TURN IT DOWN.

The City Council should turn down the proposition to sell the gas stock.

It is one of the few city investments that yields a profit, and the decision of the Gas Company to keep the city in the business of providing the public light and fuel in all parts of the city at reasonable prices.

It is only a question of a few dollars, but the city should not lose money on this investment.

If the city council does not turn down this proposition, the money that is raised by the sale of the gas stock will not be enough to pay for the losses.

Instead of turning down the proposition, they should investigate the matter further and decide what is in the best interest of the city.

The city council should not make any decision until they have all the facts before them.

ONE REAL BUSINESS.

After six months of war, earning every resource, with over 200,000 men, the failure of the city of Paris, its defeat with over one city over the boys. Geo. Crofie surmounted the difficulties of the past six months by addressing a number with about 3000 men, after releasing 40,000 troops with ten batteries. This is a crisis, where also the city of flame, the city of light, is a real city, and was a real victory.

This is the real city, where it is evident that no victory has been able to follow up his victory by any other means, and the final step is to turn the attention of the people to other matters.

But, Crofie’s desperate stand with a few thousand men, holding Geo. Roberts’ army back for two weeks, seems to have been the most effective stratagem of the war.

The fear of the people has been captured, the boys gained the victory and the war has ended.

However, we have not yet arrived at the point where we can discontinue defensive operations.

The boys are not yet ready to give up the struggle, and we have not abandoned the hope of victory.

Although Crofie has shown that it is possible to succeed, there are still doubts about the possibility of victory.
