With every undertaking of President Woodrow Wilson crowned with success since he entered the White House and with a united and victorious Democracy applauding the mention of his name, and the trusting masses every where willing to follow in his lead and hail him as one of the wisest and safest sages who ever occupied the chief executive's chair of the nation, after one year's such service he came before the joint session of Congress on March 5, 1914, and read a message, the following of which is a part:

"Gentlemen of Congress: I have come to you upon an errand, which can be briefly performed, but I beg you will not measure its importance by the number of sentences in which I state it. No communication I have addressed to the Congress carried with it a graver or more far-reaching implications as to the interest of the country. I have come to ask you for the repeal of that provision of the Panama Canal Act of August 24, 1912, which exempts vessels engaged in the coastwise trade of the United States from payment of tolls and to urge upon you the justice, the wisdom, and the large policy of such a repeal with the utmost earnestness of which I am capable. I ask this of you in support of the foreign policy of the Administration. I shall not know how to deal with other matters with greater delicacy and nearer consequence if you do not grant it to me in ungrudging measure."

A bill was very promptly introduced in Congress to carry into effect the Administration's urgent request and after due time for debate a vote was taken and every member of Congress from Kentucky voted to uphold the Democratic Administration and the President's recommendation, except Caleb Powers, John Langley, Republicans, and Harve Helm of this District. But we find our worthy contemporary and good friend, Mr. Louis Landram, of the Danville Messenger, commending Mr. Helm for his vote as follows:

"Without entering into the merits of the Panama Exemption Repeal Bill, we beg to say, as President did, that it is debatable. Therefore, no censure should attach to any Congressman for the position he took on the question. This is especially true of those who were in the minority, for they certainly did not seek the favors or good will of any one, but acted in accordance with their best judgment, the dictate of conscience and were true to the oath of office."

Mr. Helm is in congress by the grace of the Democratic party and for him to daily when the President thinks the administration is facing a crisis, and to desert when the party is in peril, may not be deserving censure but we opine that both congressman Helm and brother Landram have a job to convince the democrats of the district to the contrary.

How great the open censure will be against Congressman Helm for his vote by the Democrats of this District is yet to be observed, but we feel justified in saying that when our present representative again submits his claim to the people for support he will see that Democrats will prefer to have a representative in Congress who can present the side of this debatable question with the approval of conscience as requested by the President, and approved by the entire Democratic delegation in Congress from our State, including our popular Senator, Ollie M. James.

The Democrats of the Eighth District, will likely prefer a representative whose judgment is more in accord with the President's and whose judgment and conscience does not lead in the path of Caleb Powers and John Langley. The suggestions made by Congressman Helm, that he is being congratulated by the Democrats of this District upon his vote against the Administration's policy, puts in issue, in a way, whether the party of this District will take its stand with Congressman Helm or approve the course of the Administration. He may not be censured for his vote, we will be surprised if he is not for taking the latter step, and we will wait to hear from our neighbor upon the latter proposition.

The President has made every reasonable effort to avoid complication with the defunct government of Mexico. But Huerta and his followers have exhausted the patience of the President and committed all sorts of unpardonable offenses against our Government. The Administration has handled this matter with its characteristic wisdom and caution. While some have thought the President could have acted more hastily, but since the turn of events his present actions now have the approval of all parties in this nation and if we must go to war with Mexico we have the sympathy and co-operation of the nations of the world, The United country will rally to uphold the dignity of our flag and patriotically support the Administration in its efforts to resent the insults offered our nation.

CAPT. A. T. ANDERSON.

Captain A. T. Anderson is suffering from a severely wrenched shoulder occasioned from a fall which he recently received. He is compelled to carry one arm in a sling, but is continuing about his duties at the warehouse of Mr. F. B. Marksbury where he is employed.

BOOK SHOWER

At Womens Club Room.

The members of the womens club issued invitations to their husbands, sweethearts and friends, to attend a reception in their club rooms, on last Thursday evening. The reception was in the form of a book shower, each guest being requested to bring a book, which resulted in 78 handsome volumes being added to the library. The members are deeply grateful to the happy way in which so many responded. The guests felt that a book was a small exchange in lieu of such a delightful evening spent.

CHILDREN HURT WHEN SCHOOL WAGON

Turns Over Near Buena Vista.

