We strongly deprecate the thrusting of notoriety upon anti-Catholic lecturers by Catholics in any community they may choose to visit. It is a severe test of patience to remain passive under calumny and abuse. Yet we should not forget that self-respect forbids a quarrel with a skunk. There are effective methods of getting rid of such disturbers without advertising them by demonstrations. They are seeking for notoriety because it pays.

TABOOED.

The Board of Park Commissioners have had enough of the promiscuous speaking in our public parks. There has been constant abuse of the privilege granted, notably the feeling aroused on Labor Sunday by Socialist Charles Dobbs, who viciously attacked the Bible and the ministry. All good citizens approve the resolution introduced by Commissioner Brumleve and adopted by the board. It was a foregone conclusion that it would not be long before those who were injecting politics and religion into the meetings would be tabooed.

SENATOR OLLIE JAMES.

President Wilson exercised both judgment and foresight when he turned to Senator Ollie James to get behind the promises the Democratic party made the people. Senator James fought every inch of the ground, has battled like a demon, and in the end secured everything the platform pledged in the way of tariff revision downward. A little more than a boy in years, he is a man among men, eloquent, logical, powerful and withal a mental giant. The great State of Kentucky has given to the world her full share of statesmen, but few men, living or dead, have accomplished more in a lifetime than has Senator James since becoming a member of the Federal Congress.

CLOSE THEM.

The General Council did well in passing the ordinance prohibiting the sale of intoxicants in "chill parlors" without a saloon license. Mayor Head affixed his signature and the ordinance became a law Wednesday. It is thought many of these "parlors," which are notoriously evil resorts, will now be driven out of business. There never was any real necessity for them, and it would be better, much better, if they were closed altogether.

CLEAN THE STAGE.

Public sentiment in New York City has been aroused in an exceptional degree by the movement to suppress two sensational plays now on the boards in that city. One of the leaders in the movement is Magistrate McAduo. He attended a performance at the Maxine Elliott Theater, to judge of its character for himself, and the result was that he issued warrants for the arrest of the producers of the play. Most of the dramatic critics of the metropolis agree with Magistrate McAduo's view. From all accounts, one of the acts of the play is as bold a flaunting of immoral suggestions as has been witnessed on the New York stage in many a day. What seems to be as audacious as the play itself is the pretense—always heard in such cases—that it has been written and staged for the purpose of teaching a good lesson. If we are to judge from the opinions of the critics, this is sheer nonsense. The simple fact is that vice is gilded in the play, with its alluring scenes from the interior of a disorderly house. Of course the playwright makes the usual effort to prove that immorality doesn't pay, but the moral is lost sight of in the salacious trappings and suggestions of the play itself. Manifestly the social reformers who have started out to suppress both plays are in dead earnest and, if one half of what is said of the wickedness of the plays is true, it is sincerely to be hoped that the movement will be successful.

HOPELESS ANYWAY.

Like Father Gannon, of the True Voice, we believe that many are inclined to magnify and to bewail immoderately the present wave of anti-Catholic bigotry that disturbs the usual calm of American religious toleration. Such movements rarely do any great harm. They make Catholics more Catholic and they direct the attention of many to the church who otherwise would never have their interest awakened. The only ones really harmed are the bigots themselves, and their case is hopeless anyway.

K. OF C. OATH.

Local fanatics are busy circulating the impossible and preposterous Knights of Columbus oath, which tells of the solemn bound oath of members of that society to "hang, burn, waste, boil, flay, strangle and bury alive Protestants; rip up the stomachs and wombs of their women, and crush their infants' heads against the walls, in order to annihilate their execrable race." The above has been proven a fake time and time again, but dupes, like suckers, seem to be born every minute. The sample being circulated here is the product of a "seab" printing office.

NON-UNION PICNIC.

The Courier-Journal Job Printing Company, one of the largest non-union plants in this section, is giving an all day outing to its employees today. The C.-J. probably feels that an outing is due the strike breakers they were compelled to lodge and feed in the plant when the printers were on strike.

KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS.

Late News That Will Interest Members Here and Elsewhere.

All councils will elect officers next October.

Tomorrow the three degrees will be conferred at Greensburg, Ind.

Preparations for the reception of a large class are under way in Milwaukee.

Seattle is bidding for the 1915 gathering and is being helped by San Francisco.

There will be a general reunion and initiation at Albany, Ore., in celebration of Columbus day.

The fourth degree exemplification which was to have been held at El Reno, Okla., has been postponed indefinitely.

After trying for two years the required number has been secured and Cincinnati will exemplify the fourth degree October 19.

Public Printer Cornelius Ford is a practical printer, member of the Typographical Union and Knights of Columbus. He has the confidence of the Washington printers.

The membership is steadily increasing in Central New York. Oneida conferred the degrees on twenty-five last week, and Syracuse will have many for the third on September 28.

Thirteen District Deputies met Sunday in Indianapolis and discussed plans for the joint observance of Discovery day, joint initiations during the fall and winter, and arrangements for Abbe Dom Gasquet's lecture tour.

ARMY CHAPLAINS BOTH.

In an interview with the Courier at Hartford, Conn., the Rev. Dr. Joseph H. Twitchell describes this trend at Fredericksburg:

"One of my brother Chaplains in the brigade was a Catholic priest, a fine fellow, Father Joseph O'Hegan. We were great friends, and once when we had leave of absence together he visited with me at my father's home in Southington. I remember the night of the battle of Fredericksburg. We had been active for hours, and at midnight both of us simply had to have sleep. We went off to one side of the camp and lay down under the blue skies. Each had a blanket. After a while he called to me and asked if I was asleep. 'No,' I answered; 'it's so cold I can't get to sleep.' 'Neither can I,' said he. 'Let's club our blankets.' And we did, lying side by side with the two blankets instead of one apiece. Suddenly I felt him shaking, and asked him what was the matter. 'I'm laughing at this scene,' I couldn't see anything in the scene to laugh at, for there were hundreds of dead and wounded soldiers within an acre of ground. 'What do you mean?' I asked. 'I'm laughing at this scene—me a Jesuit priest and you a Puritan person snuggled up here side by side, under the same blankets,' he replied, and a moment later he looked up at the sky and said in a low voice: 'But I shouldn't wonder if the angels rather like to look at it.'"

SAVED BY MONKS.

Monks, guided by the barkings of their St. Bernard dogs, last Friday rescued a young American named G. Dawson from a precarious position in a ravine into which he had fallen during an Alpine climb in Switzerland.

Dawson had attempted to descend a pass without a guide and fell into the ravine. He was not injured except for a badly sprained ankle and shock, but the ravine was off the usual travel route and it is impossible to tell how long he might have laid there had not the dogs brought the monks to the rescue.

CONSOLIDATING.

The movement for the consolidation of the six Y. M. I. councils of Indianapolis into one strong central body got quite a boom at a district meeting held last week. After a free exchange of views by men who have the best interests of the organization at heart the whole matter was placed in the hands of a committee which will confer with each council.

SELECTED DATE HAPPILY.

In fixing upon September 25 as the date for the formal opening of the Panama canal, the United States Government has happily and picturesquely selected the four hundredth anniversary of the great day, September 25, 1513, when Vasco Nunez de Balboa reached the crest of the ridge of the Panama isthmus and beheld for the first time that mighty waterway which the Spaniards tentatively christened "The Sea of the South."

CONTRARIETIES.

"This is a funny country," commented the perplexed foreigner. "You celebrate your 'Labor day' by taking a rest, and your Sunday, which you call your day of rest, is the day when everybody works the hardest!"

EDITORS ABROAD.

The venerable Father D. S. Phelan, editor of the Western Watchman, and Rev. John W. Maher, D. D., editor of the Catholic Advance, are now in Europe. Both will visit Rome and carry some time in Ireland.
