

MRS. BEARDSLEY

Writes Of Her Trip East--Daughter Of W. N. Head, Of Louisville--Takes In All The Sights.

"My Dear Folks!"—It was your desire, when we left Louisville, that we should write you a full descriptive letter of our journey.

On Sunday, Dec. 22, 1913, at 1:10 p. m., we left over the Pennsylvania Limited for New York City, and arrived at Cincinnati that same evening at 5 p. m., where we met Jasper. From Cincinnati we continued our journey to Columbus, Ohio, where the trains come in below the street, and one has to climb a long flight of stairs to reach the surface.

We reached Pittsburg, Pa., at 1:15, Monday morning through dense curtains of smoke, as it is a smelting and manufacturing city and is very dirty and smoky. We got only a glimpse of Pittsburg from our pullman window as the train did not lay over long, and it was very dark. The time changes one hour at Pittsburg in advance of Louisville time.

Just before reaching Harrisburg, the capitol of Pennsylvania, the train crossed a bridge supported by a great many piers built so close together that it would be impossible for a boat to pass under. From the depot at Harrisburg we had a good view of the State Capitol building arising in majestic, white beauty in the distance. After leaving Harrisburg, Pa., we passed close to the Elliott-Fisher Typewriter Mfg. Plant, which operates a force of about 1,000 men day and night.

We reached Philadelphia, Pa., at noon which ended the trip across the state of Pennsylvania. The Broad Street station at Philadelphia is one of the most modern and fully equipped railroad stations in the world. All through Pennsylvania we passed large smelting and manufacturing plants, and we also saw many Quakers wearing their quaint, old-fashioned costumes. We crossed from Philadelphia into Camden, N. J., and continued on our journey to New York City.

New Jersey land stretches out low, flat and sandy as far as eye can see, and all the farm houses are built on the modern city style plans. The farms seem to be well worked showing utmost care given them by thrifty farmers. At Manhattan Junction the electric locomotive was coupled to the train, as steam locomotives cannot enter New York City.

We reached New York City Monday afternoon, Dec. 23, 1913, at 2:55 amid much hustle and confusion, and met Mother Beardsley in the new Pennsylvania depot at 7th Ave., and 32nd St. So much for the trip, and now we will endeavor to give you a brief and graphic description of the sights and incidents accompanying our stay in New York City.

New York City is very busy, very large and very noisy, but, in spite of all this, a very beautiful and instructive place. The constant clatter of surface traffic, the ceaseless rumble of elevated trains overhead and the never ending rush of subways underneath greatly confuse a new comer. The first interesting sight was the Woolworth Building rearing its lofty head 54 stories in the air and resembling a mammoth marble monument piercing the sky. During our stay in New York City we saw the Aquarium at Battery Park which is a two story round building containing every description of fine fish from the miniature fishes to the large seals. One fish in particular, which is very interesting, was the horse fish which is very small, having a horse shaped head and a curved tail, and resembling closely in appearance, the pawns used on a chess board. We also saw at Battery Park the emigrants landing from foreign shores after having passed examination at Ellis Island. The men wore costumes peculiar to the foreign countries, while the women wore brilliant and gaudy van colored dresses.

Another day was spent at the Art Museum, which contains innumerable master-pieces of art, hardwork, together with ancient and historical relics. It takes about three weeks to see the full collection. We next visited the Museum of Natural History, occupying one square block and to which an immense addition is being built on. This building is four stories high and contains stuffed birds, animals and fish of all sorts, and also a very valuable collection of precious stones. Several ancient mummies are exhibited in this building together with relics found in Indian mounds. These mummies are estimated by scientists to be hundreds of years old. The old custodian of this building stated that a young professor had spent over a year in the building and had not yet acquired a complete knowledge of the contents.

We also spent one afternoon at the Hippodrome which is another building occupying a square block. This is a massive theatre building standing five stories high. They are now playing the descriptive show, entitled "Under Many Flags." The stage is of enormous proportions and would make four ordinary stages. It is convex, and the curtain drops instead of rising. In the course of the performance, each country was represented and there were at least 14 horses on the stage at one time beside the thousand or more actors and the heavy settings. The seating capacity of the theatre is

After Long Suffering

Women Are Constantly Being Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"Worth mountains of gold," says one woman. Another says, "I would not give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for all the other medicines for women in the world." Still another writes, "I should like to have the merits of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound thrown on the sky with a searchlight so that all suffering women could read and be convinced that there is a remedy for their ills."