One of the handsome new wagons employed by the new Consolidated School at Buena Vista turned over on Tuesday injuring several of the children, one of them severely. The wagon was in charge of Mr. Wilbur Scott and when descending a steep hill one of the lines broke and the wagon overturned upon reaching a culvert. Twelve children were in the wagon at the time, and all but two were injured, none severely however, except a little daughter of Mr. Marshall Scott, who received a severely fractured shoulder. Dr. Elliott was summoned from Lancaster and ministered to the little sufferer and she is getting along nicely, though yet confined to her bed. Dr. Montgomery was also called from Bryansville and the bruises of the other children were given attention and they were all able to go to their homes. But for the presence of mind and bravery of Mr. Scott the driver, the accident might have proven much more severe. The wagon was badly damaged.

SAUFLEY FOR CONGRESS

Frankfort Dispatch Says That Shelton Sauflay, Of Stanford, Will Probably Enter Race Against Helm.

The following interesting dispatch from Frankfort appeared in the Louisville Herald.

"Interesting gossip of Congressional politics in the Eighth District was brought to the capital today by several prominent politicians of that district who came to the State House on department business.

"According to the report they brought the opposition to the re-election of Congressman Harvey Helm is about to center on Shelton M. Sauflay, editor of the Interior Journal at Stanford, and formerly a newspaper man of Frankfort, as the proper man with whom to defeat Helm. Stanford is in Lincoln, Helm's home county, and according to the prediction the Democrats made here today, Sauflay is the only man in the district who can beat Helm in his home county and carry the lower tier of counties in the Eighth, composed of Adair, Casey, Boyle, Garrard, Lincoln, Mercer and Madison.

"Sauflay's popularity in his home county is said by the men here today to be due to the record he made as a member of the Lower House of the recent session of the General Assembly, when he fathered and led the successful fight for a change in the road engineer's law. His efforts and vote against the Glenn Insurance bill also made him many friends at home and in and in other counties of the district, according to the Democrats, as well as his great work as chairman of the House Committee on Appropriations in giving the recent Legislature the record of having been the most economical that has met in Kentucky in the past score of years.

According to the Eighth District men here opposition to the re-election of Helm has developed all over the Eighth District since he chose to align himself with Caleb Powers and John Langley, the two Republican members of Congress from Kentucky in opposition to President Wilson's Canal Toll Repeal bill.

"The men who were here today said that Eighth District Democrats do not relish the fact that theirs was the only member of the lower house of Congress who deserted the President at such a critical period in his administrative program. They said that if a candidate would make a fight for the nomination on such grounds he would defeat Helm overwhelmingly.

"Sauflay's paper, the Interior Journal, was the first country paper in Ky. to espouse the cause for the nomination of Wilson at Baltimore, and opponents of Helm say that on a platform of endorsement or non endorsement of the President, the present Congressman will find the Democrats of his district overwhelmingly against him and in favor of the President."

AFTER HELM'S TOGAFORMER SUPPORTER NOW SEEKS DEFEAT OF CONGRESSMAN.

Mr. Shelton Sauflay of the Interior Journal was in Danville Monday shaking hands with the Democratic voters. Although a former friend and warm supporter of Congressman Helm he is now very much opposed to the return of the present Congressman again to Washington to represent this District. He thinks it an easy thing to beat Helm and has had sufficient encouragement himself to get the Congressional bee in his own bonnet. He says that Helm is very unpopular in Lincoln County and that he will get a majority of the votes in his home County if he decides to run. His announcement will probably be made in a few days. The candidacy of Mr. Sauflay will be a surprise to many people because it has been generally understood that Helm and Sauflay were very warm friends. While it is not generally known, it is thought that Helm's failure to support the administration in the Panama Toll Repeal Bill has caused the breach between them.

OPERA HOUSE TO BE COMPLETED

By June 15th.

The new opera house is expected to be complete and ready for occupancy not later than 15th. Work is going forward rapidly upon the foundation, and the Garrard Milling Co., have Mr. C. P. Anderson, an experienced concrete workman, busily engaged superintending the manufacture of the concrete blocks for the construction of the building. It will take 4700 of these blocks to complete the structure, the lower story will be of blocks 12'x8'x2', while the upper will be of blocks 8'x8'x2' the blocks to be artistically finished so as to present an attractive appearance. The building is to be 100x40 feet, the lower story to be utilized as a garage, the upper as an Opera House. The latter is to be comparatively fire proof, well ventilated and heated with modern improvements, including a floor with a three foot drop, a commodious lobby, with stairway leading to gallery without the necessity of entering the lower floor, modern stage and seating and all the appointments of the latest style and best equipped opera houses of the country. Mr. Herron who is building the structure, has had several flattering offers to lease the building when completed, but as yet has not accepted any of them, having not yet fully made up his mind as to the manner of leasing, whether he will equip it himself with picture machine and accessories, or whether he will allow the lessee to furnish the machine. The garage part however, is already rented and the rapid construction of the building is being pushed by the party leasing it in order that he may get into it before the close of the automobile season.

