

Public Sale OF LAND, STOCK AND CROPS.

Having decided to dispose of my place, known as the Drakes Creek Farm, or the George Evans place, on the Crab Orchard and Lancaster pike, 2 1-2 miles from Crab Orchard, I will sell it to the highest bidder, beginning at 10:30 A. M.,

Thursday, November 7th 1918

The place will be divided into three tracts.

TRACT NO. 1.—contains 15 2-4 acres of splendid level, fertile land. No richer land anywhere.

TRACT NO. 2.—has 62 1-2 acres, all in grass. Fine stock water, good building site, but no improvements.

TRACT NO. 3.—is the home place. On it is the splendid residence of eight rooms, two halls, porches, stock barn with room for 75 head of stock and room for feed to winter them. Cistern at door of residence. Double cribs that will hold 400 barrels of corn, garage and buggy house, combined. Hen house and concrete cellar. The place contains 143 acres of excellent land, principally level and very fertile. There are just a few acres of waste land. It will grow corn, hemp, tobacco or any other crop grown in Kentucky and will grow as much or more per acre. This place must be seen to be thoroughly appreciated. The farm will first be sold in three tracts and then as a whole and the way bringing the most money will be chosen. At the same time and place I will sell 200 barrels of No. 1 corn in 10 and 20 barrel lots. About ten tons of No. 1 clover hay, 400 shocks of fodder, one pair of work mules, one seven and the other eight years, 16 hands and fine workers; one pair of 15 1-2 hands, four-year-old mules, fine workers. Some nice mule colts. A number of cattle and a big lot of farming tools will also be sold at the same time. Terms on the land will be liberal and will be made to suit the purchaser. Lunch will be served on the grounds.

The home is close to graded school, churches, being only 2 1-2 miles from the town of Crab Orchard. The neighborhood is an ideal one and taking everything into consideration, the farm is a rare one. Persons desiring to look over the place are invited to come and do so. Prospective buyers will be shown by the undersigned.

"Roddy" To Sing In France.

Home Roddier has gone to teach Pershing's boys how to sing "Brighten the Corner Where You Are". Escorting his celebrated old trombone, wearing the Y. M. C. A. uniform, Billy Sunday's chorus master will be a soldier song leader for the duration of the war. "Roddy" is to specialize in the one song he will especially favor, but plans to give a series of non-evangelistic successes, such as "The Last Long Mile" and "Good Morning Mr. Zip Zip Zip".

Getting Up In The Morning.

Getting up at three o'clock in the morning was the toughest feature of his job in France declares Walter Plank, a Y. M. C. A. man who has just returned to his home in Jeromeville, Ohio, after ten months' service overseas. From other sources it was learned that most of the time Plank was in France he was in "Y" hats and dugouts under almost incessant shell fire. But he feared the German Big Bertha less than he did his own Big Ben.

"How I used to groan when the call came," says Plank, "because I never was an early bird by choice." But when I thought of those younger men soon to come in from their long night of trench duty I jumped out from under the covers and into my clothes and by the time they arrived at the "Y" but the coffee and chocolate were standing on the stove. "If the American people could see the satisfaction rendered the fighting men by this simple service they'd dig twice as deeply into their pockets when comes the November United War Work Campaign drive."

Where Bullets

Are Flying.

Rev. Mandeville J. Barker, late rector of the Episcopal church in Uniontown, Pa. has been commended for valor by the commander of the brigade to which he is attached as Y. M. C. A. worker, the news coming direct to the National War Work Council of the Y. M. C. A. Major T. N. Vail of Harrisburg, Pa. was in command of the machine gun detachment which went in advance of the infantry in an attack on positions at Glenness. Captain John Waes of Scranton, Pa. led a group that got into some of the hottest places. Out in front of them all toiled Mr. Barker, working along on hands and knees and finding plenty of calls for his handkerchiefs and dressings. He succored Americans and Germans alike, at one time being twenty yards of a German outpost, hidden only by slight rise in the ground.

The Whimsical Thug.

Between one and two million French soldiers have been killed during the war, and over nine hundred thousand of the British. And as evacuation proceeds on the edge of Flanders the Germans enter the houses of villagers and destroy the intricate mechanism of the lace-making machines which yield them a livelihood. The Potsdam mania is debited with both the foregoing items in his account. The former looks the more portentous, but there is a special significance in the latter. As a contribution to war activity lace ranks at zero. The villagers who made it will probably be employed in munition shops at present, and, if anything, the allied cause will gain a little thereby. But only a little. Economically, the whole incident is unimportant.

And therein lies its real importance. Destruction is by this time an instinct with the Prussian command, to be practiced ever when no military advantage accrues. It is done mechanically—almost unconsciously. These wanton cruelties cause grief to the owners of the machines, but no detriment to the allied armies.

The sheer clumsiness of these acts of malice enable us to see a little further into the enemy's character, but only a little further than we have already seen. Now that talk of a peace conference is in the air it is fortunate that we are familiar with the intimate peculiarities that characterize those who seek reconciliation with us. We are less likely to accept promises without guarantees.

WOOD FUEL

Must Be Used This Winter, and Should Be Prepared Now.

The government gives no assurance that we will get as much coal this winter as last by many thousand tons and those with wood on their places should use it and leave the coal for those with no wood.

As the cool weather approaches, the fuel question again becomes a timely and very pressing one. Repeated warnings have gone out that there is a coal shortage to face, and with the experience of last winter's attempt to make an inadequate coal supply meet the stimulated demand in bitter weather early and effective measures should be taken to get out wood everywhere it can be had.

Now is the time to cut it when unskilled labor is available and to give time for seasoning. Even with other pressing work there are a number of days at this season on most farms which can be used in getting out wood fuel.

Many farms now have their home supplies, but in certain localities not much is cut beyond this amount. This means no reserve for the villages that are likely to be without coal at some time through the coming winter. Can not this be foreseen by the community leaders? Action is called for now, whether a particular village may be fortunate enough or not to get coal. A reserve stock of wood should be on hand in any event. Coal may be supplied the early part of the winter and fall later when most needed because of insufficient production or tied-up transportation. Either event will cause hardship and suffering unless a reserve is on hand.

To insure safety at this point, get out an ample reserve supply of wood fuel now while there is a chance to cut it and season it.
