OPERA HOUSE

It is with considerable pride that the management of Winchester Opera House offers to their patrons Miss Beulah Poynter and the beautiful play which has been such a congenial vehicle for her for the past three years. Miss Poynter has won unanimous and universal praise from the critics of the principal cities of the United States and Canada, but it could hardly be otherwise for she has given the public a pure play full of sympathy and mirth, a scenic production of consistent beauty and a Broadway cast of artists. Miss Poynter has already played before more than a million people in all the principal towns and cities of America and has become established as the most popular and successful young star.

Lena Rivers will be shown Tuesday night at the Winchester Opera House.

FINE VENISON.

BANDLOW TESTIFIES

In Contempt Proceedings Against Gompers and Others.

Cleveland, O., Oct. 20.—Robert Bandlow and other Cleveland labor leaders gave their depositions in the Washington case in which the Buck Stove and Range company of St. Louis seeks to have President Gompers and other officers of the Federation of Labor adjudged guilty of contempt of court for continuing to print the "We Don't Patronize" list after Justice Gould had ordered them to stop.

Bandlow is business manager of the local labor paper. The "unfair" list is said to have been printed in it after the injunction forbade the American Federation of Labor to publish it.

"It's war to the finish between capital and labor," Bandlow testified. "The National Manufacturers' association, Van Cleave, Post and their kind not only war on labor, but they control political parties and conventions, dictate platforms and boss nominations," Bandlow averred.

Big Blaze On Assembly Grounds.

Jamestown, N. Y., Oct. 20.—The Colonnade, the most substantial and costly building on the Chautauqua assembly grounds, was burned to the ground. This was the principal business block of the assembly and cost $50,000. The losses include the United States postoffice, with all of the mail, stamps, etc.; Taylor's printing office, including the entire November edition of the Chautauqua, which was ready for mailing, besides a number of shops and business houses and Chautauqua buildings. The total loss will aggregate $125,000.

Kidnaped Woman Returns.

Huntington, L. I., Oct. 20.—After spending a night of terror hiding in a barn from friends who were searching the woods for her, Mrs. Abbie Meerlongola, who was twice kidnaped by two men and kept a prisoner in the woods, returned to her sister's home in this village. She was so frightened and dazed by her experience at the hands of the kidnapers that she could tell no connected story of her ill treatment.

Black Hand Threatens Church.

Chicago, Oct. 20.—Two Black Hand letters threatening to blow up the Moody church were received by the Rev. A. C. Dixon, acting pastor of the church, during the past week, according to information gained from the police. The letters demanded that $1,000 be left in a cigar box on the porch of the church. At the hour set detectives watched for the appearance of suspicious persons, but none appeared.

District Meetings Called.

Columbus, O., Oct. 20.—Notices for the annual district meetings of the Independent Telephone association were sent out. The meeting of district No. 7 will be held at Lima Tuesday, Oct. 27; district No. 3 at Zanesville Thursday, Oct. 29; district No. 1 at Cleveland Thursday, Nov. 5, and a joint meeting of districts Nos. 5 and 6 at Dayton Friday, Nov. 6.

Girl Identifies Assailant.

Bellefontaine, O., Oct. 20.—Wallace Heathcock, a negro, is in jail charged with abducting Miss Lizzie Royer, a white girl, who was coming home alone at night. Both sleeves were torn out of her waist in the scuffle before she freed herself from her assailant. Heathcock was arrested on her description, and when taken to her home she identified him.

Aged Man Drowns Himself.

McConnelsville, O., Oct. 20.—The body of Jacob Best was found in the Muskingum river here. Best had been missing since Friday, and owing to his queer actions the relatives thought that he might have committed suicide. The river was dragged at a spot near his home and his body was found. He was 70 years old.

License System Substituted.