PERSONNEL OF UNITED STATES SUPREME COURT

And Salaries Of Members.

You often hear the question asked as to how many members comprise the Supreme Court of the United States, who those members are and what salary is paid them. These questions are much more easily asked than answered, and for the benefit of the great majority who cannot answer them, we give below the information: The Chief Justice is paid $15,000 per year, while the Associate Justices receive $14,500 per year, the members are as follows.

Chief Justice Edward Douglass White, of Louisiana, Democrat, appointed an Associate Justice by President Cleveland in 1894 and made Chief Justice by President Taft in 1910. Born in 1845.

Associate Justice Joseph McKenna, of California, Republican, appointed by President McKinley in 1897. Born in 1843.

Associate Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes, of Massachusetts, Republican, appointed by President Roosevelt in 1902. Born in 1841.

Associate Justice William R. Day, of Ohio, Republican, appointed in 1903 by President Roosevelt. Born in 1849.

Associate Justice Horace Harmon Lurton, of Tennessee, Democrat, appointed in 1909 by President Taft. Born in 1844 at Newport Ky.

Associate Justice Charles Evans Hughes, of New York, Republican, appointed in 1910 by President Taft. Born in 1862.

Associate Justice Willis Van Devanter, of Wyoming, Republican, appointed in 1910 by President Taft. Born in 1859.

Associate Justice Joseph Rucker Lamar, of Georgia, Democrat, appointed by President Taft in 1910. Born in 1857.

Associate Justice Mahlon Pitney, of New Jersey, Republican, appointed by President Taft in 1912. Born in 1853.

Two retired members of the court are still living: George Shiras, of Pennsylvania, and William H. Moody, of Massachusetts.

LANCASTER GROWS STEADILY

Despite Many Obstacles.

There is perhaps not a town situated as Lancaster, in Kentucky, that makes as steady and as healthy growth as that city. On a little jerk water branch of the L & N, with no opposition as to rates, compelled to obtain every commodity by that one rail line, with no other outlet save that to depend upon for distributing the bountiful products of the surrounding county to the markets of the world, yet Lancaster manages to maintain an air of thrift equalled by few and surpassed by no town of its size in this section of the state.

Our shops are replete with as complete and up-to-date wares as may be found in Lexington or even more pretentious towns, the prices asked for the wares compare favorably with those asked other places, and when you take in to consideration the cost of a trip from home to another market, you will find that "shopping at home" is far more satisfactory as well as economical to Lancaster and Garrard county people.

Nor does the restraints as to transportation facilities placed upon Lancaster seem to retard its growth; it is true there is no boom in Lancaster, but a good steady, healthy growth is always to be observed.

Among the recent additions to the business interests of the town may be mentioned a bottling works, a garage, several stores and with many other enterprises in course of construction or under consideration. These enterprises are not attracted by "exemption from taxation" for any period, free building sites or such inducements as are ordinarily offered for the building up of progressive towns, but are attracted solely by the requirements of and the advantages offered by the town.

If the possibilities of the place, without the cooperation of a well organized and working Commercial organization, such as every well regulated town should have, attracts these enterprises, what might be expected of Lancaster, were her advantages given the proper amount of advertisement to the outside world.

In one of the richest and most productive counties of the state, with soil unsurpassed for fertility, not alone in Kentucky but throughout the world, with a record for growing a greater multiplicity of crops, and growing them good, than nearly any other section of the country, why should we not have a good town? Wheat, corn, oats, rye, barley, alfalfa and the various varieties of hay, hemp and tobacco, splendid pastures, a good live stock country; good turnpikes traversing the entire county, and all to feed the county seat, why then we ask, should not Lancaster be a good town? And last but by no means least, we have what goes more toward the success of a community than anything else, we have a generous, kind hearted people, typical Kentuckians, lavish with the much vaunted southern hospitality, ready to welcome the stranger with open arms, to make his stay among us a pleasant one, or if perchance he comes to locate permanently, to make him forget his old associations, and to make his new environments so pleasant as to make him wish he might spend the remainder of his days in old Garrard.

We were about to forget the greatest inducement which we have to offer in Garrard county, our educational facilities. We state, and without fear of contradiction, that there is not a county in the state which surpasses Garrard in the educational facilities which we offer; one of the best Graded Schools to be found anywhere in Lancaster, and two Consolidated Graded Schools in other parts of the county, with the numerous county schools being kept up to the very highest possible standard, there is absolutely no reason why any resident of the county should be compelled to send their children away from home in order to secure an education.

