAM TO THE PARTY OF THE PAR

FORT WORTH, TEXAS, OFFICE.—In Seaton Building, over Wm. Brown's Grocery Store.

TEMPLE HOUSTON. Attorney at Law.

MOBEETIE, WHEELER COUNTY, TEXAS, In prompt attendance on all the District Courts of the Pan-Handle; Civil Business a Specialty; will Render Land for Taxes; Pay Taxes on land; Investigate and Perfect Titles to land, and Redeem Land Sold for Taxes; Lands Boucht and Sold on Commission; Colections quickly made and remitted; Correspondence solicited and information accurately and readily furnished. 11-12-82

J. J. KANE,

Architect and Superintendent. FORT WORTH, TEXAS.

OFFICE-At the Mansion Hotel, Fourth Street

Plans and specifications with all modern improvements, including estimates of the cost of every description of buildings in the city or country. Postoffice Box 39, 925t

JAS. M. ROBERTSON,

Real Estate and Collecting Agent,

MERIDIAN, BOSQUE COUNTY, TEXAS. Will buy, sell, lease and rent lands, investigate and perfect tilles, and do a general land agency business. Handles land in any county in Texas. Special attention to collections.

11-28-0.4 w-8m.

F. E. DANIEL, M. D., J. A. MATTHEWS, M. D.

DRS. DANIEL & MATTHEWS, SURGEONS AND PHYSICIANS.

Office on Second street between Main and Houston-First National Bank building. Telephone connections. FORT WORTH, TEXAS,

A. E. DODSON, Land and Collection AGENT GAINESVILLE, TEXAS.

N. WALLERICH,

DENTIST. FORT WORTH, TEXAS.

OFFICE-No. 13 Main Street. Up States. USES NITROUS OXIDE GAS. W. W. ROUTH,

FORT WORTH, TEXAS. OFFICE-No. 13 Main Servet. Residence, N. W. Calhoun and Third Streets. 5-211

J. M. ROBBINS. City Bill Poster,

All business in the Bill Posting line promptly attended to. 12-27-82-1f | 67 All

W. F. LAKE,

Wagon and Carriage Wood Work STOVES, PUMPS, PUMP SUPPLIE

It is called in various sections the "Rockaway." It is regarded as too AGENT FOR HALLIDAY'S WIND IN

Corner Houston and Second Streets, Fort Worth, Tens THE OLDEST AND LARGEST STOVE AND HARDWARE HOUSE INTHE Ar-Every Description of Job Work done on Short Notice To

SCHEUBER & HOCHSTADT WHOHESALE

LIQUORS AND CIGARS

for Anheuser's Bottled Be NO. 15 HOUSTON STREET,

FORT WORTH, TEXAS. Cincinnati Office, 120 Seconds

CRESCENT RESTAURANT.

C. C. HYDE, Manager.

Regular Meal

AND MEALS AT ALL HOURS.

ATTENTIVE WAITERS, AND TABLE SUPPLIED WITH

THE BEST THE MARKET AFFORM NO. 80 MAIN STREET.

T. W. POWELL

WHOLESALE AND RETAIL DEALER IN

Drugs, Medicines, Paint

OILS, DYE STUFFS, WINDOW GLASS, ETC.,

NO. 10 HOUSTON STREET,

FORT WORTH, TEXAS.

S. M. FRY,

EXCLUSIVE DEALER IN

No. 24 MAIN ST., FORT WORTH, TEXAS.

We recognize the fact that the BEST GOODS are always THE CHEAPEST, and we end only keep first-class goods, which we guarantee to our customers. We will resche that rin free of charge: also fasten on buttons free of charge.

General Commission Merchants in Cotton, Wool,

> OFFICE AND WAREHOUSE: Houston and Main Sts., Between 13th and 14th,

Fort Worth, Texas

Liberal advancements made on consignments, and careful attention paid to of customers. Bagging and Ties, Wool sacks and Twine furnished on applica-for Indian Nation coal.

THE

Homceopathic Physician, METROPOLITAN HOTE

New House! New Furniture!

Within a Few Steps of the Union Depot,

Fort Worth: Texas.

CAPT. SOULE, Clerk. WM. H. ALDRIDGE, Proprietor.

rom the Union Depot. Street cars pass the door. And

OFFICE AND WAREHOUSE: stan and Main Ste Patween 13th and Me

63, Houston Street,

NO. 15 HOUSTON STREET,

works $8 00; delivered $8 75; by the 100 ha. at