We could fill a newspaper ten times the size of this with such quotations taken from the letters we have received from grateful women whose health has been restored and suffering banished by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Why has Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound accomplished such a universal success? Why has it lived and thrived and kept on doing its glorious work among the sick women of the world for more than 30 years?

Simply and surely because of its sterling worth. The reason no other medicine has ever approached its success is plainly and simply because there is no other medicine so good for women's ills.

Here are two letters that just came to the writer's desk—only two of thousands, but both tell a comforting story to every suffering woman who will read them—and be guided by them.

FROM MRS. D. H. BROWN.

Iola, Kansas.—"During the Change of Life I was sick for two years. Before I took your medicine I could not bear the weight of my clothes and was bloated very badly. I doctored with three doctors but they did me no good. They said nature must have its way. My sister advised me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I purchased a bottle. Before it was gone the bloating left me and I was not so sore. I continued taking it until I had taken 12 bottles. Now I am stronger than I have been for years and can do all my work, even the washing. Your medicine is worth its weight in gold. I cannot praise it enough. If more women would take your medicine there would be more healthy women. You may use this letter for the good of others."—Mrs. D. H. Brown, 809 North Walnut Street, Iola, Kan.

MRS. WILLIAMS SAYS:

Elkhart, Ind.—"I suffered for 14 years from organic inflammation, female weakness, pain and irregularities. The pains in my sides were increased by walking or standing on my feet and I had such full bearing down feelings, was depressed in spirits and became thin and pale with dull, heavy eyes. I had six doctors from whom I received only temporary relief. I decided to give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a fair trial and also the Sanitive Wash. I have now used the remedies for four months and cannot express my thanks for what they have done for me.—Mrs. SADIE WILLIAMS, 455 James Street, Elkhart, Indiana.

5,200 and it contains rest rooms, drug stores, candy stores, soda fountains, physician's office, hospital, cloak rooms and all other most modern conveniences. On either side of the stage are five story houses divided into commodious dressing rooms for the thousand or more people appearing on the stage. Beneath the stage is a tremendous water tank 14 feet in depth built of concrete and steel and the entire front of the stage can be submerged, making this a real lake of water, capable of taking the heavy plunges of rushing horses. This tank is so constructed and secretly so, that the performers may dive to its bottom and either remain or arise again.

The Woolworth 5 and 10c store in Brooklyn is a very, very large store. The restaurants are all of pure white marble, and very clean and sanitary.

Before leaving New York, we went one stormy night to Coney Island down by the seashore and watched the angry, foaming breakers dash against the shore. This was a marvelous and fearful sight. Coney Island is a very, very large amusement place, and is operated on a small scale during the winter.

On Monday, Jan. 6, 1913, we left New York, arriving at the Willow Grove farm in the afternoon. The Willow Grove farm which father Beardsley has purchased is a flat farm on the edge of a large lake. The farm contains a modern nine room city dwelling house, a nice barr, wagon shed, and chicken houses, and also 500 apple trees, 30 cherry trees, 500 pear trees, 1,500 peach trees, strawberry plants and grape vines, all full bearing in season.

Now as we have taken you on our journey from Louisville, Ky., to our present home at Willow Grove Farm, N. J., we will leave you for the present with kindest regards and many good wishes. Devot dly yours, Mr. and Mrs. Chas M. Beardsley, Willow Grove Farm, Newfield, New Jersey. R. F. D. No. 2.

Smallpox in Hawesville.

It was reported here early in the week that three cases of smallpox had developed in Hawesville. As a result the schools of that city have been closed and the persons affected placed under quarantine. It is said Owensboro has about 400 cases and Evansville has at least twice that number. The authorities in the larger cities have been exceptionally careless about preventing the spread of the disease.—Cannelton Enquirer.