LIPSCOMB.

The following account of the death of Prof. M. L. Lipscomb, which occurred at his home in Columbia, Mo., on the 8th inst. is taken from the Columbia (Mo.) Daily Tribune: Prof. Lipscomb married Miss Anne Robinson, of Lincoln county, who survives him and who is a sister of Mr. Joseph E. Robinson, Editor of the Record.

Prof. M. L. Lipscomb died of kidney trouble shortly after noon today after an illness of some weeks. The funeral will be held at the home tomorrow after noon at three o'clock, and the services will be conducted by the Rev. Madison A. Hart, of the Christian church, of which deceased was a member.

Prof. Lipscomb was born in King William county Va., May 17, 1850, and came to Columbia as professor of physics at the University of Missouri in 1889 since which time he has resided here. A man of education, culture and high ideals, Prof. Lipscomb identified himself with the interests of the town on moving here, and his death leaves a gap in the community. Always considerate of others, quiet and unostentatious in his manner, a true friend, and a gentleman of the old school, Prof. Lipscomb was known and esteemed by everyone.

Prof. Lipscomb was a noted educator and one of the small numbers of University professors who stuck to their posts throughout the formation period of the University, and he, with others, was responsible for the high standard maintained.

Mr. James Clark who has been appointed County Road Engineer for Garrard county, richly deserves the position. He is a democrat of the unswerving stamp, and for many years has helped to fight his party's battles in the county without hope of pecuniary reward, has never sought office and the one to which he has just been appointed his solicitation. Mr. Clark is a practical farmer, has lived in the country all of his life, and is not only conversant with the needs of the roads of the county, but he is well qualified to attend to those needs. He is a gentleman of the highest integrity a popular gentleman and the county is to be congratulated upon securing his services.

Seed Corn.

Walton Moss will have a wagon load of his choice seed corn in town next Monday.

MONEY FOR SHEEP CLAIMS.

County Clerk J. W. Hamilton has received from the State Auditor a check for $508.55 in payment for claims of Garrard county farmers for sheep killed by dogs during the year 1913. This amount will pay the claims in full and those holding claims may have them paid by calling on Mr. Hamilton.

MEETING CONTINUES.

The protracted meeting at the Baptist church is still in progress and it has not as yet been determined just when it will close. Large crowds continue to attend every service and the interest grows as the meeting progresses. About a dozen additions to the church up to this time.

MISS LEVY DUNN.

It will be sad news to the many friends of Miss Levy Dunn to know that she was taken suddenly ill at her home in Bryansville, Wednesday morning and remains in a critical condition. Miss Dunn is one of the most widely known ladies in the county and is prominently connected throughout this and adjoining counties. She is a sister-in-law of Mrs. W. A. Price of Lancaster.

INTERESTING SPELLING MATCH.

An interesting spelling match was held Friday evening in the auditorium of the graded school building. Students, teachers and private citizens entered heartily into the contest. Mr. Robert Embury was chosen as captain on the winning side while the side of Mr. Robert Elkin was in the money but lost first and second. Three prizes were offered, the first $5 in gold, being awarded to Lucian Grant, a sixteen year old graduate, the second prize of $2.50 was won by Miss Eliza Smith, a member of the faculty, while the third prize of $1 was won by Miss Patsy Kinnaird who saved the day for the Elkin side.

After a spirited contest between Misses Kinnaird, Smith and Lucian, Miss Kinnaird finally went down on the word n-e-g-o-t-i-a-t-e. Word after word was then given out, hard words, jaw breakers, words seldom seen or heard until the audience began to despair of getting home until the small hours, when Miss Eliza went down on the word t-w-e-l-f-t-h, Lucian winning the $5 by spelling it.

News Of The Churches.

Bro. S. H. Politt will begin a meet at Moreland next Monday night.

Rev. Claude Fawns will preach at the Methodist church here the first Sunday in May, both morning and evening.

The third quarterly conference of the Bryansville and Buena Vista Methodist church, was held at Bryansville last Saturday and Sunday, the services being conducted by Dr. Arnold, the district superintendent and the pastor, with excellent interest. Dr. Arnold spoke highly of the advance of the church up from the eighth grade of 1911, to "A-No 1" in annual year book record of one hundred charge of the Ky. conference, in 1913. The per cent advance in benevolent offerings, leaving Danville and Lancaster in the rear. A letter to the pastor, Dr. E. H. Pearce, from the general secretary of missions at Nashville, referred to the year work, as distinctive among all of the 7000 pastorates of the Methodist church in the south and asking "how it had been served". The luncheon served by the ladies of the church on Saturday was a happy occasion.
