

THE SABBATH.

With silent awe, I hail the sacred morn Which slowly wakes while all the fields are still;

ESTRANGED.

The world had parted them
And silence o'er each wounded spirit, fell Like midnight pall;

Time's rushing tide
Swept up the years between them;
Oft had they met and parted, Nor could the most observant eye

And still,
By passion's seething whirlpool tossed,
Their severed lives fast drifting Toward the blackened shoals of hate,

Pleasant Words.

1. They don't cost much. They come bubbling up in a good natured heart, like the freely gushing waters of a fountain.

2. They make the man happier who uses them. They re-act upon him. Hot words make the user's wrath hotter.

3. Kind and pleasant words touch other people's hearts, and make them kind.
They fall like flakes of fire on the cold and selfish hearts, not to scorch, but to melt,

4. Pleasant words beget other words like themselves to other people. We have been in a crowded omnibus. A few snappish words have multiplied their scope, till most of the travelers have shared in the same stock.

5. Do you know who I am? said a police officer to a fellow whom he seized by the throat.

A Washington paper describes a beautiful young lady as having a face a painter might dwell upon. That would be a delightful residence.

Perfect peace is not possible even in the deepest retirement. A wolf will creep into the most pastoral life.

We once heard an Englishman give his ostler orders as follows: "Enry, take the arness boff the orse, slip the sifer hovar ia ead, hand give in some ay hand hoats."

A Georgia editor accuses one of his contemporaries of "dying his hair and trying to renovate his carcass so as to get some female into the embraces of his rattling bones."

Marriage, like fiddling, depends a great deal upon the beat-ing.

There were manufactured last season on the upper Mississippi, and its tributaries, the enormous quantity of 900,000,000 feet of lumber.

HERE AND HEREAFTER.—It is strange that the experience of so many ages should not make us judge more solidly of the present and the future, so as to take proper measures in the one for the other. We dote upon this world as if it were never to have an end, and we neglect the next as if it were never to have a beginning.—Fenelon.

NERVOUS HEADACHE.—Essence of turpentine is said to be a specific for nervous headaches even when accompanied with vertigo. Though when applied to the skin, it produces redness and irritation, it is perfectly harmless to the most delicate subjects taken internally.

FEELING.—Low measures of feeling are better than ecstasies for ordinary life. Heaven sends its rains in gentle drops, else the flowers would be beated to pieces.

When the blossoms and leaves of a woman's beauty fall, we discover her defects, as we behold ravens' nests in the trees in winter.

What kind of music does the kettle give out just before it begins to boil. The music of a dull-simmer.

Talk about conceit as much you like, it is to human character what salt is to the ocean, keeping it sweet and rendering it endurable. Say rather it is like the natural unguent of the sea-fowl's plumage, which enables him to shed the rain that falls on him; and the wave in which he dips.

Clamorous people should remember that the tail of the rattlesnake makes the noise, but the head always does the execution.

Mr. Prentice, of the Louisville Journal, gets off the following hits:
"The California Legislature calls this Administration the instrument of the Almighty." Unquestionably, the Almighty can work with mighty mean tools.
"The Administration seems turning its whole attention to mustering the diggers, All its wits are wool-gathering."
